Investment income dividends and capital gains distributions are taken in additional shares. This chart covers the years 1990-2004. Fees for the reinvestment of interim dividends are assumed as 2% of the amount reinvested (maximum of $2.50) and commissions of $0.05 per share. There is no charge for reinvestment of year-end distributions. No adjustment has been made for any income taxes payable by stockholders on income dividends or on capital gains distributions or the sale of any shares. These results should not be considered representative of the dividend income or capital gain or loss which may be realized in the future.

LETTER TO SHAREHOLDERS

For the third consecutive year, the major energy indices outperformed the Dow Jones Industrial Average and the S&P 500 Index. In this annual report we share with you our performance for the past year and provide our current perspective on the energy markets.

THE YEAR IN REVIEW

Performance

Petroleum & Resources outperformed both the S&P 500 Index and the Dow Jones Industrial Average in 2004. Most of the investments in the Fund benefited from the surging demand and price environment for oil and gas. The return on net assets, including income and capital gains distributions for the calendar year, was an exceptional 23.3%, far surpassing the 10.9% return for the S&P 500 and the 5.3% return of the Dow Industrials. On a market value basis, the Fund's return was 14.4%. Strong supply/demand dynamics and the geopolitical turmoil in major oil-producing countries continued to drive oil and gas equities. Our cash position, non-energy holdings, and our positions in international companies not included in the Index caused us to lag the Dow Jones Energy Index for the entire year. Through December 17, 2004, the Fund's total return was 22.2% compared to the Energy Index's 28.3%. On December 20, Dow Jones discontinued publishing the Energy Index and established a new Oil and Gas Index in its place, with no representation of coal companies. For comparative purposes, in the remainder of this letter references to annual returns of the sectors of the Fund and the Dow Jones Energy Index will be for the year through December 17.

Following a strong rebound in the fourth quarter of 2003, energy stocks continued to outperform in 2004. The first quarter witnessed an increase in the Petroleum & Resources portfolio of 3.3% compared to a 1.7% rise in the S&P and a modest decline in the Dow Jones Industrial Average. Benefiting from the perception of supply constraints in the market and the drilling programs of the oil companies, oil service and equipment companies in our portfolio gained 16% in the quarter, besting the 13% return of the service subsector of the Dow

Edgar Filing: PETROLEUM & RESOURCES CORP - Form N-CSR

Jones Energy Index. Within the Energy Index, the stronger performance shifted to exploration and production companies during the second quarter, providing a return of 13%. Strong demand and apparent supply constraints biased the stocks upward through the third quarter of the year. The hurricane season pressured an already tight supply/demand balance and drove energy prices higher in the second half of the year, with commodity prices peaking in October. Equity prices in general reflected the commodity move upward, but to a lesser degree. Companies focused primarily on finding and developing oil and gas reserves, however, experienced stock movements greater than the commodity prices. Our holdings in Amerada Hess, Burlington Resources and Devon each gained more than 57%. The larger, more diversified oil companies returned 21.8% during the same time period, with Exxon Mobil, ChevronTexaco and BP delivering the best performance of the international oil stocks in our portfolio. Our investments in the underperforming equities of Royal Dutch/Shell, which are not included in the Energy Index, were a significant drag on the portfolio's performance. Coal prices and stocks also rose during the year, reflecting rising demand and a strong pricing environment.

Pipelines continued to recover financially in 2004, resulting in a 21.7% increase in the pipeline stocks in the Energy Index and a 65% increase in our pipeline holdings. Utilities also participated in the move as their index rose 20.2% during the year and our holdings, led by utilities with exploration and production exposure, increased 22%. The final month of the year witnessed a correction in oil and gas prices. During December, energy stocks underperformed the general market due to an oil price decline of 11% and a 19% price correction in natural gas. Warm weather and sizable crude and product inventories tempered enthusiasm for oil and gas stocks as 2004 drew to a close. While increasing during the year, our chemical and paper holdings delivered returns lower than those provided by energy stocks. The materials sector of our portfolio gained 9% and industrial stocks, led by General Electric, returned 19%.

