Item 2.02 Results of Operations and Financial Condition.

On May 16, 2012 following the filing of our Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended April 1, 2012 (the Form 10-Q), Intermec, Inc. (we, our or the Company) issued a press release announcing our final financial results for the first fiscal quarter ended April 1, 2012. A copy of the press release is furnished as Exhibit 99.1 to this Current Report and is incorporated herein by reference (the Press Release).

The Press Release includes the following Non-GAAP financial measures for the three months ended April 1, 2012:

operating income;

net earnings;

earnings per diluted share;

earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization (EBITDA); and gross margins.

The Press Release describes two significant non-cash expenses recorded by the Company pursuant to generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP). They are the recording of valuation allowances of $206.9 million against the Company's U.S. net deferred tax assets, and an expense of $14.9 million for impairment of goodwill. Both are discussed in more detail in Item 2.06 below.

Our Non-GAAP measures should be read in conjunction with the corresponding GAAP measures. The Non-GAAP measures should be considered in addition to, and not as an alternative or substitute for, the measures prepared in accordance with GAAP.

We believe that excluding items such as, but not limited to, allowances for deferred tax assets, impairment charges, restructuring charges (principally related to severance costs in connection with distinct organizational initiatives to reduce costs and improve operational efficiency), costs related to completion of acquisitions and certain opening balance sheet accounting adjustments, goodwill impairments, amortization of intangibles and non-cash stock based compensation expenses provides supplemental information useful to investors and management's understanding of Intermec's core operating results, especially when comparing those results on a consistent basis to results for previous periods and anticipated results for future periods.

The foregoing information in this Item 2.02 is furnished and shall not be deemed filed for purposes of Section 18 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, nor shall it be deemed incorporated by reference in any filing under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.

Item 2.06 Material Impairments.

Deferred Tax Asset Valuation Allowance

In the process of completing the Company's procedures for closing its financial records for the quarter ended April 1, 2012, the Company determined that pursuant to GAAP it would record valuation allowance of $206.9 million against the Company's U.S. net deferred tax assets. The action resulted in a non-cash expense in the first fiscal quarter of 2012 in the amount of the additional valuation allowance. The Company's U.S. net deferred tax assets totaled approximately $14.0 million as of April 1, 2012 after recording the additional valuation allowance.

A valuation allowance is required by U.S. GAAP if it is more likely than not that all or a part of a deferred tax asset cannot be realized in the future. After considering a number of factors, most significantly the Company's historical cumulative GAAP losses for the three-year period preceding the quarter and its forecast for U.S. profitability for the remainder of the year, the Company recorded a non-cash charge for the balance of the U.S. net deferred tax asset.

Edgar Filing: Intermec, Inc. - Form 8-K

More information regarding the valuation allowance for deferred tax assets, including a description of the GAAP standard for recording the allowance and the evidence evaluated by the Company in performing its assessment, can be found in Note 8 to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in the Company's Form 10-Q filed today.

Impairment of Goodwill

The Company also concluded while closing its quarterly financial records that, as prescribed by GAAP, it would record a charge of approximately $14.9 million for impairment of goodwill related to its Voice Solutions business segment subsidiary in the Company's results for the quarter ended April 1, 2012. The impairment was based on an analysis of a number of factors after a decline in the Company's market capitalization following the Company's first quarter 2012 earnings announcements.

The impairment recorded in first quarter 2012 is an estimate based on the Company's completion of step one of the goodwill impairment analysis under GAAP. The Company expects to complete the second step of the analysis when it prepares its financial results for the second quarter of 2012. Any additional adjustment to the impairment amount will be recorded at that time as necessary.

More information regarding the Company's goodwill impairment, including a description of steps one and two of the analysis, and the approaches taken in the analysis of goodwill, can be found in Note 16 to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in the Company's Form 10-Q filed today.

General

The non-cash charges for the U.S. net deferred tax assets valuation allowance and for the goodwill impairment are not expected to impact the Company's future cash flow, liquidity, or compliance with its debt covenants with third parties, specifically Wells Fargo Bank, National Association.

The description of the non-cash charges for the deferred tax assets valuation allowance and for the goodwill impairment contained in this Item 2.06 does not purport to be complete and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of our Form 10-Q filed today, including Notes 8 and 16 to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included therein, and such descriptions are incorporated herein by reference.
