Item 1 - Business

General Information

Lowe's Companies, Inc. and subsidiaries (the Company) is a Fortune 50 company and the world's second largest home improvement retailer. As of January 30, 2009, we operated 1,638 stores across 50 states and 11 stores in Canada. Our 1,649 stores represent approximately 187 million square feet of retail selling space.

Incorporated in North Carolina in 1952, Lowe's Companies, Inc. has been publicly held since 1961. Our common stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange - ticker symbol "LOW."

See Item 6, "Selected Financial Data," for historical revenues, profits and identifiable assets.

Who We Serve

We serve homeowners, renters and Commercial Business Customers. Homeowners and renters primarily consist of do-it-yourself (DIY) customers and do-it-for-me (DIFM) customers who utilize our installed sales programs, as well as others buying for personal and family use. Commercial Business Customers include those who work in the construction, repair/remodel, commercial and residential property management, and business maintenance professions.

To meet customers' varying home improvement needs, we offer a complete line of products and services for home decorating, maintenance, repair, remodeling, and property maintenance. We offer home improvement products in the following categories: appliances, lumber, paint, flooring, building materials, millwork, lawn & landscape products, fashion plumbing, hardware, lighting, tools, seasonal living, rough plumbing, outdoor power equipment, cabinets & countertops, nursery, rough electrical, home environment, home organization, and windows & walls.

Our Market

Using the most recent comprehensive data available, which is from 2007, we estimate the size of the U.S. home improvement market to be approximately $695 billion annually, comprised of $535 billion of product demand and $160 billion of installed labor opportunity during that period. Data from a variety of primary and secondary sources, including trade associations, government publications, industry participants and other sources was analyzed as the basis for our estimate. This data captures a wide range of categories relevant to our business, including major appliances and garden supplies. Based on the most recently available data we believe that the size of the U.S. home improvement market decreased by more than 7% in 2008.

The home improvement retailing business includes many competitors. We compete with a number of traditional hardware, plumbing, electrical and home supply retailers, as well as other chains of warehouse home improvement stores and lumberyards in most of our trade areas. In addition, we compete, with respect to some of our products, with general merchandise stores, mail order firms, warehouse clubs, and online retailers. The principal competitive factors are customer service, location, price, product and brand selection, and name recognition.

There are many variables that impact consumer demand for the products and services we offer. Key indicators we monitor include employment, real disposable personal income, housing turnover, and home ownership levels. We also monitor demographic and societal trends that are indicators of home improvement industry growth.

- § Employment is an indicator of home improvement sales. The forecasted average unemployment rate of 8.6% for 2009 from the March 2009 Blue Chip Economic Indicators™ is higher than the 5.7% average seen in 2008 and suggests that Americans will continue to face challenging employment prospects this year.
- § Although real disposable personal income continues to grow, it is projected to grow at a slower pace for 2009 than the long-term average annual increase of 3.4%, calculated from 1960 to 2008. Real disposable personal income growth is forecasted to be 1.7% for calendar 2009, compared with 1.1% for calendar 2008, based on data from the March 2009 Blue Chip Economic Indicators™.
- § Housing turnover, which peaked in calendar year 2005, continues to slow according to The National Association of Realtors®. Recent data suggests that 2009 will remain challenging for housing turnover.
- § According to the U.S. Census Bureau, while U.S. home ownership levels over the past year have continued their decline from 2007, they remain above their historical average. Home ownership provides an established customer base for home maintenance and repair projects. The vast majority of our customers are homeowners and they are not willing to let what is often their most valuable financial asset deteriorate.

Currently, all of these indicators suggest continued weakness in consumer demand. In this economic environment, we seek to balance our long-term growth plans with a near-term focus on conserving capital and maintaining liquidity.

