Item 1.02 Termination of a Material Definitive Agreement.

On September 28, 2010, AVEO Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (AVEO) received notice from Merck & Co., Inc. (Merck) of termination of the Research, Development and License Agreement which has an effective date of April 25, 2007 (the Agreement) pursuant to Section 12.3 of the Agreement (the Termination Notice). Termination of the Agreement is effective as of December 27, 2010. Under the Agreement, Merck was granted worldwide rights to develop and commercialize AV-299 (also known as SCH900105), AVEO s anti-hepatocyte growth factor antibody candidate. Merck funded all research and development expenses and was obligated to pay development milestones and, as applicable, royalties on product sales. AVEO retained primary responsibility for certain development activities through completion of the first Phase 2 proof-of-concept trial, and for conducting translational research to guide the clinical development of AV-299, as well as the option to co-promote AV-299 in the U.S. for certain oncology indications. The information set forth in Item 8.01 below is incorporated herein by reference.

As of September 28, 2010, Merck owned approximately 5.2% of AVEO s outstanding common stock.

Item 8.01 Other Events.

On September 30, 2010, AVEO announced that it has regained worldwide rights from Merck (through its subsidiary, Schering Corporation) to develop and commercialize AV-299 pursuant to the Termination Notice. The full text of AVEO s press release issued in connection with this announcement is filed as Exhibit 99.1 to this Current Report on Form 8-K and is incorporated herein by reference.
