Table of Contents

The capital stock is represented by Class A , B , C and D common book-entry shares, with nominal value of ONE PESO each and entitled to one vote per share.

As long as Class A represents at least 15% of the Company's common stock, approval by a Class A special shareholders meeting is required to pass any shareholders resolution relating to a Special Majority Matter listed in Section Ten of these bylaws, except for the Special Majority Matter listed in paragraph (xxiii) of Section Ten (approval of Business Plan and Annual Budget) in respect of which a Class A special shareholders meeting will be necessary as long as Class A represents at least 20% of the Company's common stock. In addition, as long as Class D represents at least 15% of the Company's common stock, approval by a Class D special shareholders meeting is required to pass any shareholders resolution relating to a Special Majority Matter listed in Section Ten of these bylaws, except for the Special Majority Matter listed in paragraph (xxiii) of Section Ten (approval of Business Plan and Annual Budget) in respect of which a Class D special shareholders meeting will be necessary as long as Class D represents at least 20% of the Company's common stock. The above mentioned special shareholders meetings shall be held pursuant to Section 250 of Law No. 19,550.

Class A , C and D Shares of common stock are convertible into Class B Shares of common stock with equal political and economic rights, at a ratio of one to one, at any time, at the request of the holder of one or more shares of common stock who wishes to convert them into another class, through a notice addressed to the Board of Directors. For such purpose, the following procedure will apply: (i) the registered shareholder shall deliver to the Board of Directors a notice including, in the case of an individual, his/her first and last names, ID number, real domicile and special domicile, and in the case of legal entities, its complete legal name, real domicile and special domicile, and in both cases, if applicable, its taxpayer identification number and the number of shares of common stock of the Class held by such shareholder as of that moment, the number of shares which conversion is requested, and the balance of shares of common stock of that Class which such shareholder would hold once the conversion transaction is finished.

The request shall be signed by the registered shareholder or the registered shareholder's representative authorized by a letter certified by a bank or a Notary Public. Such request will constitute an irrevocable instruction for the Board of Directors to follow the procedure set forth in this Section Four until the exchange of shares, which shall be final; (ii) such request shall remain on hold if it is submitted once a call to a shareholders meeting of the Company has been published, in which case the conversion request shall be considered after such shareholders meeting; (iii) at the first meeting following receipt of the conversion request, the Board of Directors shall pass a resolution on such request and shall notify the new capital structure to the applicable controlling authority; (iv) the Board of Directors shall immediately request Caja de Valores S.A., which is in charge of the Company's Stock Ledger, to lock the shares, and shall notify the conversion to the Comisión Nacional de Valores (Argentine Securities and Exchange Commission, CNV for its Spanish acronym) and the Bolsa de Comercio de Buenos Aires (Buenos Aires Stock Exchange, BCBA for its Spanish acronym) in order to be granted with the authorization of public offering transfer and listing transfer, respectively; and (v) once the authorizations are obtained, Caja de Valores S.A. shall register the shares conversion in the Company's Stock Ledger.

Section Five: Shares of common stock to be issued in the future will be Class A , B , C or D book-entry shares, having the same characteristics as those already issued in accordance with the laws and regulations in force. In any issuance of shares of common stock, the proportion existing between Class A , B , C and D shares at the time of the Shareholders Meeting that determines such issuance shall be maintained, except if the Shareholders Meeting decides to act in accordance with the second paragraph of section 194 of Law No. 19,550. The Shareholders Meeting may also decide to issue book-entry preferred shares. Preferred shares may be entitled to preferred payment of their dividend, whether cumulative or not, according to their terms of issue and may also receive an additional share in the profits and/or be subject to early redemption, at the option of the company and under the terms established upon their issue.