Our Stores

New Store Expansion

We opened 115 new stores in fiscal 2008, including five Canadian stores located primarily in the Greater Toronto Area. Our 2008 store openings included three primary prototypes: 117,000-square-foot (117K) and 103,000-square-foot (103K) stores for large markets and a 94,000-square-foot (94K) store to serve smaller markets. The following table illustrates our store expansion over the last three years:

	2008	2007	2006
Number of stores, beginning of fiscal year	1,534	1,385	1,234
New stores opened	115	149	151
Relocated stores opened	-	4	4
Stores relocated	-	(4)	(4)
Number of stores, end of fiscal year	1,649	1,534	1,385
Consists of:
Domestic	1,638	1,528	1,385
Canadian	11	6	-

We expect to open 60 to 70 new stores in fiscal 2009, which includes continued expansion in Canada as well as our first stores in Monterrey, Mexico. Our fiscal 2009 store openings will be comprised primarily of 117K, 103K and 94K stores. As we continue our expansion and strive to maximize our return on investment, we consider market demographics and land availability, among other factors, to determine the appropriate prototype for a particular market. The reduction in store openings in 2009 as compared to 2008 reflects the challenging current economic environment.

Investments in Existing Stores

During fiscal 2008, we continued our long history of investing in our existing stores to enhance the shopping experience for our retail and Commercial Business Customers, while at the same time rationalizing our capital spending on these efforts to ensure appropriate return on investment. These efforts included re-lamping our stores at regular intervals to ensure they remained bright, adding new displays, improving point-of-sale and directional signage, adding more product selection, repainting our building exteriors, and re-stripping our parking lots. We categorize our merchandising-related investments in our stores as resets or remerchandising.

Resets

Resets are necessary to keep our stores fresh with new and innovative products, updated fashions and compelling displays. These resets can involve changing products, displays and vendors. However, they generally do not require major changes in the store. We conducted hundreds of resets in fiscal 2008, with each reset typically being performed across most or all of our stores.

Remerchandising

In fiscal 2008, we completed the remerchandising of 79 of our earlier format stores to make them more closely resemble our most current store prototypes. These remerchandising efforts were focused on moving entire departments, improving adjacencies and enhancing the shopability within the appliances, cabinets & countertops, flooring, fashion plumbing, paint, lighting, and home style & organization departments. We also replaced or refurbished all of our selling centers as well as returns and customer service areas of these stores. All new interior graphics, signage, and way-finding materials were also added to increase shopability and brighten the atmosphere. Finally, self check-out was included as a part of these remerchandising efforts for locations where it had not previously been installed. These enhancements enable our stores to deliver stronger sales by offering our customers a best-in-class shopping experience.

Serving Our Customers

Our vision is to be our customers' first choice for home improvement. To achieve this vision, we continue to focus on excellent customer service, Everyday Low Prices, New Lower Price, and innovative operational, merchandising, marketing and distribution strategies. We believe customers' perceptions of the quality of service determine a retailer's success or failure. Therefore, we are always looking for ways to improve our level of service, optimize store labor and drive in-store process improvement, build our talent pool, and enhance our sales culture. The following are several key initiatives we believe will continue to support our growth and success going forward.

Everyday Low Prices

Our customers do not have to wait for a sale to find a great value. We offer low prices every day. Our promise to customers is that if they find a lower everyday or advertised price on an identical stock product at a local competitor, we will not just match that price, but we will beat it by 10%.

Specialty Sales

Our Specialty Sales initiatives include Installed Sales, Special Order Sales and Commercial Business Customer sales. We recognize the opportunity that our Specialty Sales initiatives represent and the importance of these businesses to our long-term growth. However, in the current economic environment demand for Installed Sales and Special Order Sales offerings has declined due to hesitancy by consumers to make big ticket discretionary purchases.

Installed Sales

We offer installation services in over 40 categories with flooring, millwork and cabinets & countertops generating the highest sales. Our Installed Sales model, which includes the separation of selling and administrative tasks, allows our sales associates to maintain their focus on project selling, while project managers ensure that the details related to an installation job are efficiently executed. Installed Sales, which includes both product and labor, accounted for approximately 6% of total sales in fiscal 2008.

