The Company also provides nationwide services such as satellite mobile communications service, in-flight telephone service and international dialing service. The Company is solely responsible for overall DoCoMo group R&D activities for basic wireless telecommunications technology, the development of services for the wireless telecommunications business and the development of information processing systems. The Company provides the results of such research and development to its eight regional subsidiaries of the Company, each of which operates in a region of Japan (DoCoMo Regional Subsidiaries).

(2) Each of the DoCoMo Regional Subsidiaries conducts cellular (excluding satellite mobile communications service and in-flight telephone service), PHS and Quickcast operation in their respective regions.

(3) 28 other subsidiaries of the Company, each of which is entrusted with certain services by the Company and/or DoCoMo Regional Subsidiaries, are independent in terms of operational efficiency and professionalism. They are entrusted with a part of the services provided by, or give assistance to, the Company and DoCoMo Regional Subsidiaries.

(4) There are 26 other subsidiaries and 13 affiliates including, among others, some foreign-based corporations established for the purpose of global deployment of the third-generation mobile communications system (IMT-2000), and joint venture companies established for the purpose of developing new businesses.

2. Management Policies

1. Basic Management Policies

The basic management policies of DoCoMo, which are based on its corporate principle of creating a new world of communications culture, are to expand DoCoMo's businesses and contribute to realizing a rich and vigorous society by emphasizing and strengthening its current core business of voice communications services as well as assertively promoting mobile multimedia services to the public. Pursuing these goals, DoCoMo intends to maximize its enterprise value and gain confidence from its customers and shareholders.

2. Mid- to Long-Term Management Strategies

The wireless telecommunication market is recently transforming itself through various reorganizations of telecommunication companies in the form of international business and capital alliances for global market expansion. On the other hand, the rate of growth for the Japanese wireless telecommunication market started to slow down due to the higher penetration rate of cellular and PHS services. The Japanese market has entered a transition phase from rapid expansion to stable growth.

Against this backdrop, DoCoMo intends to realize additional growth with its three major mid- to long-term strategies that have been implemented in response to the growing trend for IT utilization and globalization of the society and economy: from voice to non-voice as its multimedia strategy, to anything mobile as its ubiquity strategy, and from domestic to international as its globalization strategy. DoCoMo will also simultaneously reinforce its core businesses. To this end, DoCoMo will implement the following measures:

(1) Multimedia

To further disseminate mobile multimedia services, DoCoMo intends to develop and offer a variety of advanced non-voice services, including the distribution of music, video and text information. DoCoMo also plans to accelerate the take-up of mobile multimedia services with the launch of FOMA on a fully commercialized basis that commenced from October 1, 2001, through its capability of transmitting large volumes of data at fast speeds. FOMA service areas will be expanded gradually with a target population coverage of 97% and a target of 6 million FOMA subscribers by the end of March 2004. DoCoMo also is committed to continuing its research and development on the fourth-generation mobile communications system in order to further enhance services.

(2) Ubiquity

With the development of mobile multimedia services, the business boundaries of mobile communications have extended from conventional person-to-person communications to person-to-machine communication services, most typically represented by data access to i-mode. DoCoMo intends to continue providing these services in a stable manner while enhancing the service quality. In order to further explore its business domain, DoCoMo intends to equip anything mobile with transmission capabilities by providing machine-to-machine communication services, including the ability to monitor the inventory level of vending machines, remotely control intelligent home appliances, or electronic commerce services on mobile information devices (mobile e-commerce).

(3) Globalization

To globalize its businesses, DoCoMo, through its alliances with its investee partners, will facilitate an early deployment of i-mode service, IMT-2000 systems based on W-CDMA technology, and mobile multimedia services overseas. At the same time, DoCoMo will continue to explore various opportunities in a bid to flexibly implement its global strategies depending on circumstances, which includes forms of alliances that may not involve equity participation.

3. Basic Policies for Profit Distribution

The basic principles of the Company are to strengthen its financial position and maintain internal reserves in order to build a highly advanced network, offer high-quality and stable services, and promote mobile multimedia. At the same time, the Company aims to continue stable dividend payments taking into account its business performance and business environment.

The internal reserves will be allocated for research and development, capital expenditure, and investment activities in order to respond to the rapid movements in the market. The Company seeks to enhance its enterprise value by introducing new technologies, offering new services and deploying businesses overseas through alliances with new business partners.

4. Organizational Changes to Reinforce Management Control

(1) DoCoMo established an Advisory Board in February 1999 to receive opinions and proposals of knowledgeable persons from various fields concerning managerial challenges facing DoCoMo. In May 2001, DoCoMo elected new members of the Advisory Board to replace the original members. Similarly, to receive advice from a more global perspective, a US Advisory Board was established in December 2000.

(2) In July 2001, the Company reorganized the Gateway Business Department into the i-mode Business Division with an aim to reinforce its i-mode business. At the same time, 6 branches located in Metropolitan Tokyo were consolidated into 3 branches in order to strengthen marketing activities and improve operational efficiency.

5. Relationship with the Parent Company

(1) The Company operates its business mainly in the field of wireless telecommunications under its own managerial responsibilities within the NTT Group. Currently, NTT owns 64.1% of the outstanding shares of the Company, and NTT may be in a position to influence the Company's direction by exercising its appointment and dismissal right with respect to directors as a majority shareholder of the Company.

