Item 2: MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS.

Plan of Operation & Managements Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

INTRODUCTION

The following discussion is the quarterly management's discussion and analysis for the three month period ending December 31, 2002. Endo Networks, Inc., incorporated in Nevada and its wholly owned subsidiary, Endo Networks, Inc., incorporated in Ontario are collectively referred to as "Endo Networks" or the "Corporation". In this discussion, all amounts are expressed in US funds.

We wish to caution readers that this report includes certain forward-looking information and statements within the meaning of US federal securities laws. These forward-looking statements contain information that is generally stated to be anticipated, expected or projected by Endo Networks, and involves known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors which may cause the actual results and performance of Endo Networks to be materially different from any future results and performance expressed or implied by such forward-looking information.

OVERVIEW

Endo Networks effectively commenced operations as an aggregator of public network applications September 30, 2001, making this the fifth operating quarter for the Corporation. In addition to continually fine-tuning its application offering and strengthening its operational foundation, the company continues to be engaged in aggressively securing new paid pilot projects the retail, event and food service markets, primarily in Canada but with limited initiatives into the United States, as well as expanding our existing deployments. The company has changed its brief description to "Providing marketing and human resources technology solutions to measurably increase sales and improve margins" which is considered to be more understandable by target audiences than "aggregator of public network applications". Technically, "aggregator of public network applications" is an accurate description of our business.

RECENT EVENT

None.

DEPLOYMENTS

Generally, the fall and winter is a slower season for new deployments, where we focus more on managing our existing deployments and refining our applications and solutions. This year is not unusual in this respect. Progress of note includes:

- A two potentially substantial projects in the Automotive industry with international companies, both for deployment in the US market
- B an in-store Duty Free retail project, with an established partner in the category and a plan for expansion
- C the design phase of a total integrated food service solution for a division of a Canadian food service company with more than 1000 locations

5

We continued to manage our existing retail deployments and field marketing deployments with our current customers.

We are involved in the proposal stage of several significant projects for 2003 in all three categories of retail, food service and events.

There have been no deployments in the Government category this quarter; however, negotiations with our partners in this space hold promise for 2003.

SPONSORSHIPS

We have promising results in securing third party corporate sponsorships to mine the leads generated by our deployments. In the next quarter we will have several pilot projects running with potential sponsors, with expansion to be based on results.

PARTNERSHIPS

Several key application partnerships are anticipated in the near future. Further, the company is in the process of formalizing several business development partnerships.

REVENUES

Revenue are on-track with expectations for this period, and as usual were a mix of hardware sale, hardware rental and professional services. Professional services includes content creation, interactive design (on-premise touchscreens and websites), marketing consulting and hardware support service contracts. Hardware rental includes both hardware rented to clients short-term for use in events and field marketing, and long-term rental equipment permanently deployed in client retail locations.

Revenues for the three months ended December 31, 2002 were $111,671 compared with $57,924 for the same three month period in 2001, with a gross profit of $31,066 compared with $57,924 a year earlier. The decrease in gross profit was due to more service being conducted in the same period last year when there were more hardware deployments in the three months ended December 31, 2002. The increase in deployments should increase our revenue stream in future periods.

OPERATING EXPENSE

Operating expenses exclusive of depreciation and amortization decreased from $93,749 for the three months ended December 31, 2001 to $80,304 for the same three months in 2002. Again, this was due to less salaries paid for service work and more hardware deployments, as well as a decrease in depreciation and amortization from $36,733 to $2,729 for the same three month periods.

Operating expenses comprise depreciation and amortization ("d&a") on both rental equipment and fixed assets, and current operating expenses comprising chiefly salary, facility rental, interest on leases and professional fees.

The d&a of rental equipment will increase in future quarters as deployments increase, while the d&a on fixed equipment is expected to increase as the requirement for additional network monitoring equipment increases.

Significant investments in growth continue to be made by the Corporation in the following areas: business development, application development, business partnership negotiation and network management. Operational expenses in this category are expected to remain relatively static for the near future.

Net loss decrease from a loss of $72,558 in the three months ended December 31, 2001 to $51,967 for the same three months in 2002.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

The Corporation continues to receive substantial positive response from existing clients with the potential to consume more of the Corporation's products and services, and potential new clients in similar and new market categories. In order to meet the demand for Endo Networks' offering, it continues to be necessary to invest substantially in research and development. Clients and potential clients have been involved in meetings and discourse to determine software requirements, and identify areas for further development. Skilled software developers are involved in utilizing the results of this research to for the improvement of existing applications as well as the development of select new applications. New application development is tied to a set timeline based on expected development resources.

Edgar Filing: ENDO NETWORKS INC - Form 10QSB

LIQUIDITY & CAPITAL RESOURCES

Based on cash on hand, contracts and accounts receivable, Endo Networks expects current capital resources to be sufficient to fund existing operations going forward.

OUTLOOK

Endo Networks expects the next quarter to be similar to this quarter, in that it is a period of new business development which generally translates to strong revenue growth in later quarters. Expenses are expected to remain static, with future expansion subsequent to revenue growth. However, there can be no assurance that unforeseen revenue shortfalls or unanticipated expenses will not occur. Profitability will be determined by management's decision on how much revenue to re-invest in growth.
