BURST.COM, INC. AND SUBSIDIARIES Notes to Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements (Unaudited)

(1) CHANGE OF NAME

On January 27, 2000 the Company changed its name from Instant Video Technologies, Inc. to Burst.com, Inc.

(2) BASIS OF PRESENTATION AND GOING CONCERN

The accompanying financial statements include the accounts of the Company and its wholly-owned subsidiaries, Explore Technology, Inc. and Timeshift-TV. All significant intercompany transactions and accounts have been eliminated in consolidation.

Through March 31, 2001, the Company had sustained recurring losses from operations and, at March 31, 2001, had a stockholders' deficit of $4,372,000 and a net working capital deficiency of $5,106,000. As discussed in Note 6, the Company has also closed most of its operating facilities and has laid off all but three of its employees. These conditions raise substantial doubt about the ability of the Company to continue as a going concern. During fiscal 2001, the Company expects to meet its working capital and other cash requirements with cash derived from operations and sale of marketable securities, and is in negotiations to obtain additional funding through sale of assets and/or new shares of common stock. However, there can be no assurance that the Company's efforts to achieve and maintain profitable operations will be successful. The financial statements do not include any adjustments that might result from the outcome of this uncertainty.

(3) INTERIM FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles for interim financial information and the instructions for Form 10-Q and Article 10 of Regulation S-X. In the Company's opinion, the financial statements include all adjustments, consisting of normal recurring adjustments, that the Company considers necessary to fairly state the Company's financial position and the results of operations and cash flows. The balance sheet at December 31, 2000, has been derived from the Form 10-K and the audited financial statements at that date but does not include all of the necessary informational disclosures and footnotes as required by generally accepted accounting principles. The accompanying financial statements should be read in conjunction with the financial statements and notes thereto included with the Company's Form 10-K filed April 17, 2001 and other documents filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The results of the Company's operations for any interim period are not necessarily indicative of the results of the Company's operations for any other interim period or for a full fiscal year.

(4) PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENT

Property and equipment consists of the following:

	March 31, 2001	December 31, 2000
Computer equipment	$ 413,410	$ 509,191
Furniture	83,875	94,426

March 31,

December 31,
2000

During the three months ended March 31, 2001, management determined that certain computers and other equipment were not recoverable at their current book value, and certain leasehold improvements and other assets had been abandoned when sales offices were closed. Accordingly, losses and writedowns totaling $52,290 have been included in the accompanying consolidated Statements of Operations.

10% Note payable to Robert Schacter, secured by 100,000 shares of Eagle Wireless International, Inc. common stock, interest and principal due September 12, 2001	100,000

The 6% notes payable are convertible into a new series of Preferred Stock to be identified as Series A-2001 at a per share conversion price of Five Dollars ($5.00) at the option of the note holders.

In connection with the Schacter note issuance, in March 2001 the Company repriced 98,870 existing $5.00 warrants and issued an additional 50,000 new warrants to purchase a total of 148,870 shares of common stock at $0.875. The warrants and repricings were valued at $100,000, resulting in a discount to Notes Payable amortized over the life of the loan.

March 31, 2001	December 31, 2000

During the first quarter of 2001, the Company closed and abandoned its sales offices. It also began moving out of its San Francisco headquarters, completing the move to new smaller Santa Rosa, California facilities in early April. Additionally, all but three of the remaining employees had been laid off by March 31, 2001.

(7) EQUITY FINANCING AND INVESTMENT IN MARKETABLE SECURITIES AVAILABLE FOR SALE

In February 2001, the Company exchanged 1,500,000 shares of its common stock valued at $843,735 for 400,000 shares of Eagle Wireless International, Inc. common stock. In addition, during the quarter the Company entered into a licensing agreement with Eagle Wireless whereby Eagle Wireless issued 104,000 of its common shares valued at $322,400 in exchange for a two-year license for certain technology rights. The license agreement is effective the earlier of January 2002 or the commercial deployment of any products incorporating the technology licensed from Burst. Accordingly, at March 31, 2001, the entire $322,400 is included in Deferred Revenues.

During the quarter ended March 31, 2001, the Company sold 93,200 of the Eagle Wireless shares, resulting in a realized loss of $96,817 included in other income and expense. The remaining shares were reduced to their market value as of March 31, 2001, resulting in unrealized losses of $466,114.