(2) The Company and NTT reached an agreement on April 1, 2002, to unify previous agreements reached independently between the eight DoCoMo Regional Subsidiaries and NTT on July 1, 1999 relating to group management/operation by NTT, the content of services, benefits, and appropriate compensation. Under the revised agreement, NTT is being compensated for the services for group management/operation that it provides to the DoCoMo group. In addition, the Company reached an agreement with NTT relating to the basic research and development undertaken by NTT, the content of services, benefits and appropriate compensation on July 1, 1999. NTT is being compensated for the basic research and development it provides to the Company.

6. Target Management Index

Now that the Japanese mobile communications market has entered a period of stable growth, DoCoMo, from the viewpoint of emphasizing profitability, considers EBITDA margin an important index for corporate management. DoCoMo targets to achieve an EBITDA margin of at least 30% and will try to improve it every year in an effort to maximize its enterprise value.

(Note) EBITDA margin = EBITDA / Operating Revenues

(EBITDA: operating income + depreciation/amortization + loss on disposal of property, plant and equipment)

7. Others

Being aware of the importance of continuous action to tackle environmental problems, DoCoMo has actively encouraged green procurement/purchase, constructed environment-friendly buildings and collected and recycled cellular phones and accessories to alleviate the burdens on environment. DoCoMo is committed to continue these endeavors going forward, with a goal to achieve ISO14001 certification at all levels of the DoCoMo group.

3. Business Review and Financial Position

1. Overview of the year ended March 31, 2002 (Fiscal 2001)

(1) Business Overview

Severe business conditions persisted in Japan throughout the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002, with deteriorating unemployment rate, falling income, continued weakness in personal spending, and substantial reductions in corporate earnings and capital investments.

Despite the overall sluggishness, the wireless communications market continued to expand, driven by the popularity of wireless Internet access services including DoCoMo's i-mode service. The aggregate number of cellular and PHS subscriptions in Japan exceeded 74.81 million at the end of March 2002, or a penetration rate of 58% of the population. The number of net additional subscribers during this period, however, was limited to only about 80% of the number of net additional subscribers in the previous year, demonstrating that the market has entered a transition phase from rapid expansion to stable growth. In the meantime, competition among wireless carriers has intensified as foreign capital entered the Japanese market, and each carrier continuously introduced various services and tariff packages.

To quickly respond to these changes in the market, DoCoMo endeavored to expand its business domains by steadily implementing businesses centered on its three major growth strategies, while further striving to improve and reinforce its core businesses.

To further promote mobile multimedia, measures to enrich i-mode service were undertaken. At the same time, as part of the efforts to cultivate new businesses, a location information service for corporations, DLP service, which takes advantage of Global Positioning System (GPS) signals was newly introduced. DoCoMo's solutions business for corporate customers was strengthened in collaboration with a wide range of business partners, and a new car multimedia service was also developed.

DoCoMo started the FOMA service, world's first IMT-2000 mobile communications system using the W-CDMA technology, on May 30, 2001, in the form of an introductory service, and from Oct. 1, 2001, its fully commercialized operation. The coverage of FOMA network has been expanded gradually thereafter.

To facilitate globalization, DoCoMo has transferred technical and business know-how pertaining to i-mode service and IMT-2000 to its overseas investee partners. As a consequence, E-Plus Mobilfunk GmbH & Co. KG (E-Plus) of Germany, a subsidiary of KPN Mobile N.V. (KPN Mobile) of the Netherlands, launched i-mode service in Germany on March 16, 2002.

In January 2002, the Company's board of directors resolved to conduct a five-for-one split of its shares (new shares to be issued on May 15, 2002), as well as to apply to list its shares on the New York Stock Exchange and London Stock Exchange in order to enhance share liquidity, improve the convenience of investors, and increase its options for fund raising. The Company's shares were listed on the two exchanges on March 1, 2002.

Recognizing environmental issues as one of its most immediate and ongoing managerial concern, DoCoMo has undertaken a number of measures to alleviate the burdens it imposes on the environment, including, among others, collection and recycling of used cellular phones, use of the e-billing service through which the bill amount is informed to customers on home pages or via e-mail instead of paper, as well as construction of environment-friendly buildings. In February 2002, DoCoMo received the ISO14001 certification at all levels of the organization including its branch offices. It also received an extremely high ranking in eco-efficiency from Innovest Strategic Value Advisors, Inc, a New York-based international investment research firm, in its rating of the world's top telecommunications companies in June 2001.

As a result of the foregoing, the take-up of i-mode service expanded significantly and the number of cellular phone subscribers increased, which led to gains in both operating revenues and recurring profit. However, after an appraisal on the fair value of the shares of investee affiliates in accordance with the accounting standard for financial instruments, DoCoMo decided to recognize impairment losses from its investments in AT&T Wireless Services, Inc. of the United States (AT&T Wireless), KPN Mobile, KG Telecommunications Co., Ltd., of Taiwan (KG Telecom), and Hutchison 3G UK Holdings Limited of the United Kingdom (H3G UK). The impairment losses are recorded in the financial statements as special losses of ¥812.8 billion (write-down of investment in affiliated companies). As a consequence, the net income for the year ended March 31, 2002 was ¥0.8 billion.

