CVRD announces proposed all-cash offer to acquire Inco

Rio de Janeiro, August 11, 2006 Companhia Vale do Rio Doce (CVRD) announces that it intends to make an all-cash offer to acquire all of the outstanding common shares of Inco Limited. (Toronto Stock Exchange- TSX and New York Stock Exchange NYSE ticker symbol: N) (Inco), at a price of Cdn$ 86.00 in cash per Inco common share.

The combination of CVRD and Inco will create one of the three largest diversified mining companies in the world, with leading global market positions in iron ore, pellets, nickel, bauxite, alumina, manganese and ferroalloys, and an exciting world-class pipeline of projects, supported by a large-scale, long-life and low-cost asset portfolio.

About Inco

Inco is a leading Canadian-based nickel company, and the world's second largest nickel producer possessing the world's largest nickel reserve base. Inco is one of the world's lowest cost producers of nickel and due to a very attractive pipeline of projects it has the highest growth potential amongst the main global nickel producers. Inco is also a leader in nickel technology, with a very traditional brand name and premium products for plating, special nickel alloys and superalloys.

In 2005, Inco had revenues of US$ 4.518 billion and net earnings of US$ 836 million. Inco's total debt as of June 30, 2006 was US$ 1.921 billion.

About the offer

CVRD's all-cash offer of Cdn$ 86.00 per share will allow Inco shareholders to realize upfront in cash Inco's profitable growth potential without incurring the risk of that such potential will not be realized.

The acquisition will be financed through a two-year committed bridge loan facility provided by four large first-tier banks: Credit Suisse, UBS, ABN AMRO and Santander. CVRD expects to take out the bridge facility with a long-term capital package within 18 months after the closing of the proposed transaction.

CVRD remains firmly committed to maintaining its investment-grade rating. We will retain financial flexibility after the transaction and will seek to obtain future upgrades in our current ratings, continuing to pursue the minimization of the cost of capital.

Full details of the offer will be included in the formal offer and take-over bid circular documents to be publicly filed and subsequently mailed to Inco's security holders. CVRD is formally requesting a list of Inco's shareholders and expects to mail the take-over bid and circular documents to Inco's shareholders as soon as possible following receipt of the shareholder list.

CVRD expects to formally commence its offer by newspaper advertisement on Monday, August 14, 2006. The offer will be open for acceptance for 45 days following its formal commencement and no Inco common shares will be taken up and paid for pursuant to the offer unless, at such date, each of the conditions of the offer is satisfied or waived.

Completion of the offer will be subject to a sufficient number of shares being tendered to the offer such that CVRD would own at least 66 2/3% of Inco's common shares, on a fully-diluted basis, following completion of the offer. The offer will be also conditional upon the receipt of all necessary regulatory approvals, the absence of litigation, no material adverse change at Inco and other customary conditions.

CVRD has not yet held any discussions with Inco's management with respect to this transaction but would welcome the opportunity to work with Inco to achieve a successful outcome to this transaction.

Press Release

CVRD Chief Executive Officer, Roger Agnelli said: This is an exciting opportunity for CVRD. The operations of the two companies are complementary and the combination will enhance our capabilities to benefit from the fast changing global landscape in the metals and mining industry. For Inco shareholders, our all-cash offer provides a very attractive opportunity to realize substantial gains with no exposure to market risks .

Strategic alignment and expected benefits

The offer is consistent with our long-term corporate strategy and with our non-ferrous metals business strategy. It is a new step in our strategy of developing, operating and maximizing the performance of large-scale, long-life and low-cost assets.

The proposed transaction enhances our options to further generate the increase in production capacity needed to meet the demand for minerals and metals of high growth markets over time.

The combination of Inco's specific knowledge, long-term experience in nickel mining and technological leadership in nickel metallurgy with CVRD's global mining leadership and strong cash generation makes for a unique opportunity to create shareholder value in an environment of sustained demand for minerals and metals in the long-term.

The proposed transaction will bring a better diversification to CVRD's activities by products, markets and geographic asset base contributing to reducing our business and financial risks.

We expect the acquisition to add significant value to our shareholders over the medium to long term. Built into the offer price is the recognition of the synergies available to CVRD through our nickel projects as well as our marketing functions.

Benefits to Canada

CVRD is confident that its acquisition of Inco will deliver significant benefits to Canada as a whole including the operations, employees, suppliers and stakeholders of Inco and the Canadian communities in which it operates.

We have a long and strong track record of investing in our operations to sustain their long-term future. CVRD recognizes the significant and unique capabilities of Inco's business and its employees. It is firmly committed to ensuring that Inco's business continues to play a leading role in the global nickel industry. Upon completion of the acquisition, CVRD intends to establish a global nickel business, based in Toronto, Ontario.

CVRD is committed to continuing to invest in R&D as well as capital projects to maintain the strength of Inco's current operations in Canada as well as Inco's continuing mineral exploration effort in Canada with a view to creating shareholder value and supporting the communities where Inco operates.

CVRD intends to work with key stakeholders to optimize the Sudbury operations in order to support its long-term competitiveness and to create real benefits to the local communities.

We are fully committed to the highest standards of corporate social responsibility, as we understand that it is fundamental to preserve our long-term competitiveness in the global arena. CVRD consistently invests significant resources in environmental protection and conservation and in the creation of channels of social and economic mobility in low-income communities. At the same time, one of our most important priorities is to maintain a high level of work and environmental safety in our operations and to fully comply with all related laws.

Therefore, we will be working to explain the clear benefits of the transaction to Canada, including for Inco's employees and the communities in which Inco operates, to the Minister of Industry and other stakeholders. CVRD expects to move through the Investment Canada Act process on a timely basis, and looks forward to participating as a member of the Canadian community.
