Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Information and Adjusted Information

This presentation includes snapshot information about PNC used by way of illustration. It is not intended as a full business context of all of the information made available by PNC in its SEC filings. The presentation also contains forward-looking statements relating to PNC's future business, operations, financial condition, financial performance, capital and liquidity levels, and assets subject to numerous assumptions, risks and uncertainties, which change over time.

The forward-looking statements in this presentation are qualified by the factors affecting forward-looking statements identified included in the Appendix, which is included in the version of the presentation materials posted on our corporate website at www.pnc.com detail regarding some of these factors in our 2008 Form 10-K and 2009 Form 10-Qs, including in the Risk Factors and Risk Management sections of our 2008 Form 10-K and 2009 Form 10-Qs, and in our other SEC filings (accessible on the SEC's website at www.sec.gov and on or through our corporate website at www.pnc.com) and elsewhere in this presentation as inactive textual references only. Information on these websites is not part of this document. Future events or circumstances may change our outlook or expectations and may also affect the nature of the assumptions, risk factors and other statements are subject. The forward-looking statements in this presentation speak only as of the date of this presentation. We will update those statements.

In this presentation, we will sometimes refer to adjusted results to help illustrate the impact of certain types of items, including the impact of BlackRock's acquisition of Barclays Global Investors (BGI), our fourth quarter 2008 conforming provision for credit losses, and our 2009 and 2008 periods. This information supplements our results as reported in accordance with GAAP and should not be viewed as a substitute for our results. We believe that this additional information and the reconciliations we provide may be useful to investors, analysts, regulators and other interested parties to these respective items on our results for the periods presented due to the extent to which the items are not indicative of our ongoing operations. In certain discussions, we may also provide information on yields and margins for all interest-earning assets calculated using non-GAAP methods, including increasing the interest income earned on tax-exempt assets to make it fully equivalent to interest income earned on taxable investments. This information may be useful when comparing yields and margins for all earning assets.

This presentation may also include discussion of other non-GAAP financial measures, which, to the extent not so qualified, may not be comparable to the reconciliation information available on our corporate website at www.pnc.com under "About PNC Investor Relations."

Our businesses and financial results are affected by business and economic conditions, both generally and specifically in the markets in which we operate. In particular, our businesses and financial results may be impacted by:

- o Changes in interest rates and valuations in the debt, equity and other financial markets;

- o Disruptions in the liquidity and other functioning of financial markets, including such disruptions in the markets for real estate commonly securing financial products;

- o Actions by the Federal Reserve and other government agencies, including those that impact money supply and market interest rates;

- o Changes in our customers', suppliers' and other counterparties' performance in general and their creditworthiness in particular;

- o Changes in levels of unemployment; and

- o Changes in customer preferences and behavior, whether as a result of changing business and economic conditions or other factors.

A continuation of recent turbulence in significant portions of the US and global financial markets, particularly if it worsens, could impact our performance, both directly and indirectly by affecting our revenues and the value

our assets
and liabilities
indirectly by affecting our counterparties
the economy generally.

current environment, both
by changes

creditworthiness and performance of our counterparties and by changes in the competitive and regulatory landscape.

Given current economic and financial market conditions, our forward-looking financial statements are subject to the risk that substantially different than we are currently expecting. These statements are based on our current expectations that interest rate will move downward in the first half of 2010 but will move upward in the second half of the year and our view that the modest economic recovery that we expect will extend through 2010.

Legal and regulatory developments could have an impact on our ability to operate our businesses or our financial condition or our competitive position or reputation. Reputational impacts, in turn, could affect matters such as business generation and retention, attract and retain management, liquidity, and funding. These legal and regulatory developments could include:

- o Changes resulting from legislative and regulatory responses to the current economic and financial industry environment, including future conditions or restrictions imposed as a result of our participation in the TARP Capital Purchase Program;
- o Other legislative and regulatory reforms, including broad-based restructuring of financial industry regulation as well as change regulations involving tax, pension, bankruptcy, consumer protection, and other aspects of the financial institution industry;
- o Increased litigation risk from recent regulatory and other governmental developments;
- o Unfavorable resolution of legal proceedings or other claims and regulatory and other governmental inquiries;
- o The results of the regulatory examination and supervision process, including our failure to satisfy the requirements of agreements with governmental agencies;
- o Changes in accounting policies and principles; and
- o Changes to regulations governing bank capital, including as a result of the so-called "Basel 3" initiatives.

If we do not redeem the Series N Preferred stock we issued to the US Department of the Treasury such securities may limit our capital to our shareholders and are dilutive to our common shares. If we are unable previously to redeem the shares, the dividend is payable substantially after five years.

Our business and operating results are affected by our ability to identify and effectively manage risks inherent in our businesses. We manage risks, where appropriate, through the effective use of third-party insurance, derivatives, and capital management techniques, and by our ability to meet regulatory capital standards.

The adequacy of our intellectual property protection, and the extent of any costs associated with obtaining rights in intellectual property from others, can impact our business and operating results.

Our ability to anticipate and respond to technological changes can have an impact on our ability to respond to customer needs and competitive demands.

Our ability to implement our business initiatives and strategies could affect our financial performance over the next several years.

Competition can have an impact on customer acquisition, growth and retention, as well as on our credit spreads and product pricing, market share, deposits and revenues.

Our business and operating results can also be affected by widespread natural disasters, terrorist activities or international hostilities. The result of the impact on the economy and capital and other financial markets generally or on us or on our customers, suppliers or other parties is not specifically known.

Also, risks and uncertainties that could affect the results anticipated in forward-looking statements or from historical performance are discussed in more detail in BlackRock's filings with the SEC, including in the Risk Factors section of BlackRock's annual reports. BlackRock's SEC filings are accessible on the SEC's website and on or through BlackRock's website at www.blackrock.com. These filings are referenced for informational purposes only and should not be deemed to constitute a part of this document.

In addition, our acquisition of National City Corporation ("National City") on December 31, 2008 presents us with a number of risks both to the acquisition itself and to the integration of the acquired businesses into PNC. These risks and uncertainties include the which have been under significant stress recently. Specifically, we may incur more credit losses from National City's loan portfolio. Other issues related to achieving anticipated financial results include the possibility that deposit attrition or attrition in key client relationships may be greater than expected.

Legal proceedings or other claims made and governmental investigations currently pending against National City, as well as claims filed, made or commenced relating to National City's business and activities before the acquisition, could adversely impact our results.

Our ability to achieve anticipated results is also dependent on our ability to bring National City's systems, operating models, and processes into conformity with ours and to do so on our planned time schedule. The integration of National City's business and operations into PNC includes conversion of National City's different systems and procedures, may take longer than anticipated or be more costly than anticipated. There are also unanticipated adverse results relating to National City's or PNC's existing businesses. PNC's ability to integrate National City's business may be adversely affected by the fact that this transaction has resulted in PNC entering several markets where PNC did not previously have a retail presence.

In addition to the National City transaction, we grow our business from time to time by acquiring other financial services companies.
