Converium Holding Ltd, Zug

Zug, Switzerland - July 20, 2004 - Converium deals with pre-IPO legacy issues in US Casualty business.

- o Converium's second quarter results to be impacted by a reserve strengthening for US casualty business and subsequent asset impairments on the balance sheet of Converium Reinsurance (North America) Inc.
- o Pre-IPO legacy issues being dealt with
- o Converium explores all options for maintaining strong capitalization
- o Second quarter results and further information to be provided on July 27, 2004

Converium's second quarter results will fall short of expectations due to higher than modeled US casualty loss emergence primarily related to the underwriting years 1997 to 2001. Reserves for these lines of business, in particular umbrella, professional liability and Excess & Surplus Lines casualty, will be bolstered by up to US$ 400 million. This reserve action triggers net impairments of up to US$ 289 million of Deferred Tax Assets and US$ 94 million of Goodwill in the balance sheet of Converium Reinsurance (North America) Inc.

On April 29, 2004 Converium announced that first quarter reported losses from prior year US casualty business had exceeded expected loss emergence. In the same press release, Converium also stated the expectation that the volatility of longer-tail risks was likely to persist for some time. This adverse loss reporting trend has continued and accelerated in the second quarter of 2004. Converium's decision to increase reserves at this time should be seen in the context of an ongoing reserve strengthening for prior years at US primary insurance companies, triggered, in part, by the increased pressure for enhanced disclosure.

In response to the loss developments observed in the last quarters, Converium has initiated additional reviews of the US casualty business in order to examine the adequacy of prior years' provisions from an integrated actuarial, underwriting and claims perspective. At this point in time these ongoing internal reviews indicate a potential overall reserve shortfall relating to Converium's US casualty business of up to US$ 400 million. In addition, Converium has commissioned a leading firm of consulting actuaries to conduct a comprehensive and detailed external review. The outcome of their analysis will be communicated before the end of August.

Dirk Lohmann, CEO, said: "I am personally leading this comprehensive review with the assistance of our actuarial team and members of the newly created Underwriting Technical Services team under Gary Prestia's leadership. Let me stress that I am absolutely determined to put an end to this US casualty reserving saga."

The CEO added: "Although the latest set of reserve increases is a disappointment for all stakeholders, our ongoing business is performing well and our franchise in the global reinsurance markets remains strong. We have a new and better business model and a strengthened management team. The problems of the past have been isolated and are being addressed. With the impairment of the Deferred Tax Asset and the Goodwill on the North American balance sheet, the last of the legacy issues from the old Zurich Re have been eliminated. Over the next few weeks we will explore all options for maintaining Converium's strong capitalization, including the raising of additional capital, in order to meet the objectives of our shareholders, clients, intermediaries and other stakeholders."

Martin Kauer, CFO, said: "The rating agencies and most investment analysts do not fully consider soft assets such as Deferred Tax Assets and Goodwill when evaluating the value of a company. They focus on the net tangible book value, which excludes these two balance sheet items. From an economic perspective the North American Deferred Tax Asset will no longer be on Converium's consolidated balance sheet; from a tax perspective, however, we may be able to offset any future profits against these tax losses, thus reducing significantly our future tax rate."

Further information will be provided on July 27, 2004 as part of Converium's quarterly reporting.