[Results for the year ended March 31, 2002]

	Consolidated (changes from the previous year)	Non-consolidated (changes from the previous year)
Operating revenues	¥5,171.5 billion (up 10.4%)	¥2,355.7 billion (up 10.0%)
Operating income	¥1,002.8 billion (up 29.0%)	¥420.1 billion (up 24.8%)
Recurring profit	¥853.3 billion (up 24.2 %)	¥406.4 billion (up 38.8%)
Net income (loss)	¥0.8 billion (down 99.8%)	(¥310.7 billion) ()

The results for each business segment are summarized below.

Mobile Phone Business: In addition to mova 211i series with enhanced e-mail functions and i-appli -compatible mova 503iS series, DoCoMo increased the variety of products by releasing new model mova F671i (Raku Raku Phone II), a model especially tailored for use by senior customers, in a bid to disseminate i-mode service to a broader range of age groups. At the same time, the group started DoCoMo Point Service as part of its efforts to improve customer services. It also reduced its tariffs to further stimulate demand for data communications by increasing bundled free-call minutes included in monthly plan charges and by allowing a number of telephone discount packages to be used for packet charges.

As part of the measures to respond to customers' diverse needs for mobile multimedia, DoCoMo introduced a new Windows CE-compatible handheld PC sigmarion II, and launched infogate, a portal service for PDAs.

DoCoMo's third-generation mobile communications service, FOMA, was commenced on a fully commercialized basis on October 1, 2001, in the areas within 30 kilometers from the center of Tokyo, after an introductory service starting from May 30, 2001. Upon the launch of the fully commercialized service, three different terminal devices were offered simultaneously; the standard type FOMA N2001, the visual handset supporting video phone capabilities, FOMA P2101V, and the data card FOMA P2401. In November 2001, i-motion service, which enables the transmission and replay of video and sound data taking advantage of FOMA's fast packet speed of up to 384Kbps downlink, was started, and a new handset carrying this capability FOMA N2002 was released at the same time. In March 2002, another i-motion-compatible visual type handset FOMA D2101V was introduced. Meanwhile, in an effort to disseminate FOMA services among businesses, DoCoMo has reinforced solution sales to create new demand, proposing construction site support systems that utilize video communications and marketing support systems leveraging FOMA's high-speed, large-volume data transmission capabilities. The Company has expanded the service areas of FOMA aggressively, and covered approximately 92% of the populated areas in the Kanto-Koshinestu region by the end of March 2002. FOMA service was commenced in Tokai and Kansai areas in December 2001, at which point about 50% of the populated areas in Japan were covered.

As for i-mode, DoCoMo has taken measures to improve customers' convenience by providing services such as AOLi, which links the mail services of i-mode and AOL, and i-area, a service that enables users to easily retrieve information pertaining to the neighborhood of the customer's location. In parallel, content offerings on i-appli, and DoCoMo's other i-mode services were further enriched in order to boost usage. Other new services were also developed jointly with other companies, including Cmode service, which allows i-mode to interact with vending machines to offer cash-free shopping.

On the other hand, DoCoMo has made utmost efforts to counter unsolicited bulk e-mails sent in massive numbers to unidentified addresses via the Internet. Such efforts include requesting the customers to change default i-mode mail addresses into alpha-numeric addresses, blocking the reception of mails sent en masse to unknown addresses, adding functions to handsets to allow mail reception only from designated domains, among others. At the same time, the Company has taken legal action against pernicious unsolicited bulk e-mail senders.

With regard to satellite communications services, the Company started satellite in-flight telephone service and credit phone service to further improve convenience and provide a stable means for communications in mountainous areas or in the event of emergency.

As a result of foregoing, the number of subscribers to DoCoMo's principal services, and revenues at the end of Fiscal 2001 were as follows:

[Number of Subscribers for Main Services as of March 31, 2002]

	Consolidated (changes from March 31, 2001)	Non-consolidated (changes from March 31, 2001)
	(10 thousand subscribers)

* Inclusive of packet data transmission revenues from FOMA subscribers.

PHS Business: In a bid to promote PHS service, DoCoMo released various new products including P-in m@ster, a data card capable of handling both PHS and 9600bps cellular connections, P-in memory, a data card with a built-in memory of 16MB, Picwalk SH712m, a handset for the music distribution service M-stage music that can also support voice communications, and Paldio 633S, a PHS handset compatible with Bluetooth Ver. 1.1 (a technical standard for short distance radio connections for PCs and mobile phones, etc). At the same time, DoCoMo started a new tariff discount service for data communications P-p@c, and increased the availability of content for music/video distribution services on PHS in order to facilitate the use of data services, while making further efforts to slash costs by utilizing its facilities more efficiently.