Special Order Sales

Our Special Order Sales product offerings provide our customers the opportunity to select a wider assortment of product options beyond the approximately 40,000 we carry in our stores. We are making the Special Order Sales process easier for customers by providing more product displays and electronic product catalogs in our stores, as well as on Lowes.com. We continue to enhance integrated design tools and ordering systems storewide in order for customers to envision projects, as well as to efficiently receive quotations and complete an order.

Our Special Order Express initiative is intended to allow for faster and more efficient delivery of Special Order products to customers, while at the same time provide the ability to better manage our inventory investment. Under this approach, certain items that do not have enough individual store demand to be economically stocked in all stores, but have sizeable demand across a group of stores, will be kept on hand in our distribution centers. This allows for fast shipment to our stores, or in some cases, direct shipment to a customer's home. Our Special Order Express initiative allows us to balance quickly satisfying customers' needs with a desire to minimize our inventory investment. We will continue to refine and enhance this initiative in fiscal 2009.

Commercial Business Customers

Growth in total sales to Commercial Business Customers continued to outpace the company average in fiscal 2008. Our focus remains being a valued business partner to our customers who work in the construction, repair/remodel, commercial and residential property management, and business maintenance professions. Because we understand the challenges of the current economic environment and the importance of timeliness to these customers, we continue to evaluate and tailor our product, service, and competitive offerings to best meet the needs of these customers. These programs focus on in-stock and special order merchandise, contractor packs, business credit, pricing for larger projects, our LowesForPros.com dedicated business website, and convenience services such as fast ordering and 7-day delivery.

Lowes.com

Lowes.com seeks to empower consumers by providing a 24/7 shopping experience and helping reduce the complexity of product decisions and home improvement projects by providing online product information, customer ratings and reviews, online buying guides and how-to videos and information. These tools help consumers make smarter, more informed purchasing decisions and give consumers confidence as they undertake simple to more complex home improvement projects. We also enable consumers to choose from a variety of multichannel fulfillment options including buy online and pick-up in-store, product delivery and direct shipment to customers' homes. As our business evolves we continue to look for opportunities beyond fulfillment to leverage emerging technologies and online trends to build strong relationships with consumers that will make us the first choice for their home improvement needs.

Credit Financing

We offer a proprietary credit card for retail customers. In addition, we offer a Lowe's Project Card in all stores. Lowe's Project Card provides a major project, in-store financing solution to complement our Lowe's Consumer Revolving Credit Card.

We also offer proprietary credit programs for Commercial Business Customers. They include a Lowe's Business Account, which is ideal for small- to medium-size businesses and offers minimum monthly payments, and Lowe's Accounts Receivable, which is ideal for medium- to large-size businesses that pay in full each month.

In addition, we accept Visa®, MasterCard®, Discover® and American Express® credit cards, as well as debit cards from all major networks.

For additional detail regarding our credit programs, see Item 7A, "Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures About Market Risk", and Item 8, "Financial Statements and Supplementary Data."

Our Products

Product Sourcing

We source our products from over 7,000 merchandise vendors worldwide, with no single vendor accounting for more than seven percent of total purchases. Management believes that alternative and competitive suppliers are available for virtually all our products. Whenever possible, we purchase directly from manufacturers to provide savings for our customers and gross margin improvement for Lowe's.

In addition to offering a wide selection of national brand name merchandise, we are committed to building long-term value for Lowe's through the development of exclusive, proprietary brands where we focus on delivering the best quality, the best value and recognizably differentiated products to meet our customers' needs and wants.

