SPIRENT COMMUNICATIONS plc

TRADING UPDATE

London, UK - 14 June 2006: Spirent Communications plc (LSE: SPT; NYSE: SPM), a leading communications technology company, is issuing the following trading update today.

Summary

- Revenues for the six months ending 2 July 2006 are expected to be in line with market expectations, during a period of significant product transition.
- Profitability in the Performance Analysis division for the first half is expected to be lower than previously anticipated in our statement on 3 May 2006 by GBP4 million to GBP6 million, which we do not expect to be recovered during the second half.

Edgar Filing: SPIRENT COMMUNICATIONS PLC - Form 6-K

- The Company will continue to carefully manage the balance between the cost base and maintaining the capability to generate long term growth.

Current trading

We reported at the time of the Annual General Meeting on 3 May 2006 that revenue for the first quarter, albeit typically our quietest, was ahead of expectations but that trading was characterised by variable market conditions and a very competitive market place. These trends have continued into the second quarter where we have seen a tough market background with volatility in demand, as has also been reported by other companies in the test and measurement sector.

In addition some short term delays to product launches and our decision to continue to incur a higher level of investment in product development and sales and marketing, to create a stronger long term market position, has also affected profitability in the second quarter.

Although we expect that revenues will be in line with market expectations for the first half, risk remains as to the final outcome as the bulk of our revenues for the second quarter are usually realised during the last weeks of June.

Performance Analysis

- Performance Analysis Broadband continues to manage a significant transition in product revenues, as sales of older platforms decrease and are replaced by the sales of the new product solutions incorporating latest technology. This month we have launched the next release of Spirent TestCenter(TM), which addresses the needs of the IPTV development market and delivers a significant improvement in time to test, unmatched by other providers. We believe that this will deliver significant competitive advantage. However, the launch date was later than planned as we undertook extended engineering efforts to develop and test the latest product release, particularly the increased ability to test large-scale devices to meet leading-edge market requirements. This has delayed revenue upside expected to fund the additional investment in product development during the second quarter. In addition we have extended the period of increased spending on sales and marketing in order to gain market position for the long term, further reducing profits in the short term.
- Performance Analysis Wireless has experienced a slowing in demand in the WCDMA market due to delays in deployment of location based technologies and for conformance test. In addition there have been delays to order intake, resulting in lumpy demand patterns in some parts of the business.

Service Assurance

- The Service Assurance division is expected to meet its planned first half performance; however we expect revenues on legacy products to continue to decline year on year through the second half. We continue to believe that we are well placed to serve the needs of carriers to monitor next-generation networks, however revenues for such solutions are now not expected to be achieved until 2007. We will continue to manage the division to maintain a near break-even result.

Systems

- The Systems group continues to perform profitably and in line with expectations.

Intangibles amortisation and goodwill impairment under International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS")

Edgar Filing: SPIRENT COMMUNICATIONS PLC - Form 6-K

Under IFRS the expected revenue decline in the Service Assurance division is likely to necessitate a further goodwill impairment at the interim stage.

In addition, as required by IFRS, an exercise is being carried out to identify and to determine the fair value of the intangible assets in relation to the acquisitions of SwissQual and QuadTex. Intangible assets identified will be amortised over their remaining lives as an operating expense. Initial indications are that the annualised amortisation charge will be in the region of GBP2.5 million.

Goodwill impairment and amortisation of intangibles do not impact the cash flows of the Company.

Anders Gustafsson, Chief Executive, commented:

"As we indicated previously, 2006 is a year of product transition as the increased capability of our new products and solutions is expected to enable us to gain market share. However delay in orders, the competitive market place and our increased investment are likely to impact profitability in the short term.

"To date we have been encouraged both by the performance of our new products and by the response of our customers with a considerable number of trials of Spirent TestCenter(TM) now underway."

Spirent Communications plc will issue its interim results on 10 August 2006.

- ends -