As a consequence of the foregoing, PHS subscriber count and revenues amounted to the following:

[No. of PHS subscribers as at March 31, 2002]

	Consolidated (changes from March 31, 2001)	Non-consolidated (changes from March 31, 2001)

Quickcast Business: Despite attempts to boost system sales to corporate users and municipal governments by emphasizing Quickcast's multicast feature and information distribution capability, and to slash costs by streamlining its operations, the Quickcast business suffered from a constant decline in subscriptions as the market for pager services in Japan continued to shrink. Results and the number of subscribers at the end of March 2002 are summarized below:

[No. of Quickcast subscribers as at March 31, 2002]

	Consolidated (changes from March 31, 2001)	Non-consolidated (changes from March 31, 2001)

Miscellaneous Business: Thanks to measures to promote World Call service, an international dialing service from cellular phones, its subscriber base rose 58.9% year on year to 433,000 at the end of March 2002. Leveraging their own technologies and know-how, the subsidiaries in the DoCoMo group have expanded into new business areas, including the development of various systems and provision of new services. The results for the year ended March 31, 2002 are summarized below.

(2) Cash Flow Conditions

Certain information about DoCoMo's cash flows on a consolidated basis for the year ended March 31, 2002, are summarized as follows: As for cash flows from operating activities, despite the decrease in income before income taxes for the year ended March 31, 2002, net cash provided by operating activities was ¥1,329.6 billion, up ¥490.3 billion (or 58.4%) year on year due largely to the increase in non-cash expenses such as depreciation and write-down of investment in affiliated companies, as well as to the fact that payments of telephone bills for the previous fiscal year which normally would have been due on March 31, 2001 was collected in the following fiscal year as the last day of March 2001 coincided with a bank holiday. Similarly, since the last day of the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002 coincided with a bank holiday, payments of the telephone bills of approximately ¥244 billion was collected in the following month (in the following fiscal year). As for cash flows from investing activities, in spite of an increase in purchase of property and equipment, net cash used in investing activities was ¥1,122 billion, down ¥1,615 billion (or 59.0%) year on year. This was due primarily to a decrease in spending for the purchase of investment securities, which was caused by the inclusion of strategic overseas investments totaling ¥1,795.8 billion in KPN Mobile, H3G UK, AT&T Wireless and KG Telecom in spending for the previous fiscal year. With regard to cash flows from financing activities, net cash used in financing activities was ¥24.9 billion, down ¥1,560.1 billion year on year due primarily to issuance of new shares and borrowings to finance strategic overseas investment for the previous consolidated fiscal year.

(3) Profit Distribution for Fiscal 2001

The Company has decided to pay a total annual dividend of ¥1,500 per share, including an interim dividend of 500 per share, a year-end dividend of ¥500 per share, and a special commemorative dividend of ¥500 commemorating the 10th anniversary of the launch of DoCoMo's mobile communications business in July 1992.

- (Notes) 1. The Company's board of directors, at its meeting on November 7, 2001, resolved to pay interim dividends for Fiscal 2001.
2. Dividends for Fiscal 2001 will be paid to the shares owned by shareholders who were registered on the register of shareholders or the register of beneficial shareholders as of the close of business on March 31, 2002. New shares to be issued on May 15, 2002 as a result of the Company's recent stock split (4 new shares will be issued additionally to each share owned by shareholders who are registered on the register of shareholders or the register of beneficial shareholders as of the close of business on March 31, 2002) will not be eligible to receive the above-mentioned dividends, but will be eligible for profit distribution from Fiscal 2002.

2. Prospects for the Fiscal Year ending March 31, 2003

(1) Business Outlook

The mobile communications market in Japan is currently facing a major transition to a period of stable growth, with a rising penetration rate and rapidly increasing demand for data communications services. Against this backdrop, DoCoMo has decided to attach greater emphasis on profits rather than revenues, and will further expand its business fields by pursuing the three major strategies of multimedia, ubiquity, and globalization to achieve further growth while reinforcing its existing core businesses.

In order to strengthen its core businesses, DoCoMo plans to continue maintaining and enhancing its network quality and offer diversified tariff packages. New services and products catering to customer needs, including handsets with built-in cameras or infrared communications capability, are also planned for release to acquire more new customers, curb churns, and encourage usage by customers. As for i-mode, DoCoMo intends to stimulate further usage by offering handsets supporting faster downlink packet speeds and greater i-mode content size, which will enable the distribution of large-volume content. As part of the offerings for ubiquitous services, the group intends to provide electronic commerce services that will realize cash-free shopping on mobile phones as well as services to remotely control intelligent home appliances, and thereby expand usage. On the other hand, DoCoMo will disclose the interface conditions with its packet communications network, so that Internet service providers can provide services similar to DoCoMo's i-mode, which is intended to further develop the mobile multimedia market.

As for FOMA, all major cities nationwide were included in its service areas from April 2002. The coverage will be expanded further to 90% of the populated areas in Japan by the end of March 2003. More advanced services are planned to be started on FOMA this fiscal year, including video distribution service, video mail service, and dual network service which allows users to use both FOMA and PDC phones with the same telephone number. In the meantime, further efforts will be made to bring down the size, weight and power consumption of handsets. Also, the group will reinforce solution marketing activities targeted at corporate customers to facilitate the use of FOMA services among this segment.

To counter the unsolicited bulk e-mail problem, as the Diet passed the relevant legislation recently, DoCoMo intends to take adequate measures as a carrier, and implement other prevention mechanisms such as the development of selective receiving functions.