National Brand Name Merchandise

In many product categories, customers look for a brand they know and trust to instill confidence in their purchase. A typical Lowe's home improvement store stocks approximately 40,000 items, with hundreds of thousands of items available through our Special Order Sales system. Each store carries a wide selection of national brand name merchandise such as KitchenAid®, Samsung, Whirlpool®, Pella®, Werner®, Kohler®, DeWalt®, John Deere, Troy-Bilt®, Bosch®, Valspar®, Owens Corning®, Electrolux®, Porter-Cable® and many more. Our merchandise selection provides the DIY, DIFM and Commercial Business Customer a one-stop shop for products needed to complete home improvement, repair, maintenance or construction projects.

Proprietary Brands

To further differentiate our offering, we carry many brands that are exclusive to Lowe's. These unique brands cover several categories like lighting, flooring, tools and more, and give our customers great quality and value. Exclusive brand names such as Premier Living™, Kobalt®, Portfolio®, Harbor Breeze®, Reliabilt®, Top-Choice® Lumber and Utilitech™ are found only at Lowe's.

Distribution Network

To efficiently move product from our vendors to our stores and maintain in-stock levels, we own and operate 14 highly-automated regional distribution centers (RDCs). The RDCs are strategically located in North Carolina (2), Georgia, Indiana, Pennsylvania (2), Texas, California, Ohio, Florida, Connecticut, Wyoming, Illinois and Oregon. On average, each RDC serves 118 stores. We also utilize a third-party distribution facility to serve our Canadian stores.

We operate 15 flatbed distribution centers (FDCs) to distribute merchandise that requires special handling due to size or type of packaging such as lumber, boards, panel products, irrigation pipe, vinyl sidings, ladders and building materials. We own 13 and lease two of these FDCs.

We also operate four facilities to support our import business, Special Order Sales and internet fulfillment. We own two and lease two of these facilities. In addition, we utilize three third-party transload facilities. These facilities do not hold inventory, but are the first point of receipt for imported products. The transload facilities sort and allocate products to RDCs based on individual store demand and forecasts.

On average in fiscal 2008, over 72% of the stock merchandise we purchased was shipped through our distribution network, while the remaining portion was shipped directly to stores from our vendors.

Building Our Brand

Customers want Lowe's to serve as a resource for products and projects to help them repair, maintain, and enhance their homes and communities. Our marketing and advertising programs, communicated via television, radio, newspaper, magazine, direct mail, sponsorships, internet and in-store programs, all play a critical role in cultivating this emotional and rational connection with the consumer. Through an extensive understanding of our customers and their needs and expectations, we deliver a message that will develop loyal customer relationships and differentiate Lowe's from other home improvement sources.

With the downturn in the economy that accelerated in the second half of fiscal 2008, consumers became even more value conscious. As a result, we adjusted our communication to ensure that we presented value to consumers even more clearly, given our platform of Everyday Low Prices.

New Lower Price

Our ongoing New Lower Price initiative, which has been in place for several years, highlights price reductions on products that consumers want to purchase everyday. In the current economic environment, we are emphasizing this initiative to pass along cost savings in order to deliver enhanced value to our customers.

Media Investment

A combination of national broadcast and cable television, supplemented by a number of national magazines, internet banner advertising and search investment, provides the platform for building brand awareness. We complement the national media investment in key markets by local television and radio schedules.

In the past, newspaper circulars and ROP (Run of Press) served as the primary communication vehicle for retail price and item messaging, and regularly featured Lowe's breadth of product selection, customer services and Everyday Low Price positioning. However, given the accelerating erosion in newspaper subscription bases and readership, we have invested time and money in alternative retail price and item advertising delivery vehicles. We are testing new on-line vehicles that deliver to a large audience at a low cost. We believe this is more efficient and effective advertising in today's fast paced and on-line world.

Major promotional events receive network radio support with a local radio overlay in key markets. We promote internet access to Lowe's retail advertising through the use of online banner and circular advertising. In many cases, we feature our entire circular on-line within the on-line advertising section of major market newspapers. This is a location of increasing readership, as more households read their newspaper on line. The Lowe's brand has also been successfully integrated into television programming, including the Oprah Winfrey show and Rate My Space on HGTV.

