Item 1.01 Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement

On August 10, 2005, ProQuest Business Solutions (PQBS), a subsidiary of ProQuest Company, and General Motors Corporation (GM) entered into an amendment to PQBS 's existing current electronic parts catalog data license agreement with GM to extend the term of that agreement through August 2011 and to increase the royalty fee paid to GM. Under the agreement, GM licenses catalog data to PQBS and PQBS pays a license fee to GM for the data. Upon termination of the agreement, PQBS will continue to receive catalog data to support its customers for a period of three years. For new agreements entered into with GM dealers after August 10, 2005, the amended data license agreement limits the price PQBS may charge dealers upon deployment of the next generation electronic parts catalog discussed below.

In connection with the extension, GM also authorized PQBS to develop a next generation electronic parts catalog that will provide for local and Internet delivery of parts and service information to the GM dealers in the United States and Canada. This next generation electronic parts catalog is expected to be offered by PQBS to GM dealers in the United States and Canada in the second half of 2006. In addition, GM will use the next generation parts catalog for internal use and GM will host the electronic parts catalog for Internet delivery to GM dealers. PQBS has agreed to provide support services to GM for a period of five (5) years after GM receives the next generation electronic parts catalog for no additional fee.

The amendment and related agreements will be filed as exhibits to ProQuest Company 's quarterly report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ending October 1, 2005, with portions omitted and filed separately with the Securities and Exchange Commission pursuant to a request for confidential treatment.
