July 29, 2013

Dear Fellow Office Depot Shareholder:

Your Board and management team are hard at work executing on our multi-year strategic plan and our transformative merger with OfficeMax. The deal with OfficeMax has been years in the making and is progressing well toward completion, with shareholder approval received and integration planning running full steam ahead. As you know we also recently closed the sale of Office Depot de Mexico, a transaction that significantly strengthens the company's liquidity and financial flexibility.

Your Board and management team are also making significant progress executing on our key strategic initiatives to improve the overall operating performance and profitability of Office Depot's standalone business. We have the necessary expertise and diverse experience to understand the current retail and Office Supply Superstores

With the Company in the midst of its strategy to generate long-term value for shareholders and so much already underway, your support for the Company's Board of Directors is critical. An activist investor in the Company's stock, Starboard Value LP (together with its affiliates and related parties (Starboard)), has put forward four hand-picked nominees without the knowledge and expertise necessary to oversee the successful implementation of the Company's strategic plan and merger with OfficeMax.

We encourage you to protect the future of your investment in Office Depot and vote the WHITE card today in support of our 10 highly qualified and experienced director nominees (Neil R. Your Board consists of experienced individuals with highly diverse backgrounds, carefully selected for the unique expertise they bring to the Board. We Expect Successful Closing by the End of 2013

Our merger agreement with OfficeMax, a deal that has been years in the making, is well underway and on track for a successful closing by the end of the year. The merger was thoughtfully structured as a merger of equals that will result in an eleven member board made up of five directors from each company plus a CEO. At the recent special meeting, we received overwhelming support from our shareholders, including Starboard, with 98% voting for the transaction and the governance structure it envisions at the recent special meeting. We believe this is a strong endorsement of the strategic rationale behind this merger: to create a stronger and more efficient world-class provider of office products, services and solutions, with the financial strength to compete in today's rapidly changing industry and deliver improved shareholder value. The final step in the merger process will be FTC approval, which we expect to obtain in time to close the transaction by the end of this year.

In addition, your Board and management team, in close coordination with OfficeMax and The Boston Consulting Group (BCG), our integration consultant, have made significant progress on integration planning including:

Establishing integration planning teams to develop detailed integration strategies, Day 1 operating plans and underlying initiatives for the combined company;

Creating an integration management office to guide day-to-day integration design and planning, ensure interdependencies and risks are identified, and make certain that mitigation plans are developed;

Establishing a steering committee with executives from both Office Depot and OfficeMax to direct the overall integration strategy and resolve any issues encountered by the project teams;

Forming a CEO selection committee with equal representation from both Office Depot and OfficeMax, selected from a pool of well-qualified directors; and Hiring executive search firm Korn/Ferry International to assist the selection committee in identifying and evaluating the best possible candidates to serve as CEO.

Overall, the progress we have made in integration planning, the talent and dedication of the teams, along with the additional analysis on the combined company cost structure give us confidence we can achieve our synergy projections. With such significant progress and momentum on our side, we ask for your continued support as we work diligently towards a successful closing of our merger with OfficeMax to fully realize the value potential of your investment.

Under the Guidance of Your Board, Our Strategic Plan and Key Initiatives are Achieving

Results for Shareholders

While your Board and management are very much engaged in executing the OfficeMax transaction and integration planning, they are also focused on the continued successful implementation of our multi-year business plan to improve the company's core operating results. Our efforts, which date back to 2007, continue to position Office Depot for long-term performance to maximize shareholder value. Our Board and management team have already successfully led the Company through significant industry headwinds including increased competition, a reduction in paper products consumption, economic conditions in the U.S. and Europe and capital markets volatility that has impacted our entire sector. These challenges have required the Board to be nimble in response to external conditions, and to anticipate and address the impact of these issues. We are seeing real results from our steady progress. So far, our strategic initiatives have resulted in over $1 billion in benefits since 2007, including approximately $200 million in 2012 and an estimated $120 million in additional benefits expected in 2013.

Our initiatives are not solely focused on margin and operating expense goals however. We also continue to invest in new products and programs in each of our divisions to drive profitable sales and address the changing needs of our customers to position Office Depot for long-term growth and profitability. We strongly believe these efforts, which are beginning to show tangible results on our balance sheet, will generate long-term value for all of our shareholders.