Direct to Consumer Marketing

We continue to refine programs to respond to the changing needs and lifestyles of consumers. Through innovative database technology, we create direct mail campaigns based on precise criteria such as purchase activity, affinity group subscription(s), household demographics, regional weather patterns, opt-in email requests, and even consumers who are preparing to move, are in the process of moving or have recently moved into a new home ("New Movers").

Despite the housing slow-down, New Movers continue to spend considerably more on their previous and new homes than the average homeowner. This past year, we executed our New Movers program through the U.S. Postal Service's change of address program. As the renter population grew in 2008, we quickly remixed our focus of this New Movers program to be more inclusive of this customer group, as well as the new opportunities associated with repairing and renovating foreclosed homes that have been repurchased.

Additionally, opt-in e-mail programs line up with Lowe's affinity and education programs: Lowe's Creative Ideas for Home and Garden®, Lowe's Creative Ideas for Outdoor Living™ and Lowe's Creative Ideas for Woodworkers™. The Lowe's Creative Ideas Magazine subscription base is now as large as many major magazines and has become a very efficient way to market Lowe's to a group of our most valuable customers.

Membership in the Team Lowe's Racing Fan Club and participation in the Build-n-Grow children's clinics creates another level of engagement with our consumers both inside Lowe's stores and beyond our walls. Each of these varying acquisition and retention programs creates loyal Lowe's customers.

Multicultural Marketing

Lowe's reaches its diverse communities and customer base in various manners, including multicultural marketing and outreach to Hispanic, African-American and Asian customers. For these cultural groups, Lowe's executes advertising across many media, including television, radio, print, and on line, in both English and native languages. Some of the unique efforts include La Cancha Lowe's, Lowe's Hispanic mobile marketing program providing fun to families at key soccer events across the country; Lowe's sponsorship of the CIAA's annual Basketball Tournament, the nation's oldest black athletic conference consisting of ten historically African-American institutions of higher education, that has blossomed into one of largest collegiate post-season tournaments in the country; the national Lowe's sponsorship of the Piolin and Monique radio programs targeted to Hispanic and African American listeners; and Lowe's new Chinese, Korean, and Vietnamese language websites offering a new way for many Asian consumers to learn more about home improvement.

Team Lowe's Racing

NASCAR remains an important part of building our brand. We are the proud sponsor of Jimmie Johnson, three time NASCAR Sprint® Cup Series champion, the #48 car and Lowe's Motor Speedway. We also host hospitality events at various sites throughout the racing season, leveraging and further building membership in the Team Lowe's Racing Fan Club. In 2008, we continued to sponsor Adrian Fernandez and Fernandez Racing to field the #15 car in the American Le Mans Series whose fan base is very different than that of NASCAR. Going to market through both the #48 and #15 teams, helps us to connect with a broad base of customers through one of America's favorite sports – auto racing.

Reaching Out

We believe community involvement extends beyond the boundaries of our stores. In 2008, Lowe's and the Lowe's Charitable and Educational Foundation contributed more than $26 million to communities in which we operate across North America. Following are some examples of how we are partnering with respected nonprofit organizations to make a difference in our communities:

Lowe's Charitable and Educational Foundation

The Lowe's Charitable and Educational Foundation (LCEF) was created in 1957 to assist communities through financial contributions while also encouraging employees to become involved through volunteerism. In 2008, the Foundation supported more than 1,400 community and education projects in the U.S. and Canada with grants totaling more than $15 million. Programs funded by LCEF include Lowe's Toolbox for Education®, SkillsUSA and Rebuilding Together®.

