Moody's Investors Service Global Credit Research

Announcement

6 NOV 2007

Announcement: Philippine Long Distance Telephone Company

Moody's affirms PLDT's ratings

Hong Kong, November 06, 2007 --Moody's Investors Service has affirmed Philippines Long Distance Telephone Company's ("PLDT") local currency issuer and foreign currency bond ratings at Baa2 and Ba2 respectively. The outlook on the ratings is stable.

This affirmation follows PLDT's announced proposals to amend certain of its bond indentures such that restrictions on the payment of dividends have been lifted.

"Whilst this theoretically puts no restrictions, over and above the Philippines regulatory requirements, on PLDT's ability to pay dividends, Moody's would expect that the company continue to maintain a credit profile commensurate with its rating level," says Laura Acres, a Moody's Vice President.

PLDT has consistently operated at an adjusted debt/EBITDA ratio of less than 1.5x since 2005 and Moody's expects such trend to continue.

PLDT's local currency issuer rating of Baa2 reflects the company's position as the largest telecommunications operator in the Philippines; strong consolidated financial metrics; dominant market position, founded on its integrated business platform; and the company's moderate sensitivity to technological developments and competitive pressures.

However, these factors are counterbalanced by country-specific issues, such as uncertainty surrounding the Philippines' political and economic environment. Any deterioration in the political system or changes in the regulatory regime could impact PLDT's operating profile and prospects for growth.

The stable outlook reflects Moody's expectation that PLDT will execute its business plan as outlined.

In addition, Moody's affirmation of PLDT's foreign currency bond rating reflects the fact that the rating is unlikely to rise without an improvement in the Philippines foreign currency country ceiling.

PLDT's financial metrics exhibit strong investment grade characteristics; hence any upward pressure on the local currency rating would be more reflective of a stabilizing economic, political and social environment reducing the operating environment uncertainties. Specifically, Moody's would look for PLDT to maintain its existing sound financial profile.

On the other hand, downward pressure is not expected, given that PLDT currently enjoys a healthy financial and operating risk profile. Event risk is always a possibility because of the parlous state of the socio-economic and political environment, and such risk would be measured by EBITDA margins falling below 50% or debt/EBITDA rising above 2.0x. Furthermore, the foreign currency ratings are sensitive to any movement in the sovereign rating.

Headquartered in Manila and listed on the Philippine Stock Exchange, PLDT is an integrated provider of fixed, broadband and cellular services. PLDT has approximately 28.3 million cellular and 1.7 million fixed line subscribers and is the leading telecommunications service provider in the Philippines. It has an approximate 58% market share for cellular telephony and 63% for fixed-line services.

Research Update:

Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. FC

Ratings Affirmed At BB+ ; Outlook Stable

Rationale

On Nov. 6, 2007, Standard & Poor's Rating Services affirmed its BB+ foreign currency rating on Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. (PLDT) following the solicitation from the holders of some of the company's senior notes to amend certain covenants. The outlook is stable.

The Rating on PLDT reflects that of the transfer and convertibility (T&C) risk assessment on the Philippines (foreign currency BB-/Stable/B; local currency BB+/Stable/B). Although the amendments to the company's senior notes due 2009, 2012, and 2017 will increase PLDT's flexibility to make investments and capital distributions, particularly dividends to ordinary shareholders, the company's financial profile is expected to remain consistent with the current rating.

The changes to covenants include the elimination of restricted payments, balanced by stricter leverage ratios, such as reducing the maximum consolidated leverage ratio to 3.0x from 3.5x in the previous covenants. Based on the proposed changes, PLDT will be allowed to make dividend payments and capital distributions (subject to the Philippines corporate laws), while allowing sufficient room for the company to make additional investments limited by the maximum leverage according to the bond covenants.

Given PLDT's improved credit metrics, Standard & Poor's does not expect the company's increasing focus on delivering shareholder value through capital distributions to significantly weaken its credit metrics. While PLDT's rating reflects the company's appetite for additional investments consistent with its growth strategy, the impact of significant investments on the company's rating will be assessed at the time of any such transaction. PLDT generates free cash flow of about US$725 million annually. Consolidated debt to EBITDA was below 0.8x at June 30, 2007, as a result of the company's effort to deleverage in the past few years; this ratio is expected to increase slightly, but to remain below 2x in the next two to three years.

Outlook

The stable outlook reflects the company's dominant market position, stronger credit measures, and expected sustainable free cash flow position. An upward revision of the T&C risk assessment for the Philippines will be needed before PLDT's foreign currency ratings may be raised. Conversely, any downward movement of the sovereign rating could prompt a reduction in the T&C risk assessment or deterioration in country risk factors, which in turn could result in a lowering of the ratings on the company. In addition, the rating could come under pressure if the company's total debt to EBITDA increases to above 2.5x, given the current satisfactory business profile supported by a leading market position.

Fitch Ratings

KNOW YOUR RISK

Fitch Affirms PLDT's Ratings On News It Will Solicit Changes To Bond Covenants

Fitch Ratings-Seoul/Singapore-06 November 2007: Fitch Ratings has today affirmed Philippine Long Distance Telephone Company's (PLDT) issuer and instrument ratings following news of the company's proposal to change certain covenants under its 2009, 2012 and 2017 senior notes. The affirmed ratings include PLDT's Long-term local currency Issuer Default Rating (IDR) at 'BBB', its Long-term foreign currency IDR at 'BB+' and its National Long-term rating at 'AAA(phil)'. The Outlook remains Stable. Also, PLDT's senior notes have been affirmed at 'BB+'.

PLDT has approached bondholders of its 10.5% Notes due 2009, 11.375% Notes due 2012 and 8.35% Notes due 2017, to seek their consent to amend the applicable limitations on dividends, shareholder distributions and restricted payments. Apart from some financial compensation to bondholders, PLDT intends to tighten the maximum threshold on its leverage and capital structure ratios; in return for consent to modify the covenants. In doing so, the company intends to reduce the maximum threshold on Consolidated Debt to EBITDA to 3.0x from 3.5x earlier as well as that on Long-Term Debt to Tangible Net Worth to 2.5x from 3.0x earlier.

"The proposed covenant amendments would afford the company higher capacity for dividend payments and capital management initiatives, which could potentially lead credit protection ratios to weaken from current levels. There is however, moderate headroom for an increase in net debt at the current local currency IDR level, before pressure is exerted on the rating," said Priya Gupta, Director in Fitch's Asia-Pacific telecommunications, media and technology team. As at June 2007, PLDT's net adjusted leverage stood at 0.6x, against a maximum threshold of 1.0x set by the agency. Future decisions (if any) with respect to material debt-funded acquisitions/investments and/or capital management initiatives will constitute event risk, subject to review on an individual basis.

PLDT is the incumbent and leading integrated and diversified player in the Philippines, with operations spanning fixed-line services, cellular services, wired and wireless broadband services and internet services. The company also has a growing presence in the call-centre and business process outsourcing space. PLDT's local currency rating of 'BBB'/Stable (which exceeds the sovereign local currency rating, 'BB+', by two notches) ignores foreign currency transfer and convertibility risk, and is more reflective of its stand-alone credit profile. In terms of its foreign currency IDR, PLDT remains constrained by the country ceiling of the Republic of the Philippines, currently at 'BB+'. Meanwhile, the National rating of 'AAA(phil)' incorporates all the above factors and is indicative of PLDT's relative credit strength among all Philippine companies.