As part of the Company's efforts to accelerate mobile multimedia on a global scale, i-mode is planned for launch this fiscal year in the Netherlands, Belgium and Taiwan following Germany. In addition, preparations for the introduction of IMT-2000 will be continued, transferring the know-how obtained through the deployment of FOMA services in Japan to overseas investee affiliates. Going forward, the Company plans to explore investment opportunities primarily in the Asia region, and also flexibly look into other options including alliances that do not involve equity participation depending on the circumstances. The goal of the group's international strategy is to enhance the enterprise value of its investee affiliates by developing their businesses over the mid-to-long term.

With regard to PHS, Quickcast, satellite mobile communications, and other loss-making services, DoCoMo will continue its efforts to reduce costs and improve their financial performance by boosting efficiency. At the same time, these existing businesses will be reviewed taking into account the changes in business environment.

Furthermore, to swiftly respond to changes in the business environment and intensified competition, DoCoMo will require each board member and employee to ensure compliance, and implement a business procedure emphasizing innovation, speed and efficiency. Specifically, DoCoMo will endeavor to speed up the decision making process by fully utilizing the new corporate information system introduced on April 1, 2002, and to facilitate an efficient management of the group by integrating and transferring some operations, e.g., maintenance and customer acceptance, to subsidiaries. In other words, DoCoMo plans to thoroughly select and concentrate its managerial resources through this process. To further integrate and solidify the management as a corporate group, the Company plans to carry out an equity swap with its regional subsidiaries.

In July 2002, DoCoMo will celebrate the 10th anniversary of the launch of its business. Seizing this opportunity, DoCoMo would like to renew its determination to challenge the mobile frontier by developing new businesses and services, and thereby maximize the enterprise value of the entire group.

(2) Profit Distribution Outlook for Fiscal 2002

The basic policies of the Company are to strengthen its financial position, secure internal reserves and continue a stable payment of dividends while based on a comprehensive review of various factors such as the Company's performance and business environment.

The Company intends to pay a total annual dividend of ¥500 per share, after reviewing the amount of dividend in view of the five-for-one share split to take effect on May 15, 2002 based on the above-mentioned principles.

To further integrate the management as a corporate group, the Company plans to carry out share exchanges with its regional subsidiaries. To this end, the Company intends to seek the approval of its shareholders at the 11th regular annual shareholders' meeting scheduled in June 2002 with respect to the repurchase of its own shares in accordance with Article 210 of the Commercial Code of Japan and a reduction of statutory reserves to secure the source of the repurchase. If an approval is obtained, the payment of interim dividends is expected to be suspended, as the Company will not be able to satisfy the conditions for the payment of interim dividends as set forth in the Commercial Code of Japan. A total annual dividend stated above will be paid as a year-end dividend.

Accounting Basis for the Consolidated Financial Statements

1. Scope of consolidation

(1) Consolidated subsidiaries: 34 companies

Major consolidated subsidiaries are eight regional subsidiaries (such as NTT DoCoMo Kansai, Inc.), DoCoMo Sentsu, Inc., DoCoMo Service Inc., and DoCoMo Engineering Inc.

DoCoMo Technology, Inc., which was established during the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002, has been newly consolidated.

(2) Unconsolidated subsidiaries: 28 companies

Major unconsolidated subsidiaries are NTT DoCoMo USA, Inc., DoCoMo.com, Inc., and Mobimagic Co., Ltd.

These subsidiaries are not consolidated because the total assets, revenues, and the Company's share of net income and retained earnings of these subsidiaries are not significant and do not have material effects on the consolidated financial statements.

2. Equity method

(1) Unconsolidated subsidiaries accounted for using the equity method: 26 companies

Major unconsolidated subsidiaries accounted for using the equity method are NTT DoCoMo USA, Inc., DoCoMo.com, Inc., and Mobimagic Co., Ltd.

Six unconsolidated subsidiaries including Mobimagic Co., Ltd. and DCM Capital HKG (UK) Limited have been newly accounted for using the equity method from the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002. The Company purchased additional shares of Mobimagic Co., Ltd. and established DCM Capital HKG (UK) Limited during the period.

(2) Affiliates accounted for using the equity method: 12 companies

Major affiliates accounted for using the equity method are AT&T Wireless Services, Inc. (AT&T Wireless), KPN Mobile N.V. and Hutchison 3G UK Holdings Limited.

Two affiliates, AT&T Wireless, which became an affiliated company during this fiscal year, and Hutchison 3G HK Holdings Limited, of which the Company purchased the shares during the same period, have been newly accounted for using the equity method.

The investment in bitwallet. inc is no longer accounted for using the equity method for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002 because the Company's ownership interest in it decreased during the period.

AT&T Wireless became an affiliate as AT&T Wireless was split off from AT&T Corporation on July 9, 2001 and AT&T Corporation preferred tracking stock, which the Company purchased in the previous fiscal year, was converted into AT&T Wireless common stock.

(3) Two unconsolidated subsidiaries, DoCoMo Mobile Chugoku, Inc., DoCoMo i Kyushu Inc., and one affiliate, APMT MC-DCM Holding Pte Ltd are not accounted for using the equity method because they are development stage companies and the Company's share of net income and retained earnings of these companies are not significant and do not have material effects on the consolidated financial statements.