- o Toolbox for Education® has two goals: Get parents involved in their children's education and provide grants to parent groups to help improve their children's schools. In 2008, Lowe's Toolbox for Education grant program contributed more than $4 million to schools throughout all 50 states.
- o In 2008, LCEF donated $1 million to SkillsUSA, a national nonprofit organization serving teachers and high school and college students who are preparing for careers in trade, technical and skilled service occupations. Additionally in June, Lowe's helped kick off the SkillsUSA National Leadership and Skills Conference in Kansas City, Mo., which showcases the skills of career and technical education students.
- o Lowe's also continued its commitment to supporting safe and affordable housing in 2008 with a contribution from LCEF of $1 million to Rebuilding Together, the nation's largest all-volunteer home rehabilitation organization. For the second year, Lowe's and Rebuilding Together worked together to support 83 projects that allowed low-income homeowners to stay warm and safe in their own homes.

Habitat for Humanity

As a home improvement retailer, Lowe's helps our customers every day through the trials and triumphs of home ownership. For more than five years, Lowe's and Habitat for Humanity® International have worked together to combat substandard housing across America. In 2008, Lowe's contributed $2 million to help Habitat for Humanity International forward its goal of eliminating poverty housing, bringing Lowe's total Habitat donations to more than $18 million since 2003. This support has benefited more than 1,400 families. Additionally since 2004, Lowe's has underwritten the Habitat for Humanity Women Build® program, which empowers women to learn construction skills through How-to Clinics held at Lowe's stores and to put those skills to use on build sites nationwide. In 2008, Habitat for Humanity and Lowe's launched National Women Build Week, hosting 150 Women Build projects in all 50 states in the week leading up to Mother's Day. Lowe's pledged $750,000 to the initiative, contributing a $5,000 grant to each National Women Build Week participating affiliate.

Partnering with Customers

In addition to contributions made by Lowe's, we have partnered with our customers to support organizations such as the American Red Cross and the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA). Over the nearly 10-year span that Lowe's has supported the American Red Cross, floods, hurricanes, tornadoes and wildfires have destroyed property and forever changed lives. A constant throughout has been the quick action of Lowe's employees and customers to help establish and support donation sites, resulting in more than $20 million in contributions. In addition, for the first time during 2008, Lowe's took its grassroots store support for MDA nationwide, making it one of the largest supporters of MDA's Shamrocks Against Dystrophy Campaign. In 2008, Lowe's stores helped raise more than $2 million during the Shamrocks campaign, bringing the total raised since the Lowe's program began in the stores to more than $4 million.

Partnering with Employees

Lowe's also partners with its employees through Lowe's Heroes and the Lowe's Employee Relief Fund. Lowe's Heroes employee volunteers tackle local problems in their communities. In 2008, Lowe's Heroes responded to needs big and small from Ontario, Canada, to Orange County, California. The Lowe's Employee Relief Fund distributes emergency funds to our employees who face financial hardships due to natural disasters, house fires or illness. Making our donations even more powerful, Lowe's matches each employee contribution dollar for dollar. The Lowe's Employee Relief Fund began in 1999 and has contributed more than $8 million in assistance to employees and their families, including more than $2 million in 2008.

Information Systems

We are continuously assessing and upgrading our information systems in an effort to support growth, augment new sales initiatives, control costs and enable better decision-making. Our systems support all functions in the stores, distribution facilities, field-based offices, and the customer support centers in Mooresville, NC and Wilkesboro, NC. Our two state-of-the-art data centers provide many additional fail-safe features to improve system availability and mitigate risks associated with unplanned outages.

We have invested significant resources to safeguard sensitive employee and customer information. We work closely with industry standards groups to incorporate security best practices into our technology environment.

Employees

As of January 30, 2009, we employed approximately 164,000 full-time and 65,000 part-time employees, none of which are covered by collective bargaining agreements. Management considers its relations with its employees to be good.