Oil Industry

At year-end 2003, our outlook for 2004 was for oil prices to settle in the upper end of the $22-$28 range and perhaps to correct more as OPEC production increased. This estimate seemed lofty at the time but was justified by low inventories and rising worldwide demand. However, tight crude and product inventories, stronger than anticipated demand, especially from China, and a large speculative market all conspired to drive oil prices higher than we and most other analysts anticipated. The actual average price realization in 2004 for oil was $41.25 per barrel.

The year was characterized by volatility and extremes. The early months of the year saw a trading range for crude oil of $32-$36 per barrel due to a tight crude oil market, low inventories and the OPEC resolution to lower its production quota. Demand both in China and in the U.S. gasoline market influenced the upward move in oil prices. Unrest in Iraq and other countries such as Nigeria, Venezuela and Saudi Arabia contributed to the speculative component of the crude price.

As the year progressed, OPEC increased the quota three times, to a level of 27 million barrels per day by November. Production levels exceeded quotas for most of the year but record prices for crude and gasoline

year and the severe hurricane season exacerbated the domestic crude supply problem. Hurricanes Charley, Frances and Ivan inflicted severe damage on the Gulf Coast and caused major delays in oil shipments and the temporary shutdown of refineries. While the oil production losses along the coast were minimal, the incremental disruption to supply only brought more pressure to bear on the markets. Compounding the hurricane season's effect was the news that Russia's biggest oil-exporting company, Yukos, might be forced to halt operations due to tax debts. The tight oil markets could not absorb the potential Yukos loss, as it supplied 2% of the world market. By the final quarter of the year, these new pressures, added to strong demand, the uncertain flow of oil exports from Iraq, Venezuelan political instability and a Nigerian labor strike all converged on the markets. The benchmark for U.S. crude, West Texas Intermediate, soared to $55 per barrel on October 22. Since that peak, higher OPEC output, warm East Coast weather, and the return to production of a large portion of the Gulf of Mexico combined to replenish U.S. crude oil inventories. Prices corrected and ended the year at $42.15 per barrel, 33% higher than the start of the year. Petroleum product prices such as gasoline also set record prices and, despite the decline in December, ended the year 20% higher than at the beginning of the year.

Natural Gas and Coal

Natural gas prices increased during 2004 but to a much lesser extent than crude and averaged $5.89 per thousand cubic feet for the year, or a 10% increase over the prior year. Prices spiked early in the year as cold weather and expectations for strong industrial demand prevailed. Helped by crude oil prices, natural gas sustained mid $5 per thousand cubic feet pricing despite weather not being much of a factor and healthy inventory levels as the winter heating season ended. Long term concern regarding U.S. natural gas production continues to be reflected in pricing. The domestic industry has not experienced incremental production increases in recent years despite active drilling programs. The marginal cost to produce natural gas rose during 2004, reflecting the continued maturation of the North American producing base. Liquefied natural gas (LNG) imports, though still representing less than 2% of U.S. gas demand, increased during the year. Natural gas pricing drifted lower during the early summer months until the frequency and severity of hurricanes curtailed output in the Gulf of Mexico. Since approximately 30% of North American gas production is from the Gulf Region, the hurricane-related shutdowns had an immediate impact. While most of the lost production was temporary, the concern over the lack of spare production capacity was heightened. Prices remained strong into the beginning of the heating season and closed the year just over $6 per thousand cubic feet. Coal prices increased again in 2004, with spot prices almost double those of 2002. Improved supply/demand conditions in key producing regions led to the increases both in spot and contract prices, especially in the Northern and Central Appalachian basins.