The Extraordinary Shareholders Meeting may approve the issuance of dividend certificates (bonos de goce) pursuant to Section 228 of Law No. 19,550 and the terms of these bylaws, which shall have the rights granted to them herein and in their terms and conditions of issuance. The Extraordinary Shareholders Meeting may also decide the total or partial amortization of any paid-in shares, pursuant to Section 223 of Law No. 19,550 and, in case of total amortization of shares, the Company shall issue dividend certificates in favor of the holders of totally amortized shares, pursuant to Section 228 of Law No. 19,550 and the terms of these bylaws. If the amortization of shares is made with the consent of the holder of such shares, no raffle or pro rata basis among all shareholders will be necessary for its implementation, as long as the equal treatment of shareholders principle is observed. In addition, if the Extraordinary Shareholders Meeting approves the creation of an unavailable reserve with liquid and realized profits for an amount equal to the par value of the shares to be canceled, then the Extraordinary Shareholders Meeting may decide that no capital reduction is necessary and that the shares that remain outstanding may increase their par value so that they may represent by themselves in the aggregate the Company's capital stock. The Extraordinary Shareholders Meeting shall determine the terms and conditions of issuance of any dividend certificates that it may decide to issue, including the determination of a maximum amount of dividends to be collected during their term of duration, their term of duration and the terms and conditions of payment, including their payment currency and the protections that the shareholders meeting may provide for the collection of such dividends in the applicable currency. Such dividends may be fixed, variable, eventual or contingent on any event that the shareholders meeting may determine, or any combination of the above, with or without preference or priority with respect to dividends to be collected by one or more classes of shares of the Company. The dividend certificates may be issued as certificated securities or book-entry securities, and they shall be registered and non-endorsable. The Company shall be in charge of the registration of the ownership of the dividend certificates and the dividend payments made to them. The dividend certificates may be totally or partially redeemable at the Company's exclusive option and pursuant to the terms and conditions established by the Extraordinary Shareholders Meeting for such purpose. The Extraordinary Shareholders Meeting shall also determine the rights that may correspond to each class of dividend certificates with respect to the Company's liquidation proceeds, including the right of preference or priority in the liquidation proceeds with respect to one or more classes of shares of the Company, once the par value of such class or classes of shares is reimbursed. Once the dividend corresponding to the dividend certificates is collected, the dividend certificates shall have no right to participate in any other payment or distribution to be made by the Company, during its normal course of business or at its liquidation. The dividend certificates shall have no right to any liquidation proceeds, liquidation dividend or similar receivable if the Company is dissolved without liquidation as a result of being merged into another company that will become its successor, and because the Company would not be liquidated, without detriment to the rights of the dividend certificates to receive dividends pursuant to their terms and conditions of issuance. The Extraordinary Shareholders Meeting that decides the amortization of shares and the issuance of dividend certificates pursuant to the terms of Section 228 of Law No. 19,550 may authorize the Board of Directors to issue any kind of dividend certificate pursuant to the terms and conditions that such Shareholders Meeting may determine. Neither the dividend certificates nor their holders shall have any preemptive right or right of accrual, nor any right to subscribe new shares of any class or any dividend or participation certificates.

Section Six: Book-entry shares must be registered in accounts under the name of their holders, by the issuing company, in a book-entry shares registry to which section 213 of Law No. 19,550 applies, where relevant, or by commercial or investment banks or authorized securities depositaries.

Section Seven: In the event of default in the payment of capital, the Board of Directors may choose any of the following alternatives: a) provide that the subscription rights corresponding to the delinquent shares be sold in a public auction, or through an agent duly registered pursuant to Law No. 26,831, as amended, in case the shares are listed, in which case the delinquent subscriber shall pay for the auction or sale expenses through such registered agent and the default interest, notwithstanding its liability for damages; b) declare the forfeiture of those subscription rights, in which case the penalty shall be effective after demanding payment for a maximum term of 30 days, implying the loss of all sums paid; or c) demand the performance of the subscription agreement and the relevant damages.

Section Eight: The preemptive right on the subscription of new issues of common shares shall be governed by section 194 of Law No. 19,550. In case of an issue of shares of the four classes provided for in Section Four hereof, the preemptive right shall be limited to the unsubscribed shares of the relevant class. If, once the preemptive right on Class B or C shares has been exercised, there still remain unsubscribed shares, they may be subscribed by shareholders of any of the other classes indistinctly, in proportion to the shares they have subscribed on such occasion. Only when there still remain shares for subscription after the exercise of the abovementioned preemptive rights, the shares can be offered to third parties.

Section Nine: Section deleted by resolution of the General Ordinary and Extraordinary Shareholders Meeting held on May 23, 2017 (first part of the resolutions)

In case none of the elected directors nominated by Class A shareholders or none of the elected directors nominated by Class D shareholders are present at the duly called board of directors' meeting and the items of the agenda include a Special Majority Matter, the Board of Directors shall not discuss or pass a resolution on such items and call, under the provisions and within the terms set forth above, a new meeting of the Board of Directors to discuss those items of the agenda.

In case of a tie vote, the Chairman shall have two votes for issues that do not qualify as Special Majority Matters.

The Vice-Chairman shall NOT have two votes when acting in replacement of the Chairman for any reason. The Board of Directors may also hold meetings with its members communicated via video teleconference, in which case both physical and remote participation shall be considered for the purpose of establishing quorum. The minutes of these meetings shall be prepared and signed by the attending directors and members of the Supervisory Committee within five (5) days from the date the meeting is held. The members of the Supervisory Committee must expressly indicate in the minutes the names of those directors participating remotely and the legitimacy of the decisions made during the meeting. The minutes shall also include the statements of those directors physically present as well as of those participating remotely and the votes cast thereby in respect of each resolution adopted.