(4) Additional note on the equity method

For a company accounted for using the equity method that has a fiscal period different from that of the consolidated financial statements, such company's financial statements for its own fiscal period are used.

Consolidation goodwill related to affiliates is amortized on the straight-line method over the estimated period of the benefit. When consolidation goodwill is not significant, it is expensed in the period it is acquired.

3. Fiscal year end of the consolidated subsidiaries

The consolidated subsidiaries have the same fiscal year end as that of the consolidated financial statements.

4. Significant accounting policies

(1) Depreciation of fixed assets

a. Property, plant and equipment

Edgar Filing: NTT DOCOMO INC - Form 6-K

Depreciation of property, plant and equipment is computed by the declining balance method with the exception of buildings, which are depreciated on the straight-line method.

b. Intangible fixed assets

Intangible fixed assets are amortized using the straight-line method except for computer software for sales purposes.

i) Computer software for sales purposes:

The annual amortization amount of computer software for sales purposes is the greater of the amount computed using (a) the ratio that current gross revenues bear to the total of current and anticipated future gross revenues or (b) the straight-line method over the remaining estimated economic life of the product including the period being reported on.

ii) Computer software for internal use:

Computer software for internal use is amortized on the straight-line basis over the estimated useful life.

(2) Valuation of securities

a. Debt securities designated as held-to-maturity are carried at amortized cost.

- b. Available-for-sale securities whose fair value is readily determinable are stated at fair value as of the end of the fiscal year with unrealized gains and losses, net of applicable deferred tax assets/liabilities, not reflected in earnings, but directly reported as a separate component of shareholders' equity. The cost of securities sold is determined by the moving-average method. Available-for-sale securities whose fair value is not readily determinable are stated primarily at moving-average cost except for debt securities, which are stated at amortized cost.

(3) Valuation of inventories

Inventories are stated at cost. The cost of telecommunications equipment to be sold is mainly determined by the first-in, first-out method. The cost of other inventories is mainly determined by the specific identification method.

(4) Deferred assets

Bond issue costs are expensed at the time of payment.

(5) Allowance for doubtful accounts, liability for employees' severance payments and reserve for point loyalty programs

a. Allowance for doubtful accounts

The Company and its consolidated subsidiaries provide for doubtful accounts principally at an amount computed based on the historical bad debt ratio during a certain reference period plus the estimated uncollectable amount based on the analysis of certain individual accounts, including claims in bankruptcy.

b. Liability for employees' severance payments

In order to provide for the employees' retirement benefits, the Company and its consolidated subsidiaries accrue the liability as of the fiscal year end in an amount calculated based on the estimated projected benefit obligation and plan assets at the end of the fiscal year.

Actuarial losses are expensed as incurred.

Prior service cost is amortized on the straight-line method over the average remaining service periods of the employees at the time of recognition.

c. Reserve for point loyalty programs

The costs of awards under the point loyalty programs called DoCoMo Point Service and Club DoCoMo that are reasonably estimated to be redeemed by its customers in the future based on historical data are accounted for as reserve for point loyalty programs.

(6) Foreign currency translation

Foreign currency monetary assets and liabilities are translated into Japanese yen at the current spot rate at the end of the fiscal year and the resulting translation gains or losses are included in current earnings.

All assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses of foreign subsidiaries and affiliates are translated into Japanese yen at the current spot rate at the end of the fiscal year, and shareholders' equity is translated at historical rates. The resulting translation adjustments are accumulated as a component of shareholders' equity.

(7) Leases

Finance leases other than those deemed to transfer ownership of properties to lessees are not capitalized and are accounted for in the same manner as operating leases.

(8) Hedge accounting

a. Hedge accounting

Japanese GAAP provides for two general accounting methods for hedging financial instruments. One method is to recognize the changes in fair value of a hedging instrument in earnings in the period of the change as a gain or loss together with the offsetting loss or gain on the hedged item attributable to the risk being hedged. The other method is to defer the gain or loss over the period of the hedging contract together with the offsetting loss or gain deferral of the hedged items. The Company and its consolidated subsidiaries have adopted the latter accounting method.

However, when a forward foreign exchange contract meets certain conditions, it is accounted for in the following manner:

- (i) The difference between the Japanese yen amounts of the forward exchange contract translated using the spot rate at the transaction date of the hedged item and the spot rate at the date of inception of the contract, if any, is recognized in the income statement in the period which includes the inception date of the contract; and
- (ii) The discount or premium on the contract (that is, the difference between the Japanese yen amounts of the contract translated using the contracted forward rate and the spot rate at the date of inception of the contract) is recognized over the term of the contract.

In addition, when an interest rate swap contract meets certain conditions, the net amount to be paid or received under the contract is added to or deducted from the interest on the hedged items.

b. Hedging instruments and hedged items

Hedging instruments:

Forward foreign exchange contracts

Interest rate swap contracts

Hedged items:

Foreign currency transactions

Interest expense on borrowings

c. Hedging policy

DoCoMo Group uses financial instruments to hedge market fluctuation risks in accordance with its internal policies and procedures.

d. Assessment method of hedge effectiveness

DoCoMo Group does not assess hedge effectiveness, because all its forward foreign exchange contracts and interest rate swap contracts are accounted for in the manner described in the second and third paragraphs of (8) a. above, respectively.