INVESTMENT RESULTS

Net assets of the Corporation on December 31, 2004 were $618,887,401 or $28.16 per share on 21,979,676 shares outstanding. This compares with $522,941,279 or $24.06 per share on 21,736,777 shares outstanding a year earlier.

Net investment income for 2004 was $8,924,453 compared to $8,134,186 for 2003. These earnings are equivalent to $0.41 and $0.38 per share, respectively, on the average number of shares outstanding throughout each year. In 2004, our 0.56% expense ratio (expenses to average net assets) was once again at a low level compared to the industry.

Net realized gains amounted to $18,979,327 during the year, while the unrealized appreciation on investments increased from $185,072,550 at December 31, 2003 to $275,422,891 at year end, a 49% increase.

Edgar Filing: PETROLEUM & RESOURCES CORP - Form N-CSR

DIVIDENDS AND DISTRIBUTIONS

Total dividends and distributions paid in 2004 were $1.32 per share compared to $1.19 in 2003. As announced on November 13, 2004, a year-end distribution consisting of investment income of $0.14 and capital gains of $0.79 was made on December 27, 2004, both realized and taxable in 2004. On January 13, 2005, an additional distribution of $0.13 per share was declared payable March 1, 2005, representing the balance of undistributed net investment income and capital gains earned in 2004 and an initial distribution from 2005 net investment income, all taxable to shareholders in 2005.

OUTLOOK FOR 2005

Crude Oil

The relentless rise in commodity prices, particularly oil and gas, has contributed to strong stock performance in the energy industry for the past three years. Many of the factors that contributed to the rise in prices are still in effect. However, the initial move in crude prices in 2005 was a $3 decline as inventories were high and weather, especially in the Northeast, was warm, resulting in less use of home heating fuels. OPEC (excluding Iraq) entered the year promising to curtail production to prevent significant inventory builds. The organization will meet early in the year to determine the appropriate quota necessary to maintain a desired price level. While the official price range is lower, it is believed that a U.S. price below $40 will trigger a quota reduction. Supply from Russia and the changes within Yukos and the Russian government will influence worldwide supply. Supply changes due to conflicts and disruptions in the Middle East, Nigeria and Venezuela cannot currently be quantified but the premium to normalized oil prices resulting from the uncertainty will remain. Worldwide demand growth is expected to remain strong. China accounted for 40% of the incremental demand last year and the sustainability of growth in China, as well as India and other growth markets, is crucial to supporting high oil prices. Current robust demand and the lack of increases in productive capacity, combined with the unknown geopolitical issues, contribute to a strong price outlook. U.S. demand remains strong despite the jump in crude and gasoline prices. However, a slowdown in China is likely, especially in the second half of 2005, and OPEC's compliance with its quotas may again set the price. Our 2005 outlook for oil prices is a wide range of $35-$40 for the year. If Saudi Arabia defends the market coincident with terrorist threats and other supply disruptions threatening the supply/demand balance, the near term floor price is likely to be $30 per barrel, a figure which used to be considered high.

Natural Gas and Coal

Prices for natural gas early in the year will be significantly influenced by weather. Inventories are abundant and the absence of cold weather in the Northeast is creating pressure on the commodity. One year ago, natural gas prices were approximately $1 lower and the weather was much colder, reflecting the correlation to crude oil pricing. The lack of new sources of gas entering the supply stream and rising costs for developing new supplies provide support for current prices. Exploration and production companies will continue to spend for new reserves at the same time the larger integrated companies are concentrating on LNG projects. Over the next year, natural gas volumes and pricing will vary with crude prices, weather and inventory levels. Our estimate is for a slightly lower gas price this year, dropping to $5.75 for an average as compared to $5.89 for 2004. An anticipated pickup in industrial demand should offset lower weather-related demand. Coal prices should remain strong throughout the year as prices reflect strong demand. Underinvestment in coal facilities as well as complex permitting procedures slowed the investment in reserve development in recent years. The pricing environment will reflect that dynamic as economic growth, especially from the steel industry, pressures prices during the next year. Longer term, the comparative cost advantage of coal versus oil and gas should provide a strong operating environment for coal.

