EXELON, CONSTELLATION ANNOUNCE LEADERSHIP TEAM

FOR COMBINED COMMERCIAL BUSINESS

Huston, Nigro, Duckworth and Quinn

to comprise senior team, reporting to Constellation president and CEO

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CHICAGO and BALTIMORE (Dec. 14, 2011) Exelon (NYSE:EXC) and Constellation (NYSE: CEG) today announced the executive team that will run the Constellation business unit following the closing of the companies' planned merger.

As we continue to plan for the seamless integration of Exelon and Constellation, we are pleased to announce the individuals who will lead our combined retail and wholesale businesses, said Kenneth W. Cornew, who following the merger will become executive vice president and chief commercial officer of Exelon and president and CEO of Constellation. The team we're naming today reflects the enormous wealth of talent we have across both companies. We stand ready to lead the nation's leading energy manager and competitive supplier, and to ensure that our customers continue to receive the level of service they have come to expect from Constellation and Exelon.

The post-merger senior leadership team at Constellation will include the following executives, reporting directly to Cornew:

Mark Huston, currently managing director/head of Retail Energy at Constellation, will become senior vice president, Retail, with responsibility for all aspects of Constellation's retail power, gas, solar/renewable, load response, energy efficiency and services businesses.

Joseph Nigro, currently senior vice president of Portfolio Management and Strategy at Exelon, will become senior vice president, Portfolio Strategy, with responsibility for portfolio management, market fundamentals, pricing, quantitative analytics and transmission, strategic systems and business operations, integration management and commercial transactions.

Max Duckworth, currently co-head of Commodities at Constellation, will become senior vice president, Proprietary Trading and Fuels, with responsibility for fuels, environmental and emission risk management and execution, upstream exploration and production, and proprietary trading (fuels, power and weather).

Edward Quinn, currently co-head of Commodities at Constellation, will become senior vice president, Wholesale Trading and Origination, with responsibility for wholesale trading and origination and portfolio operations.

The leaders announced today will become engaged in the organizational design process, which is currently underway, and help finalize their post-merger organizations.

Exelon and Constellation plan to make additional leadership announcements for the remainder of the company in early 2012.

Pending all required approvals, Exelon and Constellation expect to complete their merger in early 2012. On Aug. 3, the Public Utility Commission of Texas approved the merger. Shareholders of both companies overwhelmingly approved the transaction on Nov. 17. Other required approvals include the Maryland Public Service Commission, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the New York State Public Service Commission and the Department of Justice.

Cautionary Statements Regarding Forward-Looking Information

Except for the historical information contained herein, certain of the matters discussed in this communication constitute forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, both as amended by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Words such as may, will, anticipate, estimate, expect, project, intend, plan, believe, target, and terms of similar substance used in connection with any discussion of future plans, actions, or events identify forward-looking statements. These forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements regarding benefits of the proposed merger of Exelon Corporation (Exelon) and Constellation Energy Group, Inc. (Constellation), integration plans and expected synergies, the expected timing of completion of the transaction, anticipated future financial and operating performance and results, including estimates for growth. These statements are based on the current expectations of management of Exelon and Constellation, as applicable. There are a number of risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from the forward-looking statements included in this communication regarding the proposed merger. For example, (1) the companies may be unable to obtain regulatory approvals required for the merger, or required regulatory approvals may delay the merger or result in the imposition of conditions that could have a material adverse effect on the combined company or cause the companies to abandon the merger; (2) conditions to the closing of the merger may not be satisfied; (3) an unsolicited offer of another company to acquire assets or capital stock of Exelon or Constellation could interfere with the merger; (4) problems may arise in successfully integrating the businesses of the companies, which may result in the combined company not operating as effectively and efficiently as expected; (5) the combined company may be unable to achieve cost-cutting synergies or it may take longer than expected to achieve those synergies; (6) the merger may involve unexpected costs, unexpected liabilities or unexpected delays, or the effects of purchase accounting may be different from the companies' expectations; (7) the credit ratings of the combined company or its subsidiaries may be different from what the companies expect; (8) the businesses of the companies may suffer as a result of uncertainty surrounding the merger; (9) the companies may not realize the values expected to be obtained for properties expected or required to be divested; (10) the industry may be subject to future regulatory or legislative actions that could adversely affect the companies; and (11) the companies may be adversely affected by other economic, business, and/or competitive factors. Other unknown or unpredictable factors could also have material adverse effects on future results, performance or achievements of Exelon, Constellation or the combined company. Discussions of some of these other important factors and assumptions are contained in Exelon's and Constellation's respective filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), and available at the SEC's website at www.sec.gov, including: (1) Exelon's 2010 Annual Report on Form 10-K in (a) ITEM 1A. Risk Factors, (b) ITEM 7. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations and (c) ITEM 8. EXELON NAMES RISK LEADERSHIP TEAM

FOR COMBINED EXELON-CONSTELLATION

Veteran risk manager Glace to report to CEO

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Chicago, IL and Baltimore, MD (December 14, 2011) Exelon (NYSE:EXC) today announced that upon closing of the Exelon-Constellation merger, Joseph R. Glace will become senior vice president and chief risk officer for the combined company, reporting to president and CEO Christopher M. Crane. Glace is currently vice president and chief risk officer for Exelon. In his new role, he will serve as a member of Exelon's Executive Committee.

