John Mieske to Coordinate Joint Merger Integration Planning

Peter McDonald announced today that John Mieske will start work on Monday, August 27th, as a consultant to oversee coordination of integration planning for the proposed merger of Dex One and SuperMedia.

I am pleased to welcome John at this exciting moment for both companies, Peter said. He has spent over 30 years in the local media business, most recently at Dex One, so he can hit the ground running and get merger planning off to a fast start.

Peter and Alfred Mockett met this morning with their direct reports to kick-off the merger planning process and introduced John. The merger integration planning will be a four step process involving:

- evaluating current processes, organization and performance;
- agreeing upon strategy, priorities and objectives to drive transformation and growth of the combined company post-merger;
- creating an integration and change plan to achieve the objectives; and
- defining the organization and staffing to support the plan.

Counterpart officers from each company will be responsible for driving integration planning for the functions that they oversee. John's role will be to gather information from both companies to support the work of the joint officer teams, and to present it in common format using consistent metrics and analytical methodology. He also will coordinate activities among the teams and keep the overall effort on schedule.

John has 33 years of finance and operations experience, including Accounting, Treasury, Financial Analysis, Business Planning, Publishing, Information Technology, Human Resources, Customer Service, Printing & Distribution, and Billing & Collections. He has an extensive background in mergers and acquisitions and business integration, playing key leadership roles in the integration of RHD/Sprint Publishing, RHD/SBC Chicago and RHD/Dex.

Edgar Filing: SUPERMEDIA INC. - Form 425

John's extensive experience in financial management, business planning, operational efficiency and quality results will help the two companies integrate best practices and efficient processes. While at Dex, John successfully led the merger and integration activities for the operations and operational finance functions through three major mergers that grew the company over 500 percent to $2.7 billion in sales.

With John's help, the companies hope to complete merger integration planning prior to the close of the merger sometime in the fourth quarter. Employee communications will provide periodic updates on integration planning as milestones are completed.

Feel free to send any questions you have about the merger to Employee Communications or through our Direct Line on inSite.

Forward-Looking Statements

Certain statements contained in this document are forward-looking statements subject to the safe harbor created by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, including but not limited to, statements about the benefits of the proposed transaction and combined company, including future financial and operating results and synergies, plans, objectives, expectations and intentions and other statements relating to the proposed transaction and the combined company that are not historical facts. Where possible, the words believe, expect, anticipate, intend, should, will, would, planned, estimated, potential, goal, outlook, may, predicts, could, or the negative of such terms, or other comparable expressions, as they relate to Dex, SuperMedia, the combined company or their respective management, have been used to identify such forward-looking statements. All forward-looking statements reflect only Dex's and SuperMedia's current beliefs and assumptions with respect to future business plans, prospects, decisions and results, and are based on information currently available to Dex and SuperMedia. Accordingly, the statements are subject to significant risks, uncertainties and contingencies, which could cause Dex's, SuperMedia's or the combined company's actual operating results, performance or business plans or prospects to differ materially from those expressed in, or implied by, these statements.

Factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from current expectations include risks and other factors described in Dex's and SuperMedia's publicly available reports filed with the SEC, which contain discussions of various factors that may affect the business or financial results of Dex, SuperMedia or the combined company. Such risks and other factors, which in some instances are beyond either company's control, include: the continuing decline in the use of print directories; increased competition, particularly from existing and emerging digital technologies; ongoing weak economic conditions and continued decline in advertising sales; the companies' ability to collect trade receivables from customers to whom they extend credit; the companies' ability to generate sufficient cash to service their debt; the companies' ability to comply with the financial covenants contained in their debt agreements and the potential impact to operations and liquidity as a result of restrictive covenants in such debt agreements; the companies' ability to refinance or restructure their debt on reasonable terms and conditions as might be necessary from time to time; increasing interest rates; changes in the companies' and the companies' subsidiaries credit ratings; changes in accounting standards; regulatory changes and judicial rulings impacting the companies' businesses; adverse results from litigation, governmental investigations or tax related proceedings or audits; the effect of labor strikes, lock-outs and negotiations; successful realization of the expected benefits of acquisitions, divestitures and joint ventures; the companies' ability to maintain agreements with major Internet search and local media companies; the companies' reliance on third-party vendors for various services; and other events beyond their control that may result in unexpected adverse operating results.

With respect to the proposed merger, important factors could cause actual results to differ materially from those indicated by forward-looking statements included herein, including, but not limited to, the ability of Dex and SuperMedia to consummate the transaction on the terms set forth in the merger agreement; the risk that anticipated cost savings, growth opportunities and other financial and operating benefits as a result of the transaction may not be realized or may take longer to realize than expected; the risk that benefits from the transaction may be significantly offset by costs incurred in integrating the companies; potential adverse impacts or delay in completing the transaction as a result of obtaining consents from lenders to Dex or SuperMedia; failure to receive the approval of the stockholders of either Dex or SuperMedia for the transaction; and difficulties in connection with the process of integrating Dex and SuperMedia, including: coordinating geographically separate organizations; integrating business cultures, which could prove to be incompatible; difficulties and costs of integrating information technology systems; and the potential difficulty in retaining key officers and personnel. These risks, as well as other risks associated with the merger, will be more fully discussed in the proxy statement/prospectus included in the registration statement on Form S-4 that Newdex intends to file with the SEC in connection with the proposed transaction.