In anticipation of lower average prices for oil and natural gas, we have reduced our holdings in a number of the exploration and development companies, whose performance is generally more tied to commodity prices. Investments have been redirected to international and domestic integrated companies as well as oil service companies. The large integrated companies should report lesser declines in income due to lower oil prices. The drillers and service companies are expected to continue to benefit from higher levels of exploration activity both domestically and abroad. We have avoided many basic materials stocks due to the volatility of metal and other materials prices. As these begin to stabilize at reasonable levels, there may be opportunities to invest more in the sector.

As noted, investment returns from the energy sector have been exceptional for three years in a row. After a long period of under-appreciation by investors, valuations are now more appropriate given the prospects of the companies. We expect strong earnings from the sector in 2005, barring unforeseen events, and therefore the stocks should perform reasonably well. General market returns are expected to be in the 7-10% range for the year; we anticipate that for the fourth year in a row the energy sector will do as well as, if not better than, the market as a whole.

SHARE REPURCHASE PROGRAM

On December 9, 2004, the Board of Directors authorized the repurchase by management of an additional 5% of the outstanding shares of the Corporation over the ensuing year. The repurchase program is subject to the restriction that shares can only be repurchased when the discount of the market price of the shares from the net asset value is 6.5% or greater.

From the beginning of 2005 through January 20, 2005, 13,500 shares have been repurchased under the program.

The proxy statement for the Annual Meeting of Stockholders to be held in Baltimore, Maryland on April 27, 2005, is expected to be mailed on or about March 15, 2005.

The Corporation has an employee incentive stock option and stock appreciation rights plan which provides for the issuance of options and stock appreciation rights for the purchase of up to 895,522 shares of the Corporation's Common Stock at 100% of the fair market value at date of grant. Options are exercisable beginning not less than one year after the date of grant and extend and vest over ten years from the date of grant. Stock appreciation rights are exercisable beginning not less than two years after the date of grant and extend over the period during which the option is exercisable. The stock appreciation rights allow the holders to surrender their rights to exercise their options and receive cash or shares in an amount equal to the difference between the option price and the fair market value of the common stock at the date of surrender.

Under the plan, the exercise price of the options and related stock appreciation rights is reduced by the per share amount of capital gain paid by the Corporation during subsequent years. At the beginning of 2004, there were 129,447 options outstanding with a weighted average exercise price of $18.35 per share. During 2004, the Corporation granted options, including stock appreciation rights, for 19,241 shares of Common Stock with an original weighted average exercise price of $22.86 per share. During the year, stock appreciation rights relating to 20,145 stock option shares were exercised at a weighted average market price of $25.31 per share and the stock options relating to these rights which had a weighted average exercise price of $13.00 per share were cancelled. At December 31, 2004, there were outstanding exercisable options to purchase 42,060 common shares at $10.04-$23.65 per share (weighted average price of $18.25) and unexercisable options to purchase 86,483 common shares at $14.26-$23.65 per share (weighted average price of $19.08). The weighted average remaining contractual life of outstanding exercisable and unexercisable options was 5.32 years and 6.18 years, respectively. The total compensation expense recognized in 2004 for the stock option and stock appreciation rights plan was $435,091. At December 31, 2004, there were 260,373 shares available for future option grants.