The Company completed a sale of its common stock and warrants to purchase common stock in January 2000. In addition to the conversion of notes outstanding referred to above, the Company received $13,898,500 in cash from various investors, including some directors and employees of the company, in exchange for 4,808,375 shares of common stock and 4,808,375 warrants to purchase common stock, offset by approximately $1,103,000 in transactions costs. The price per share of common stock was $4.00, which included the issuance of one warrant for each share of stock sold. Each warrant is exercisable for one share of common stock at an exercise price of $5.00 per share and expires 5 years from the date of issue. Compensation expense of $77,726 was recorded as a result of sales of stock to employees for the excess of fair value over the price paid. In connection with the offering, 98,870 five-year warrants to purchase common stock at $8.4375 per share were issued to the placement agent.

(8) STOCK OPTIONS

In January 2001 the Company granted options to purchase 150,000 shares of common stock exercisable at $0.3125 to an independent contractor. In addition, existing options for employees under variable plan accounting and unvested options being earned by contractors were revalued, resulting in a net reduction in stock-based compensation of $250,000 as of March 31, 2001.

As a result of severance agreements with certain senior officials, the lives of their options were extended to the full contractual life instead of expiring within a certain time period after termination. These extensions resulted in a stock-based compensation charge of $616,000. All stock-based compensation is included in General and Administrative expense in the accompanying consolidated Statements of Operations.

The Company granted options to purchase 90,250 shares of common stock to employees on February 1, 2000. Of these options, options to purchase 45,125 shares were issued with an exercise price of $4.00 per share and expiring on April 30, 2000. The remaining options to purchase 45,125 shares were issued with an exercise price of $5.00 per share and expire 5 years from the issue date. To the extent that any of the options with an exercise price of $4.00 per share were not exercised by April 30, 2000, then options to purchase an equal number of shares at an exercise price of $5.00 will terminate. As a result of these grants, the Company recorded compensation expense of $22,563 for the excess of the grant date fair value over the exercise price.

(9) OTHER RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Edgar Filing: BURST COM - Form 10-Q

In connection with the severance agreements referred to in Note 8 and the officer's employment agreement, a $157,190 loan to the Company's President has been fully reserved.

(10) SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

In May 2001, the Company signed an agreement with Eagle Wireless International Inc.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations.

The following discussion of the financial condition and results of operations of Burst.com, Inc. should be read in conjunction with the Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations and the Consolidated Financial Statements and the Notes thereto for the year ended December 31, 2000 included in the Company's Form 10-K.

CAUTIONARY NOTE ON FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

Some of the matters discussed in this Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations, and elsewhere in this quarterly report on Form 10-Q include forward-looking statements. We have based these forward-looking statements on our current expectations and projections about future events, including, among other things:

- implementing our business strategy;
- attracting and retaining customers;
- delivering quality product that meets customer expectations;
- obtaining and expanding market acceptance of the products and services we offer;
- responding quickly to technological challenges from third parties;
- forecasts of Internet usage and the size and growth of relevant markets;
- rapid technological changes in our industry and relevant markets; and
- competition in our market.

In some cases, you can identify forward-looking statements by terminology such as may, will, should, could, predicts, potential, continue, expects, anticipates, future, intends, plans, believes, estimates and similar expressions. These statements are based on our current beliefs, expectations and assumptions and are subject to a number of risks and uncertainties. Actual results, levels of activity, performance, achievements and events may vary significantly from those implied by the forward-looking statements. These forward-looking statements involve risks and uncertainties that could cause our results to differ materially from those discussed. These risks and uncertainties include, but are not limited to, those described under the caption Factors That May Impact Future Results below. Additional information concerning factors that may impact future results can be found in the Risk Factors section of the above referenced S-1 Registration Statement filed on April 17, 2000. These forward-looking statements are made as of the date of this report, and except as required under applicable securities law, we assume no obligation to update them or to explain the reasons why actual results may differ.

The Company believes that period-to-period comparisons of its operating results, including its revenues, cost of sales, gross margins, expenses, and capital expenditures may not necessarily provide meaningful results and should not be relied upon as indications of future performance. The Company does not believe that its historical growth rates are indicative of future growth or trends.

Edgar Filing: BURST COM - Form 10-Q

The Company has incurred significant losses since its inception, and as of March 31, 2001, it had an accumulated deficit of $59,205,740. There can be no assurance that the Company will achieve or sustain profitability and the Company believes that it will continue to incur net losses in 2001.