(9) Consumption tax

Consumption tax is separately accounted for by excluding it from each transaction amount.

5. Valuation of assets and liabilities of consolidated subsidiaries

Only the Company's portion of the assets and liabilities of the acquired subsidiaries is stated at fair value in consolidation.

6. Amortization of consolidation goodwill

Consolidation goodwill related to subsidiaries is expensed in the period when acquired, because it is not significant.

7. Appropriation of retained earnings

Appropriation of consolidated retained earnings is recorded in the period in which appropriation is approved.

8. Cash and cash equivalents in the consolidated statements of cash flows

Cash and cash equivalents in the consolidated statements of cash flows includes cash balances, demand deposits and highly liquid short-term investments with an original maturity of three months or less, which are low-risk and readily convertible to known amounts of cash.

Change in Presentation

1. Gain on sale of investment securities, which had been included in miscellaneous income in non-operating revenues for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2001, was separately reported for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002, because the amount became significant (¥1,012 million for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2001).
2. Impairment of investment securities, which had been separately reported in non-operating expenses for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2001, was included in miscellaneous expenses for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002, because the amount became insignificant (¥183 million for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002).

Additional Information

Introduction of end-to-end rate system for cellular services among wireless carriers

For interconnected calls between two cellular operators in the previous years, each operator set its own end-user rate for the part of the cellular service it provided. Effective April 1, 2001, an end-to-end rate system was introduced and the operator serving the caller sets the end-user rate for the entire call, including the part of the call serviced by the other operator's network.

Consequently, after the introduction of the new rate system, the total charge for the entire call is accounted for as voice transmission service revenue and an access charge is expensed as a communication network charge.

The introduction of the new rate system increased both operating revenues from telecommunication businesses (voice transmission service revenue) and operating expenses from telecommunication businesses (communication network charges) by ¥149,606 million for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002 in comparison with those under the previous call rate setting system.

The derivative financial instruments are executed with creditworthy financial institutions, and the Group believes the risk of default by counterparties is currently low.

Accounting Basis for the Non-Consolidated Financial Statements

Significant accounting policies

1. Depreciation of fixed assets

(1) Property, plant and equipment

Depreciation of property and equipment is computed by the declining balance method with the exception of buildings, which are depreciated on the straight-line method.

(2) Intangible fixed assets

Intangible fixed assets are amortized using the straight-line method.

Computer software for internal use is amortized on the straight-line method over the estimated useful life.

2. Valuation of securities

- a. Investments in subsidiaries and affiliates are stated at cost, which is determined by the moving-average method.
- b. Available-for-sale securities whose fair value is readily determinable are stated at fair value as of the end of the fiscal year with unrealized gains and losses, net of applicable deferred tax assets/liabilities, not reflected in earnings, but directly reported as a separate component of shareholders' equity. The cost of securities sold is determined by the moving-average method. Available-for-sale securities whose fair value is not readily determinable are stated primarily at moving-average cost except for debt securities, which are stated at amortized cost.

3. Valuation of inventories

Inventories are stated at cost. The cost of telecommunications equipment to be sold is determined by the first-in, first-out method. The cost of other inventories is determined by the specific identification method.

4. Deferred assets

Bond issuance costs are expensed at the time of payment.

5. Foreign currency translation

Foreign currency monetary assets and liabilities are translated into Japanese yen at the current spot rate at the end of the fiscal year and the resulting translation gains or losses are included in current earnings.

6. Allowance for doubtful accounts, Liability for employees' severance payments and reserve for point loyalty programs

(1) Allowance for doubtful accounts

The Company provides for doubtful accounts principally at an amount computed based on the historical bad debt ratio during a certain reference period plus the estimated uncollectable amount based on the analysis of certain individual accounts, including claims in bankruptcy.

(2) Liability for employees' severance payments

In order to provide for the employees' retirement benefits, the Company accrues the liability as of the end of the fiscal year in an amount calculated based on the estimated projected benefit obligation and plan assets at the end of the fiscal year.

Actuarial losses are expensed as incurred.

Prior service cost is amortized on the straight-line method over the average remaining service periods of the employees at the time of recognition.

(3) Reserve for point loyalty programs

The costs of awards under the point loyalty programs called DoCoMo Point Service and Club DoCoMo that are reasonably estimated to be redeemed by its customers in the following fiscal years based on historical data are accounted for as reserve for point loyalty programs.

7. Leases

Finance leases other than those deemed to transfer ownership of properties to lessees are not capitalized and are accounted for in the same manner as operating leases.

8. Hedge accounting

a. Hedge accounting

Japanese GAAP provides for two general accounting methods for hedging financial instruments. One method is to recognize the changes in fair value of a hedging instrument in earnings in the period of the change as gain or loss together with the offsetting loss or gain on the hedged item attributable to the risk being hedged. The other method is to defer the gain or loss over the period of the hedging contract together with offsetting loss or gain deferral of the hedged items. The Company has adopted the latter accounting method.

