Hanson announces sale of its 50% interest in North Texas Cement for $125.4 million

Hanson PLC, the international building materials company, has agreed the sale of its 50% interest in North Texas Cement Company ( NTCC ) to its joint venture partner, Ash Grove Cement Company, for $125.4 million (£78.8m) in cash, subject to final adjustments. The disposal is expected to complete in early January 2003.

NTCC's facilities include a 900,000 tons p.a. cement plant in Midlothian, Texas (southwest of Dallas) and a cement import terminal in Houston, Texas. Although the cement plant was originally constructed in 1965, Hanson's investment in NTCC dates from its acquisition of Pioneer International Limited in 2000.

The sale reflects Hanson's strategy of focussing on its core products of aggregates and related products, concrete products and clay bricks. Following the sale, Hanson's ready-mixed concrete operations in the region will continue to benefit from cement supply agreements with NTCC.

The book value of the investment being sold is approximately £94 million, including goodwill of approximately £33 million. Pending completion of the disposal, the investment has been written down to its net realisable value and a corresponding non-operating exceptional item will be reported in Hanson's 2002 results. Net disposal proceeds, after tax of approximately £19.5 million, will be applied to reduce short term debt.

Commenting on the sale, Alan Murray, chief executive of Hanson PLC, said: "This is a sensible move for both parties. Hanson has no ambitions to be a major cement producer. Our future investment objectives remain focused on value-adding bolt-on acquisitions in our core products."