Overview

We are an independent provider of client/server network software for the delivery of video and audio information over networks. Our principal executive offices relocated to Santa Rosa, California and we have closed all other offices. Our software manages the delivery of video and audio content over various networks, including the Internet and corporate intranets, optimizing network efficiency and quality of service. Our Burstware® suite of software products enables companies to transmit video and audio files at Faster-Than-Real-Time speed, which is accomplished by utilizing available bandwidth capacity to send more video or audio data to users than the players are demanding. This data is stored on the users' machine for playing on demand, thus isolating the user from noise and other network interference. The result is high quality, full-motion video and CD-quality audio to the end-user. Our revenue is derived from fees for software licenses, content hosting and other consulting services.

Results of Operations

Revenue recorded for the three months ended March 31, 2001 was $31,323 versus 75,012 in 2000. The revenue decline was due to curtailment of sales, support and product marketing activity occurring in November 2000. The cost of revenue recorded for the quarter ended March 31, 2001 was zero. The 2000 cost of revenue of $30,271 consisted primarily of the cost of equipment purchased from a third-party, which was resold to a customer in connection with a software sale. Resale of equipment is not part of our sales strategy, and we do not plan to make such sales to any significant degree in the future.

Research & development expenditures during the three months ended March 31, 2001 were $147,542 as compared to $933,975 during the three months ended March 31, 2000. The decrease resulted from personnel reductions and curtailment of new product development and testing. There was no significant amount of research and development that would qualify for capitalization under SFAS 86. Major development activities began later in 1999 and continued until November 2000.

Sales & marketing during the three months ended March 31, 2001 were $260,661 as compared to $1,727,283 during the three months ended March 31, 2000. The $1,466,622 decrease was primarily a result of staff reductions and curtailment of sales, support and product marketing activity in November 2000.

During the three months ended March 31, 2001 general and administrative expense were $3,477,328 as compared to $1,151,649 during those months in 2000. The $2,325,679 increase was due in part to $807,750 of severance costs and $1,269,929 of lease termination costs incurred in 2001 and stock-based compensation charges and credits netting to an expense of $366,000. In addition, administrative costs have declined more slowly because of the ongoing efforts to market the Company's technology and form strategic alliances.

We had a net loss from operations of $3,854,208 during the three months ended March 31, 2001, as compared to $3,768,166 during the same three months in 2000. The increased loss resulted from the increased expenditures and charges offset by the reduction in workforce and operations discussed above. Other expense, net was $137,620 for the three months ended March 31, 2001; as compared to $30,974 net other income for the three months ended March 31, 2000. This decline was primarily due to reduced interest income, as the January 2000 stock offering and debt conversion resulted in a significant influx of cash during that period. Cash balances during the 2001 quarter were significantly smaller. In addition, the 2001 quarter includes recognized losses of $96817 on sales of Eagle Wireless common stock.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

Although we have been successful in our fundraising efforts to meet previous operating requirements, there can be no guarantee that we will be successful in future fundraising efforts. During the three months ended March 31, 2001 the Company raised

Edgar Filing: BURST COM - Form 10-Q

$350,000 in cash by issuing notes payable and $1,166,150 in marketable securities by issuing common stock and a licensing agreement. In January 2000, we raised approximately $12,796,000 in cash, net of $1,103,000 in costs, and converted $5,335,000 of debt (including $430,000 in new debt raised in January 2000), by issuing 4,808,375 shares of our common stock. As of March 31, 2001 we had cash reserves of approximately $70,284, which will, when supplemented by proceeds of the sale of marketable securities, meet current operating requirements for approximately three months at our current spending rate, assuming no revenue. We are currently in negotiations to obtain additional outside funding through the sale of shares of our common stock in a private placement directed at both strategic and financial investors, and have just signed a letter of intent. Any new funding raised may have a dilutive effect on our existing shareholders. In the event we were to be unsuccessful in our additional fundraising efforts and projected revenues were significantly lower than expected, we would be required to reduce significantly cash outflows through the reduction or elimination of marketing and sales, development, capital, and administrative expenditures resulting in decreased potential revenue and potential profitability.

