Dear Sirs:

As you may be aware, significant shareholders in Gyrodyne (the Company) are extremely unhappy with the continuous and systematic approach of ignoring shareholders' rights while mispending Company money and assets for the personal benefit of members of the Board and the Company's officers.

Shareholders who have put their trust in the Board to do the best it can for the Company are left angry and frustrated due to the disrespect for other people's money - of which the Board, the management and the legal counsel are in charge.

It started with the excessively generous stock option plan for Board members and officers. This program poses to dilute shareholders by over 20% which is egregious by any measure but particularly for this Company which is not really a going concern but just holds some assets whose appreciation seems to be little affected by steps taken by management.

It continues with a development plan that exposes the shareholders to considerable risk due to the time period and massive investment required while no real management expertise exists at the Company for such plans.

Edgar Filing: GYRODYNE CO OF AMERICA INC - Form SC 13D/A

Obviously, the ones to benefit from the long time horizon for such plans are the current Board members and officers who can keep their jobs for many years to come.

The Company's legal counsel can also enjoy the benefits of such grand plans that require many contracts and drafts. Shouldn't shareholders voice their opinions about the big conflict of interest that exists here when the Chairman of the Board is a partner in the law firm that serves as legal counsel to the Company?

As we all know by now, no real results have been achieved on any front.

The by-laws have been arranged so that shareholders of almost any size and capacity will not be able to be represented in the Board and interfere with the plans of the current Board (made up of people who own virtually no stake in the Company other than options). I have never seen a Board that successfully fights the true owners of the Company over time. The interest of the shareholders must ultimately be served.

To date, all attempts to resolve the unpleasant situation for the shareholders through amicable means have failed. Our attempts to meet with either the Chairman and/or the CEO have failed. I personally prefer negotiations between us rather than an exchange of letters.

Confronted with the imperative to make important decisions that will significantly affect shareholder value, the Company appears uninterested in the views and concerns of its owners. We find it strange and troubling that the Company is unavailable to meet even with those shareholders who are willing to help fashion an appropriate resolution of the challenges posed by SUNY's announced intention to take a significant portion of the assets of the Company.

We are now extremely determined to allow shareholders to be involved in the management of their Company. We propose a meeting in the near future to explore shareholder input relevant to the future of our investment.

You should know that the members of the Board are exposed at this stage.

We are counting on the Board to do the right thing. Now it's up to the Board.

Sincerely,

Kellogg Capital Group, LLC
