Lamperd Less Lethal Current Marketing Review.

To date we have been working to expand our footprint into the Middle East and North Africa, and pleased that we have aligned ourselves with a strategic partner in the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) region, allowing for expansion into new market areas with a diverse audience.

Our products were recently displayed with great success at two major tradeshows held in Dubai UAE, Intersec 2015 and IDEX 2015. Law enforcement and military looking for new technology in the field of non-lethal weapons were attracted to the products we offer, such as our body camera, which is currently being tested and used by UAE Police boat units, and a projected implementation encompassing forty UAE patrol vessels. Additionally, the Dubai Police Force is awaiting our Wifi/4G capable unit for their officers; we expect to deliver in 30 days.

Our patented composite ammunition is also currently being reviewed by Oman and Egypt for potential upgrade of current munitions. Furthermore, the Royal Oman Police (ROP) have a huge requirement, in that they use over 5 million rounds yearly for training. Lamperd has been specifically chosen for review by the ROP because they pride themselves on utilizing the most advanced systems and equipment available. After joining into a partnership in the Middle east, we have had quotes for 5 million U.S.D. in ammunition alone. While sales historically take time to complete in this region, we are pleased that customers are pushing to get quotes and arrange demonstrations quickly. With the huge emerging non-lethal weapons market from the GCC and North Africa, our products are in a position to provide solutions to solve challenges faced by police and military in the Middle East and around the world.
