ITEM 4. SUMMARY OF MATERIAL CHANGE

AETerna reported the results of the Phase III trial in renal cell carcinoma evaluating Neovastat, the Corporation's antiangiogenic compound, and the results showed that the study did not meet its primary endpoint of improving overall median survival time. However, significant survival advantage was observed in a subgroup of healthier patients with clear cell histology and only a single metastatic site. This 38 patient subgroup showed a median survival time of 26.3 months for those treated with Neovastat compared to 12.6 months for patients receiving a placebo (p = 0.0236).

This randomized, double-blind, placebo-controlled study was conducted in approximately 50 hospitals and clinical centers throughout Canada, the United States and Europe. It was designed to evaluate the efficacy of AETerna's antiangiogenic treatment, Neovastat, in prolonging survival of patients with progressive metastatic renal cell carcinoma, refractory to immunotherapy.

Patient recruitment opened in May 2000 and was completed in December 2001. The trial involved 305 patients who had failed to respond to immunotherapy. From this number, 153 patients were administered Neovastat, while 152 patients were given a placebo. Overall median survival for the Neovastat group was 12.4 months compared to 12.3 months for the placebo group. Analysis of a pre-planned stratification showed that healthier patients with clear cell histology showed statistically significant clinical benefit, 26.3 months for Neovastat versus 12.6 months for the placebo group.