The new Exelon will have a significantly increased scope across the energy value chain. It is vital to our future success that we diligently manage risk from an independent and enterprise-wide perspective. The senior team we're announcing today reflects strong leadership from Exelon and Constellation. In particular, with 31 years of leadership in the energy industry—including more than a decade of managing risk—we are very confident in Joe Glace and his ability to run this increasingly critical function," said Crane.

Crane added that the elevated reporting relationship from the chief risk officer to the CEO reflects Exelon's objective of further instilling a risk management culture throughout the organization, as well as the significantly increased scale of its post-merger commercial business.

Reporting to Glace upon completion of the merger will be the following executives:

Brenda L. Boulton, currently senior vice president and chief risk officer for Constellation, will become senior vice president, Enterprise Risk Management, Credit Risk and Trading Policy Compliance.

Michael G. Pechin, currently director, Credit and Risk Analytics for Exelon's Power Team business, will become vice president, Wholesale Operations.

Daniel M. Scobell, currently director, Portfolio Management for Exelon's Power Team business, will become vice president, Market Risk and Analytics.

In addition, Robert J. Gauch, currently vice president, Credit Risk, will remain in that role in the combined company, reporting to Boulton.

Pending all required approvals, Exelon and Constellation expect to complete their merger in early 2012. On Aug. 3, the Public Utility Commission of Texas approved the merger. Shareholders of both companies overwhelmingly approved the transaction on Nov. 17. Other required approvals include the Maryland Public Service Commission, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the New York State Public Service Commission and the Department of Justice.

Cautionary Statements Regarding Forward-Looking Information

Except for the historical information contained herein, certain of the matters discussed in this communication constitute forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, both as amended by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Words such as may, will, anticipate, estimate, expect, project, intend, plan, believe, target, and terms of similar substance used in connection with any discussion of future plans, actions, or events identify forward-looking statements. These forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements regarding benefits of the proposed merger of Exelon Corporation (Exelon) and Constellation Energy Group, Inc. (Constellation), integration plans and expected synergies, the expected timing of completion of the transaction, anticipated future financial and operating performance and results, including estimates for growth. These statements are based on the current expectations of management of Exelon and Constellation, as applicable. There are a number of risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from the forward-looking statements included in this communication regarding the proposed merger. For example, (1) the companies may be unable to obtain regulatory approvals required for the merger, or required regulatory approvals may delay the merger or result in the imposition of conditions that could have a material adverse effect on the combined company or cause the companies to abandon the merger; (2) conditions to the closing of the merger may not be satisfied; (3) an unsolicited offer of another company to acquire assets or capital stock of Exelon or Constellation could interfere with the merger; (4) problems may arise in successfully integrating the businesses of the companies, which may result in the combined company not operating as effectively and efficiently as expected; (5) the combined company may be unable to achieve cost-cutting synergies or it may take longer than expected to achieve those synergies; (6) the merger may involve unexpected costs, unexpected liabilities or unexpected delays, or the effects of purchase accounting may be different from the companies' expectations; (7) the credit ratings of the combined company or its subsidiaries may be different from what the companies expect; (8) the businesses of the companies may suffer as a result of uncertainty surrounding the merger; (9) the companies may not realize the values expected to be obtained for properties expected or required to be divested; (10) the industry may be subject to future regulatory or legislative actions that could adversely affect the companies; and (11) the companies may be adversely affected by other economic, business, and/or competitive factors. Other unknown or unpredictable factors could also have material adverse effects on future results, performance or achievements of Exelon, Constellation or the combined company. Discussions of some of these other important factors and assumptions are contained in Exelon's and Constellation's respective filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), and available at the SEC's website at www.sec.gov, including: (1) Exelon's 2010 Annual Report on Form 10-K in (a) ITEM 1A. Risk Factors, (b) ITEM 7. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations and (c) ITEM 8. Financial Statements and Supplementary Data: Note 18; (2) Exelon's Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarterly period ended September 30, 2011 in (a) Part II, Other Information, ITEM 1A. Risk Factors, (b) Part 1, Financial Information, ITEM 2. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations and (c) Part I, Financial Information, ITEM 1. Financial Statements: Note 13; (3) Constellation's 2010 Annual Report on Form 10-K in (a) ITEM 1A. Risk Factors, (b) ITEM 7. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations and (c) ITEM 8. Financial Statements and Supplementary Data: Note 12; and (4) Constellation's Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarterly period ended September 30, 2011 in (a) Part II, Other Information, ITEM 1A. Risk Factors and ITEM 5. Other Information, (b) Part I, Financial Information, ITEM 2. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations and (c) Part I, Financial Information, ITEM 1. Financial Statements: Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements, Commitments and Contingencies. These risks, as well as other risks associated with the proposed merger, are more fully discussed in the definitive joint proxy statement/prospectus included in the Registration Statement on Form S-4 that Exelon filed with the SEC and that the SEC declared effective on October 11, 2011 in connection with the proposed merger. In light of these risks, uncertainties, assumptions and factors, the forward-looking events discussed in this communication may not occur. Readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements, which speak only as of the date of this communication. Neither Exelon nor Constellation undertake any obligation to publicly release any revision to its forward-looking statements to reflect events or circumstances after the date of this communication.