Item 1A - Risk Factors

We are exposed to a variety of risks and uncertainties. Most are general risks and uncertainties applicable to all retailers, but some are more particular to retailers serving the home improvement industry. Our operations may also be affected by factors that are either not currently known to us or which we currently consider immaterial to our business. We describe below some of the specific known factors that could negatively affect our business, financial condition and results of operations. All forward-looking statements made by us in this Annual Report to the Securities and Exchange Commission on Form 10-K, in our Annual Report to Shareholders and in our subsequently filed quarterly and current reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission, as well as in our press releases and other public communications, are qualified by the risks described below.

Our sales are dependent upon the health and stability of the general economy.

General economic factors and other conditions, both domestically and internationally, may adversely affect the U.S. economy, the global economy and our financial performance. These include, but are not limited to, periods of flat economic growth or recession, volatility and/or lack of liquidity from time to time in U.S. and world financial markets and the consequent reduced availability and/or higher cost of credit to Lowe's and its customers, slower rates of growth in real disposable personal income, higher rates of unemployment, higher consumer debt levels, increasing fuel and energy costs, inflation or deflation of commodity prices, natural disasters, acts of terrorism and developments in the war against terrorism in Asia and the Middle East.

The deep global recession that officially began in the U.S. in December 2007 and the financial/credit crisis that has led to the collapse, government bailout or acquisition of weakened major financial institutions have had and will continue to have significant adverse effects on our results of operations. Rising unemployment, reduced consumer confidence and reduced access to credit have combined to lead to sharply reduced consumer spending, particularly by our customers on many of the discretionary, big-ticket items we sell that tend to be larger home improvement project driven. Consumer confidence and willingness to spend on discretionary items remains low and our sales and results of operations will continue to be adversely affected throughout the current fiscal year and, if the recovery from this deep recessionary period and financial crisis is unusually gradual and prolonged as some are predicting, potentially beyond.

Adverse changes in economic factors specific to the home improvement industry may negatively impact the rate of growth of our total sales and comparable store sales.

Sales of many of our product categories and services are driven by housing turnover and activity level of home improvement projects. Sharply declining home prices that are expected to continue to decline in 2009, increasing mortgage delinquency and foreclosure rates, reduction in the availability of mortgage financing, rising interest rates on variable rate mortgages, and significantly lower housing turnover, have limited and may continue to limit consumers' discretionary spending, particularly on discretionary items, and affect their confidence level leading to further reduced spending on home improvement projects. The impact of these economic factors specific to the home improvement industry is exacerbated by rising unemployment in a weak job market.

Unseasonable weather conditions and adverse weather events can negatively affect our total sales and comparable store sales.

If weather conditions are uncharacteristic of the time of year during any season, they can hurt our sales by making it difficult to sell seasonal merchandise. Although the impact of unseasonable weather conditions is mitigated somewhat by the broad geographic dispersion of our stores, they continue to be a significant risk to the overall performance of our business, particularly when they occur across a broad region of the U.S. Adverse weather events, such as a prolonged and widespread drought, can hurt our sales of particular products as well.

Our store expansion and relocation strategy depends upon our ability to successfully open and operate new stores each year.

Our growth in total sales depends not only on a recovery from the current recessionary period but also to a substantial degree on successfully and cost-effectively implementing our ongoing expansion program. We scaled back our expansion plans significantly last year and plan to scale back even further in the current fiscal year in response to the weak environment. As we expand further, we must adapt our merchandising, marketing and distribution initiatives to new markets both domestically and as we continue to expand into Canada and Mexico. We also plan to increase the number of our stores in markets in which we currently operate. Our ability to open additional stores depends, in large measure, upon our ability to locate and acquire new store sites on acceptable terms. Local land use and other regulations restricting the construction of buildings in the formats with which we operate may affect our ability to open new stores in some markets. As we develop more new stores in metropolitan markets, we may incur increased costs to remediate environmental pollution on some of the sites we are redeveloping that was caused by previous owners of those sites. Our ability to continue to expand our operations depends also on our ability to attract and retain a large and growing number of qualified employees. If we are unable to open new stores at the rate we currently plan and staff them with qualified employees, the growth in our sales and our competitive position could be adversely affected.

