BT TO DEVELOP NEW NATIONAL NETWORK FOR THE NHS

BT welcomed the announcement by the Department of Health that it had been awarded the leading role in a 7 year contract, worth an estimated GBP530m to procure, integrate and manage networking services for the New National Network for the NHS.

The innovative, integrated network, known as the New National Network, will provide the infrastructure foundations for the NHS National Programme for IT across England. BT will source network connections from a range of network providers who have competed on price and value, and will be responsible for the end-to-end integration of the network and the overall service it provides. The infrastructure will deliver the vital NHS Care Records Service to clinicians and medical practitioners, connecting the Local Service Provider (LSP) regional IT networks into one standardised system, which will benefit both patients and medical staff.

Using high-speed broadband connectivity, the New National Network will support the one of the largest intranets in Europe, catering for the huge data flow within the NHS. It will not only save costs, but the compatibility of the systems will deliver efficiencies to directly benefit patients.

Ben Verwaayen, BT's Chief Executive Officer, said:

"This win is further evidence of the changing face of BT. Binding together a network of this scale is a big challenge, but network integration is one of the things we do well and our successful management of the existing NHSnet has already shown that we can deliver. Our aim is to provide world class networking services to the NHS. We will deliver the network by co-ordinating a strong alliance of technology providers."

The increased bandwidth will open up a host of new opportunities to the 18,000 NHS sites in England. GP surgeries, primary care trusts and hospitals will benefit from faster, secure access and the ability to share and view large data files, patient records, video links and visual materials, such as x-rays. This will enable greater co-operation between different parts of the NHS and faster, more efficient patient treatment. For example, patients can receive the convenience of local specialist advice and treatment instead of the inconvenience of travelling a distance to specialist centres. The highest quality images and video examinations can be sent to specialists who conduct the diagnosis remotely.

The network will also be designed for future expansion, so that over time other healthcare professionals, including dentists, pharmacists, opticians and social services, will be able to access the network.

Notes to editors

A BT-led group of network providers will deliver the New National Network. BT will provide end-to-end integration and service management and procure network connectivity and other services from the other providers.

BT is playing a major role in GBP5 billion national programme to modernise the NHS IT systems. It was awarded the ten year London Local Service Provider contract worth up to GBP996 million last December and a GBP620 million ten-year contract for the national patient record database. The contracts were won by a 300 strong bid team led by BT Syntegra and including BT Retail, BT Wholesale and BT Global Services.

London Local Service Provider: As the local service provider for London, BT will design, deliver and operate integrated local patient record applications and systems for the whole of the London care community through BT Syntegra, its systems integration subsidiary. It will work with a number of companies with world class experience in the development, deployment and operation of healthcare systems. BT has yet to announce which firms it is working with.

National patient record database: The national patient record database will hold electronic summary patient records. These secure records will be shared nationally with clinicians and medical practitioners dependent on their authority. Patients will no longer be required to repeat information about their medical history at different stages of the care process. By ensuring that the right information about a patient is in the right place at the right time, the solution will help the NHS extract great value from its investments and deliver a better service. Working in association with BT on the project will be Oracle, Sun Microsystems and LogicaCMG.

BT HITS FURTHER BROADBAND MILESTONE

BT today announced it had passed its target of two million wholesale broadband connections just two months into the calendar year for which it was set. The latest million connections have come in little more than eight months.

Ben Verwaayen, BT chief executive said: "The phenomenal growth we are now seeing in the broadband market is excellent news for the whole economy, and for the UK broadband industry in general. Over the next few years we will all have to continue to work hard to maintain this momentum, but I have no doubt that this is absolutely achievable. "

More than 700,000 people have signed up with BT's world leading registration scheme since it was set up in July 2002. It has helped match investment to demand and has enabled BT to roll out broadband at a much faster pace than would otherwise have been possible. More than 85 per cent of UK homes and businesses are now connected to broadband enabled exchanges and the figure is expected to reach 90 per cent by the summer. Currently customers connected to 2,345 exchanges can get broadband and more than 800 are in the process of being upgraded, including those in partnerships.

The past eighteen months have seen BT put broadband at the heart of its strategy with several significant developments:

- two major wholesale broadband price cuts helping to make UK retail prices

Edgar Filing: BT GROUP PLC - Form 6-K

- among the best value in Europe
- a registration scheme to extend broadband to areas where there is proven demand
- introduction of BT Broadband, a high speed direct internet access product
- the first delivery in Europe of a broadband content and applications partnership, with Yahoo!
- trigger levels set that could bring broadband within reach of more than 99 per cent of UK homes by next year
- regional partnerships to stimulate demand and extend broadband availability.

Broadband Facts

- The UK is the most competitive broadband market in the world. There are more than 150 ADSL providers - and cable companies have about a 40 per cent market share
- Broadband in the UK costs only the equivalent of nine SMS text messages (or less than half a pint of beer) a day
- BT's registration and trigger scheme - to identify where demand is strongest - is working, with more than 1,000 exchanges enabled so far - and other countries are now beginning similar schemes
- BT has worked with more than 600 local action groups to stimulate demand for broadband and reach their local trigger levels. 700,000 customers have now registered their interest in broadband and more than one million leaflets have been distributed to promote the scheme and boost demand.
- BT is pushing to make broadband available as widely as possible through, for example, a number of partnerships with regional and local stakeholders to deliver ADSL broadband or to increase take-up.
- BT was considered the most innovative telecommunications company in the EU in its approach to delivering rural broadband by the Yankee Group
- In the time you took to read these broadband facts, another 10 people have signed up for broadband in the UK
