Millennium and Lyondell

To Merge

On March 29, 2004, Millennium and Lyondell announced that their respective Board of Directors has approved a definitive agreement to combine the two companies. The combination creates the third largest independent publicly traded chemical company in North America, with total combined revenues of over $11 billion and a combined market capitalization of nearly $4 billion. The company will be well positioned globally, with tremendous leverage to the petrochemical cycle through Equistar, and a strong foundation from more stable cash flow businesses in acetyls, propylene oxide and derivative products, refining and titanium dioxide.

This is the right move for Millennium at this time, as it provides opportunities for employees to be a part of a larger entity that has an improved ability to weather economic and industry cycles through the diversity of its businesses.

Lyondell is totally committed to the core businesses of Millennium, and believes our scope, market positions and diversification adds balance in the combined portfolio, a key strength in an industry that is becoming increasingly competitive.

While the great majority of our employees globally will be unaffected by this transition, there will be employees who will be impacted. Being in the same industry where maintaining competitiveness is key to success, Millennium and Lyondell share an operational excellence approach to operations, which is focused on efficiency and continuous improvement.

The TiO<sub>2</sub> business will continue to be operated out of Baltimore, along with both business and support resources. However, the Acetyls business will likely be combined organizationally with Equistar and managed from Houston.

After the close of the transaction, the company will be called Lyondell Chemical Company and will be headquartered in Houston, Texas.