In December 2004, the Financial Accounting Standards Board revised the Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 123, Share-Based Payment which establishes standards for the accounting for transactions in which an entity exchanges its equity instruments for goods or services. It also addresses transactions in which an entity incurs liabilities in exchange for goods or services that are based on the fair value of the entity's equity instruments or that may be settled by the issuance of those equity instruments. Currently, the Corporation recognizes compensation cost for a stock option award over the award's vesting period. The revised FAS 123 is effective as of the beginning of the first interim or annual reporting period that begins after June 15, 2005. The Corporation is currently evaluating the impact it will have on its operations and financial statements.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT REGISTERED PUBLIC ACCOUNTING FIRM

To the Board of Directors and Stockholders of Petroleum & Resources Corporation:

In our opinion, the accompanying statement of assets and liabilities, including the schedule of investments, and the related statements of operations and of changes in net assets and the financial highlights present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Petroleum & Resources Corporation (hereafter referred to as the "Corporation") at December 31, 2004, the results of its operations for the year then ended, the changes in its net assets for each of the two years in the period then ended and the financial highlights for each of the five years in the period then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These financial statements and financial highlights (hereafter referred to as "financial statements") are the responsibility of the Corporation's management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these financial statements in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States). Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits, which included confirmation of securities at December 31, 2004 by correspondence with the custodian and brokers, provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

SHAREHOLDER INFORMATION AND SERVICES

WE ARE OFTEN ASKED --

How do I invest in Petroleum & Resources?

Petroleum & Resources Common Stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange and Pacific Exchange. The stock's ticker symbol is "PEO" and may be bought and sold through registered investment security dealers. Your broker will be able to assist you in this regard. In addition, stock may be purchased through our transfer agent, American Stock Transfer & Trust Company's INVESTORS CHOICE Plan (see page 21).

Where do I get information on the stock's price, trading and/or net asset value?

The daily net asset value (NAV) per share and closing market price may be obtained from our website at www.peteres.com. The daily NAV is also available on the NASDAQ Mutual Fund Quotation System under the symbol XPEOX. The week-ending NAV is published on Saturdays in various newspapers and on Mondays in The Wall Street Journal in a table titled "Closed-End Funds." The table compares the net asset value at the close of the week's last business day to the market price of the shares, and shows the amount of the discount or premium.

Petroleum's daily trading is shown in the stock tables of most daily newspapers, usually with the abbreviated form "PetRs." Local newspapers determine, usually by volume of traded shares, which securities to list. If your paper does not carry our listing, please telephone the Corporation at (800) 638-2479 or visit our website.

How do I replace a lost certificate(s) or how do I correct a spelling error on my certificate?

Your Petroleum stock certificates are valuable documents and should be kept in a safe place. For tax purposes, keep a record of each certificate, including the cost or market value of the shares it covers at the time acquired. If a certificate is lost, destroyed or stolen, notify the transfer agent immediately so a "stop transfer" order can be placed on the records to prevent an unauthorized transfer of your certificate. The necessary forms and requirements to permit the issuance of a replacement certificate will then be sent to you. A certificate can be replaced only after the receipt of an affidavit regarding the loss accompanied by an open surety bond, for which a small premium is paid by the stockholder.

In the event a certificate is issued with the holder's name incorrectly spelled, a correction can only be made if the certificate is returned to the transfer agent with instructions for correcting the error. Transferring shares to another name also requires that the certificate be forwarded to the transfer agent with the appropriate assignment forms completed and the signature of the registered owner Medallion guaranteed by a bank or member firm of The New York Stock Exchange, Inc.

Is direct deposit of my dividend checks available?

Edgar Filing: PETROLEUM & RESOURCES CORP - Form N-CSR

Yes, our transfer agent offers direct deposit of your interim dividend checks. You can request direct deposit with American Stock Transfer either on-line or by calling them at the phone number provided on page 21. At this time, AST does not offer direct deposit of your year-end distribution checks. We have been advised by AST that it will be able to offer this service for the 2005 year-end distribution.

Who do I notify of a change of address?

The transfer agent.

We go to Florida (Arizona) every winter. How do we get our mail from Petroleum & Resources?

The transfer agent can program a seasonal address into its system; simply send the temporary address and the dates you plan to be there to the transfer agent.

I want to give shares to my children, grandchildren, etc., as a gift. How do I go about it?

