Item 7.01. Regulation FD Disclosure.

The Company has received questions about our BuzzKill and CBD product Line. The Company felt it was better to answer the questions through an 8-K instead emailing the individuals directly. Our CBD products are an all-natural, water soluble source of CBD that is more bioavailable than any CBD hemp oil products on the market. Your body is composed of over 60% water, so what good is a product that cannot dissolve in water? CBD Hemp Oil products have an extremely poor bioavailability (reports show less than 10%) when compared to our water soluble NanoCBD technology. Why pay full price when you can only utilize a small fraction of it?! With our new technology, CBD hemp oil is obsolete and water soluble is the only way to go. We are setting out to prove that our products are 10x more bioavailable in the body than traditional CBD hemp oil.

Von Baron Farm's CBD Shot and BuzzKill uses NanoCBD. Nano particles (1/100 the width of a human hair) are easier for your body to absorb and transport to where they are needed within your body. We have set out to prove that NanoCBD is over 10x more bioavailable in the body than any oil based CBD currently on the market. Our initial tests show that 10 mg of NanoCBD is the equivalent of taking at least 100 mg of oil based CBD.

Von Baron Farm's CBD Shot and BuzzKill are derived from pharmaceutical grade CBD and contains and contains no THC.

Below is an illustration that explains the differences between NanoCBD and oil based CBD.