However, when a forward foreign exchange contract meets certain conditions, it is accounted for in the following manner:

- (i) The difference between the Japanese yen amounts of the forward exchange contract translated using the spot rate at the transaction date of the hedged item and the spot rate at the date of inception of the contract, if any, is recognized in the income statement in the period which includes the inception date of the contract; and
- (ii) The discount or premium on the contract (that is, the difference between the Japanese yen amounts of the contract translated using the contracted forward rate and the spot rate at the date of inception of the contract) is recognized over the term of the contract.

In addition, when an interest rate swap contract meets certain conditions, the net amount to be paid or received under the contract is added to or deducted from the interest on the hedged items.

b. Hedging instruments and hedged items

Hedging instruments:

Forward foreign exchange contracts
Interest rate swap contracts

Hedged items:

Foreign currency transactions
Interest expense on borrowings

c. Hedging policy

The Company uses financial instruments to hedge market fluctuation risks in accordance with its internal policies and procedures.

d. Assessment method of hedge effectiveness

The Company does not assess hedge effectiveness, because all its forward foreign exchange contracts and interest rate swap contracts are accounted for in the manner described in the second and third paragraphs of 8. a. above, respectively.

9. Consumption tax

Consumption tax is separately accounted for by excluding it from each transaction amount.

Change in Presentation

Gain on sale of investment securities, which had been included in miscellaneous income in non-operating revenues for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2001, was separately reported for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002, because the amount became significant ¥537 million for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2001).

Additional Information

Introduction of end-to-end rate system for cellular services among wireless carriers

For interconnected calls between two cellular operators in the previous years, each operator set its own end-user rate for the part of the cellular service it provided. Effective April 1, 2001, an end-to-end rate system was introduced and the operator serving the caller sets the end-user rate for the entire call, including the part of the call serviced by the other operator's network.

Consequently, after the introduction of the new rate system, the total charge for the entire call is accounted for as voice transmission service revenue and an access charge is expensed as a communication network charge.

The introduction of the new rate system increased both operating revenues from telecommunication businesses (voice transmission service revenue) and operating expenses from telecommunication businesses (communication network charges) by ¥67,385 million for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002 in comparison with those under the previous call rate setting system.

6. Outlook for DoCoMo's consolidated financial results after the share exchange

The Regional Subsidiaries have been consolidated subsidiaries of DoCoMo. Therefore, DoCoMo does not expect substantial effects upon the consolidated financial results due to the share exchanges. DoCoMo announced its outlook for its consolidated financial results for the fiscal year ending on March 31, 2003 in its earnings release for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002.

II. Reduction of Statutory Reserve

1. Purpose of the Reduction of Statutory Reserve

DoCoMo is planning to transfer its treasury shares to the shareholders of each of the Regional Subsidiaries in lieu of newly issued shares upon the share exchange which is scheduled to be effective on November 1, 2002 (see III. below). In order to secure a source for the repurchase of its own such shares, DoCoMo will reduce its statutory reserve.

2. Outline of Reduction of Statutory Reserve (amount of reduction)

Pursuant to Paragraph 2 of Article 289 of the Commercial Code of Japan, DoCoMo will reduce its additional paid-in capital by total of ¥1,000,000 million, which is part of the amount that exceeds one-fourth of its stated capital, from the aggregated statutory reserve amounting to ¥1,296,484 million as of March 31, 2002, and will transfer such amount to other capital surplus, which is not part of the statutory reserve. As a result, the amount of DoCoMo's additional paid-in capital will be ¥292,385 million and the amount of its legal reserve will be ¥4,099 million.

3. Schedule for Reduction of Statutory Reserve

May 8, 2002	Board of Directors to approve the reduction of the statutory reserve
Late June, 2002	Shareholders Meeting to approve the reduction of the statutory reserve
Late July, 2002	Termination of the Creditor Objection Period
Late July, 2002	Effective date of the reduction of the statutory reserve

III. Repurchase of Shares (Share Repurchase Pursuant to Commercial Code Article 210)

1. Reason for Share Repurchase

DoCoMo is planning to repurchase some of its shares in order to transfer treasury shares to the shareholders of the Regional Subsidiaries in lieu of issuing new shares in the share exchanges scheduled to be effective on November 1, 2002.

2. Share Repurchase Summary

(1) Class of shares to be repurchased:	Shares of Common Stock of DoCoMo
(2) Aggregate number of shares to be repurchased:	Up to 1,000,000 shares (1.99% of outstanding shares)
(3) Aggregate amount of repurchase price:	Up to ¥500,000 million
(4) Method of repurchase:	Repurchases in the market

3. Effect upon interim dividends for the 12th business year

If the repurchase of DoCoMo's own shares is approved at a DoCoMo's shareholders meeting without amendment, the payment of interim dividends for its 12th business year (the fiscal year ending March 31, 2003) is expected to be suspended, as DoCoMo will not be able to satisfy the conditions for the payment of interim dividends set forth in the Commercial Code of Japan in that it can not consider the transfer of funds from the statutory reserve to other capital surplus. However, DoCoMo currently expects to be able to pay an aggregate annual dividend for its 12th business year, that is greater than the annual dividends for recent fiscal years. For more information regarding the prospective dividends for the 12th business year, please see DoCoMo's earnings release for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002, which was announced today.