If we fail to hire, train and retain qualified managers, sales associates and other employees we could lose sales to our competitors.

Customers' perceptions of the quality of service provided by employees can determine any retailer's success or failure. If we fail to attract, train and retain qualified managers and sales associates our financial performance could be adversely impacted. Consumers shopping for goods and services for home improvement projects expect to have sales associates serving them who are knowledgeable about product categories located throughout our stores.

Excessive turnover, which has historically been high among employees in entry-level or part-time positions, increases the risk that sales associates will not have the training and experience needed to provide competitive, high quality customer service.

Our success in serving the needs of Commercial Business Customers is dependent upon our ability to attract and retain qualified commercial sales specialists.

Commercial Business Customers in the home improvement industry require that we have well-trained commercial sales specialists at our project desks. By doing so, we can better serve the needs of this customer on a consistent basis. Our commercial sales specialists have a great depth of knowledge about the products needed by Commercial Business Customers. If we fail to staff our project desks with experienced and knowledgeable employees, we run the risk that we will lose Commercial Business Customers.

We have many competitors, who, if we fail to execute our merchandising, marketing and distribution strategies effectively, could take sales and market share from us.

We operate in a highly competitive market for home improvement products and services and have numerous large and small, direct and indirect competitors. The competitive environment in which we operate is particularly challenging during recessionary periods with heavy promotions, particularly of discretionary items, and competitor closings. The principal competitive factors in our industry include location of stores, price and quality of merchandise, in-stock consistency, merchandise assortment and presentation, and customer service. Our failure to respond effectively to competitive pressures and changes in the retail markets could affect our financial performance. Moreover, changes in the promotional pricing and other practices of our competitors, including the effects of competitor liquidation activities, may impact our expected results.

An unusual number of product liability or breach of warranty claims for defective products could expose us to expensive claims and damage our standing with customers.

We are exposed to product liability and product warranty claims relating to the products we sell that could adversely affect our financial condition, results of operations and cash flows. Because we do not have direct control over the quality of products manufactured or supplied to us by our vendors and because we self-insure for such product liability and warranty claims, we are exposed to risks relating to the quality of such products. Product liability claims can be expensive to defend and can divert the attention of management and other personnel for significant periods, regardless of the ultimate outcome. Claims of this nature could also have a negative impact on customer confidence in the products we stock and in our reputation.

Our financial performance could suffer if we fail to properly maintain our critical information systems or if those systems are seriously disrupted.

An important part of our efforts to achieve efficiencies, cost reductions, and sales and cash flow growth is the identification and implementation of improvements to our management information systems to improve operations such as inventory replenishment systems, merchandise ordering, transportation, and receipt processing. Our financial performance could be adversely affected if our management information systems are seriously disrupted or we are unable to improve, upgrade, maintain, and expand our systems.

If the domestic or international supply chain for our products is disrupted, our sales and gross margin would be adversely impacted.

We source the approximately 40,000 products we stock and sell from approximately 7,000 domestic and international vendors. We source many of those products directly from foreign manufacturers. Political or financial instability among suppliers, trade restrictions, tariffs, currency exchange rates and transport capacity and costs are beyond our control and could negatively impact our business if they seriously disrupted the movement of products through our supply chain. The current global recession and credit crisis are adversely affecting the operations and financial stability of some of our vendors by reducing their sales and restricting their access to capital. We may have to replace some of our smaller vendors, and some of our vendors may not be able to fulfill their financial obligations to us or to do so in a timely manner.

Our inability to effectively manage our relationships with selected suppliers of brand name products could negatively impact our ability to differentiate ourselves from competitors.

Part of our expansion strategy includes continued differentiation from competitors. To better distinguish our product offering, we form strategic relationships with selected suppliers to market and develop products under a variety of recognized and respected brand names. The inability to effectively and efficiently manage the relationships with these suppliers could negatively impact our business plan and financial results.