Changes in Financial Position

As of March 31, 2001, we had working capital deficit of $5,106,020 as compared to a deficit of $2,080,767 at December 31, 2000. This $3,025,253 decrease reflects a $131,527 decrease in current assets and an increase in current liabilities of $2,893,726. The reason for the decrease was the continued high level of administrative cost as well as lease termination costs and severance accompanying staff reductions and office closings.

Net cash used in operating activities totaled $708,809 during the three months ended March 31, 2001, as compared to net cash used in operating activities of $3,597,479 during the three months ended March 31, 2000. In the Company's efforts to conserve cash it financed many expenditures through the expansion of accounts payable and accrued expense rather than paying currently. In addition, increases in non-cash stock-based compensation and accruals for leasehold abandonment costs and severance costs in 2001 increased the reported loss while not actually using cash during the quarter.

Net cash provided by investing activities during the three month period ended March 31, 2001 totaled $132,509 as compared to using $426,320 during the three month period ended March 31, 2000. Investing activities in the current period consisted of disposition of property and equipment and marketable securities while the prior period consisted of purchases.

Cash flow provided by financing activities during the three month period ended March 31, 2001 totaled $350,000 as compared to $13,270,145 during the same period in 2000. This decrease was due to the Company's fundraising efforts resulting in only minimal debt and equity financing proceeds in 2001.

Factors That May Impact Future Results

We develop complex software for media delivery, content management and storage. We have recently commenced sales of our first commercial product released late last year and have yet to achieve very large commercial deployments. Despite testing, software errors have been found in our product and, in some cases, our product's performance when initially deployed has not met customer expectations. To date, we believe that all of the errors in question have been resolved. However, there can be no assurance that other errors will not occur, as errors such as these are common in the development of any software product. Additional errors in our product could result in, among other things, a delay in recognition or loss of revenues, loss of market share, failure to achieve market acceptance or substantial damage to our reputation. As a young company that recently commenced a new product line, we face risks and uncertainties relating to our ability to implement our business plan successfully.

Our future success depends on the growing use and acceptance of video applications for PCs and set-top boxes, including the growth of video on the Internet. The market for these applications is new, and may not develop to the extent necessary to enable us to expand our business. We have recently invested and expect to continue to invest significant time and resources in the development of new products for this market. If the target markets for our products do not grow, we may not obtain any benefits from these investments.

Our products are technologically complex and are designed to effectively interface with third-party products such as Microsoft's Windows Media Player (WMP) and the QuickTime Player using publicly published application program interfaces (APIs). Modifications to the publicly published APIs for these third-party products could require further development effort on our part to continue to make the interface work properly or, in some cases, could disallow our products interoperability. There is no assurance that these kinds of changes will not occur or that we can develop new products effectively and quickly enough to avoid loss of revenues or market share.

Prospective customers generally must make a significant commitment to test and evaluate our software and to integrate it into their products. As a result, our sales process is often subject to delays associated with lengthy approval processes. For these and other reasons, the initial sales cycles of our new software products has been lengthy, recently averaging approximately four to six months from initiation in late 1999 to completion in 2000. We expect that future sales will also experience lengthy sales cycles.

It has been our experience that our product is often embedded in our customers' web pages. Since the proper development of video enabled web pages takes a high level of sophistication, we may be required to provide professional service support to our customers in this area. There can be no assurance that we will be able to adequately staff for and deliver the level of professional services required, or that we will be able to charge the customer fully for this work. The result could be further impediments to sales and possibly higher than anticipated cost of sales.

Delivery of video using the internet is an emerging business. Many of our customers are new companies that are innovating and counting on Burstware® to provide a technical edge. Because many of these companies are early stage enterprises without revenues, they may delay payment or fail to pay our invoices. For this reason, we have deferred a substantial portion of revenue booked until collectibility has been assured. There is no assurance that this revenue will ultimately be collected and recognized, or that future bookings may also be deferred.

We have increased our focus on the Internet applications for our product. Competitors at times will provide their products at little or no cost to customers in order to establish market share. There is a risk that we may be forced to lower our prices substantially, at least initially, to gain market share. This may negatively impact our own revenue and earnings potential in the near future.

Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures About Market Risk

At March 31, 2001 we had approximately $484,744 invested in Eagle Wireless International, Inc. common stock. The primary objective of our investment activities is to preserve our capital until it is required to fund operations while at the same time achieving a market rate of return without significant risk. However, we are required by agreement to sell the stock in stages until June 1, 2001.