Giving shares of Petroleum is simple and is handled through our transfer agent. The stock transfer rules are clear and precise for most forms of transfer. They will vary slightly depending on each transfer, so write to the transfer agent stating the exact intent of your gift plans and the transfer agent will send you the instructions and forms necessary to effect your transfer.

Item 6. Schedule of Investments - This schedule is included as part of the report to shareholders filed under Item 1 of this form.

Item 7. Disclosure of Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures for Closed-End Management Investment Companies.

PROXY VOTING POLICIES & PROCEDURES

Petroleum & Resources Corporation (Petroleum) follows long-standing general guidelines for the voting of portfolio company proxies and takes very seriously its responsibility to vote all such proxies. The portfolio company proxies are evaluated by our research staff and voted by our portfolio management team, and we annually provide the Board of Directors with a report on how proxies were voted during the previous year. We do not use an outside service to assist us in voting our proxies.

As an internally-managed investment company, Petroleum uses its own staff of research analysts and portfolio managers. In making the decision to invest in a company for the portfolio, among the factors the research team analyzes is the integrity and competency of the companys management. We must be satisfied that the companies we invest in are run by managers with integrity. Therefore, having evaluated this aspect of our portfolio companies managements, we give significant weight to the recommendations of the companys management in voting on proxy issues.

We vote proxies on a case-by-case basis according to what we deem to be the best long-term interests of our shareholders. The key over-riding principle in any proxy vote is that stockholders be treated fairly and equitably by the portfolio companys management. In general, on the election of directors and on routine issues that we do not believe present the possibility of an adverse impact upon our investment, after reviewing whether applicable corporate governance requirements as to board and committee composition have been met, we will vote in accordance with the recommendations of the companys management. When we believe that the managements recommendation is not in the best interests of our stockholders, we will vote against that recommendation.

Our general guidelines for when we will vote contrary to the recommendation of the portfolio company managements recommendation are:

Stock Options

Our general guideline is to vote against stock option plans that we believe are unduly dilutive of our stock holdings in the company. We use a general guideline that we will vote against any stock option plan that results in dilution in shares outstanding exceeding 4%. Most stock option plans are established to motivate and retain key employees and to reward them for their achievement. An analysis of a stock option plan can not be made in a vacuum but must be made in the context of the companys overall compensation scheme. In voting on stock option plans, we give consideration to whether the stock option plan is broad-based in the number of employees who are eligible to receive grants under the plan. We generally vote against plans that permit re-pricing of grants or the issuance of options with exercise prices below the grant date value of the companys stock.

Corporate Control/ Governance Issues

Unless we conclude that the proposal is favorable to our interests as a long-term shareholder in the company, we have a long-standing policy of voting against proposals to create a staggered board of directors. Staggered boards are used to help create a roadblock to a possible takeover of a company or to entrench incumbent management and board. In conformance with that policy, we will generally vote in favor of shareholder proposals to eliminate the staggered election of directors.

Unless we conclude that the proposal is favorable to our interests as a long-term shareholder in the company, our general policy is to vote against amendments to a companys charter that can be characterized as anti-takeover provisions. For example, we generally vote in favor of stockholder proposals to rescind or require a stockholder vote on anti-takeover provisions such as poison pills and the like.

With respect to so-called golden parachutes and other severance packages, it is our general policy to vote against proposals relating to future employment contracts that provide that compensation will be paid to any director, officer or employee that is contingent upon a merger or acquisition of the company.

We generally vote for proposals to require that the majority of a board of directors consist of independent directors and vote against proposals to establish a retirement plan for non-employee directors.

We have found that most stockholder proposals relating to social issues focus on very narrow issues that either fall within the authority of the companys management, under the oversight of its board of directors, to manage the day-to-day operations of the company or concern matters that are more appropriate for global solutions rather than company-specific ones. We consider these proposals on a case-by-case basis but usually are persuaded managements position is reasonable and vote in accordance with managements recommendation on these types of proposals.
