On February 21, 2017, certain communications were provided to employees of Tronox Limited. A copy of the communication is included below.

Dear Colleague,

I am happy to share some exciting news about the future of our company. Today Tronox announced that it has reached a definitive agreement to acquire Cristal's TiO₂ business. The combination of our two global enterprises will create the world's largest TiO₂ pigment company. As a united company we will continue to operate under the name Tronox.

This acquisition is expected to increase our ability to provide great products at the best prices throughout the world. We will grow faster as a combined entity and increase our ability to produce profit by becoming more efficient and participating in more product and geographic markets. It provides us expanded market reach and manufacturing footholds in new regions such as Brazil, the Middle East, and the People's Republic of China.

Tronox also announced that we are commencing a sale process of our Alkali business to raise funds for our purchase of Cristal. The caliber of the Alkali workforce and their commitment to high-quality production are unmatched in the natural soda ash industry. I thank the leadership team and all of our Alkali colleagues for their contributions to Tronox.

In the weeks and months ahead, integration teams will be working to ensure that when the Cristal transaction closes, we are ready to operate as one company, serving customers around the globe. The company will be providing updates on this work throughout this period.

I know that change of this nature raises many questions. We will do our best to address your questions, but please keep in mind that we are the beginning of the journey, and the majority of the integration work, and the answers for many of your questions, are yet to come.

I will be hosting a conference call for investors and analysts this morning (February 21) at 8:30 a.m., New York time. If you are unable to listen to the call live, a link to the playback recording and transcript will be available on Tronet. In addition, a question and answer document and an overview of the Tronox-Cristal combined operations and site locations have been posted on Global Tronet. I encourage you to visit the site to learn more about this news.

Thank you for your continued teamwork and support for our company. Working together safely, we are building a brighter future from the ground up.

Warm regards,

Tom
