NAV of $7.68. The net assets of the Fund amounted to $121,718,414 on August 31, 2003.

The TOPIX, consisting of all companies listed on the Tokyo Stock Exchange (the "TSE") First Section, increased by 24.0% and the Nikkei Average Index (a price-weighted index of 225 leading stocks on the TSE) increased by 25.3%, in United States ("U.S.") dollar terms, during the six months ended August 31, 2003. The Nikkei JASDAQ Average Index (the "OTC Index"), a price-weighted index of the quotations of the OTC registered stocks, and the Index of the Japan Securities Dealers Association Quotation System (the "JASDAQ Index"), a capitalization-weighted index of all OTC overweight position in the Electronics and Machinery sectors and effective stock selection in those sectors outweighed the negative effects of poor performance of some consumption-related stocks. The Fund underperformed the JASDAQ Index by 11.9 percentage points during the same period. The underexposure to major internet-related issues with large market capitalization such as Yahoo Japan Corp. and Rakuten Inc., affected the relative performance.

The NAV of the Fund increased by 23.7% for the quarter ended August 31, 2003. During the same period, the TOPIX, the Nikkei Average Index, the OTC Index and the JASDAQ Index each increased by 22.4%, 25.7%, 21.2% and 27.0%, respectively, in U.S. dollar terms. The Yen appreciated by 2.3% during the same period. The Fund outperformed the OTC Index by 2.5 percentage points and underperformed the JASDAQ Index by 3.3 percentage points.

The Portfolio

The Fund's equity exposure decreased from 99.1% at February 28, 2003 to 98.6% at August 31, 2003. The Fund was diversified into 91 issues, of which 57 issues were OTC stocks, 24 were other smaller capitalization stocks and 10 were TSE First Section stocks, comprising 55.1%, 31.2% and 12.3%, respectively, of net assets on August 31, 2003.

Market Review

The OTC Index maintained an upward trend and achieved a substantial gain of 29.0% in local currency terms for the six months ended August 31, 2003.

In early March 2003, the OTC Index plunged partly because of the sharp decline of Yahoo Japan Corp.'s share price following the announcement of the Japanese stocks, including the JASDAQ market, showed signs of a nascent recovery following the announcement of a public fund injection into the ailing banking group Resona Holdings Inc. A turnaround in the U.S. stock market also helped to push Tokyo stock prices higher. Although most Asian markets struggled early in the quarter amid fears about the economic implications of the Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome ("SARS") outbreak, this had little impact on the Japanese market.

The Fund believes that the government rescue program for Resona Holdings Inc., which came after auditors expressed suspicions over the treatment of its deferred tax assets, was the trigger for the stock market turnaround. The program has not only helped to ease much of the anxiety surrounding the Japanese banking system, but has also raised investor confidence by indicating that existing shareholders of major Japanese banks might not be punished in the event of a government bailout. Although the re-capitalization caused some dilution for existing shareholders, the action indicated that this effective nationalization would not wipe out public offering of Yahoo Japan Corp.'s shares by the Softbank Group. However, with the start of U.S. and allied military operations in Iraq around mid-month, the OTC Index rebounded together with the main market.

The Japanese market enjoyed a strong rebound in the quarter ended June 30, 2003.

shareholders' equity. Consequently, the Fund believes that the bailout helped to reassure equity investors over the government's handling of the Japanese banking system, leading to a strong recovery in the Japanese stock market, especially in the shares of the other major financial holding companies.

Supply pressure, particularly for large capitalization or blue chip stocks, appeared to continue in the form of equity disposals by financial institutions and the return of the substitute portion of corporate pension funds that companies manage on behalf of the government. However, a surge in demand from overseas investors offset the selling pressure and later became the chief driving force behind the strong rally in May and June.

Japanese equities, including the JASDAQ markets, extended rally into July. Some of the domestic macroeconomic indicators released in July were positive. Factors related to capital expenditure, such as the Bank of Japan's June Tankan survey and May machinery orders, provided a catalyst for the equity price gains. Improved prospects for technology-related capital investment in the U.S. also helped the market.

The upward momentum of the Japanese stock market continued in August. Some encouraging domestic macroeconomic indicators, a more positive outlook for the U.S. economy, and continued interest from foreign investors helped to push the market higher.

Domestic macroeconomic indicators brought a number of positive surprises. Market gains in mid-August were fueled by a surprisingly strong Gross Domestic Product ("GDP") figure of +0.6% quarter-over-quarter ("q-o-q") for the quarter ended June 30, 2003 and a solid

Meanwhile, positive macroeconomic numbers from the U.S., such as housing starts for July coupled with the Federal Reserve's reaffirmation of its low interest rate policy have helped to lift the U.S. stock markets and have helped to underpin the rally in Japan as well. Earnings revisions from global semiconductor operations, such as Intel Corp., have also helped to promote a more positive outlook for the high-technology industry, which has in turn helped to support Japan's Technology sector.

Outlook and Strategy

The Fund remains cautiously optimistic about the prospects for the Japanese stock market. Due to the strong stock price gains in July and August, valuations of economically sensitive sectors, which include Machinery, Electronics, and Commodities, have become somewhat less attractive. However, it is likely that both macro economic and micro economic data over the coming months will continue to indicate an ongoing recovery in the Japanese and U.S. economies. As long as this trend continues the Fund does not expect to reach a significant inflection point in the market for the time being.

Economic developments remain supportive in both Japan and the U.S., while Asia is also steadily becoming another valuable source of demand.

+2.4% month-over-month ("m-o-m") gain in machinery orders for June. The Japanese government also revised upward its economic growth assessment for this year. Positive industrial production data released at the month-end provided a further late boost to the Japanese stock market.

Japan's GDP figures for the first and second quarters of 2003 were stronger than the consensus estimates, with better than expected results from private consumption and industrial production. Now that capital expenditure is finally starting to bottom out, an eventual recovery should offer some support to the local economy going forward.

Corporate earnings in Japan have been on a growth trend over the past 18 months and the Fund expects another set of promising results when the fiscal first half announcements are made in early October. The absence of turbulence in the interim results is supported by the most recent revision index figures for the Nomura 400 (consists of 400 stocks with market representation out of all the stocks of a Japanese stock market) which suggest that more companies, especially in the Machinery, Commodity, and Electronics sectors will be revising their earnings projections upward over the coming months.

The Fund will continue to maintain a relatively high exposure to the global economy. Industry sectors that are sensitive to the international economy, including Automobiles, Electronics and Commodities, will remain overweighted, although the extent of the overweight position may be adjusted depending on share price movements and valuations.

As the broad market rose substantially and some stocks are now trading at higher valuations, the Fund will focus on those that have lagged behind. The Fund aims to add value through shifting the position from relatively overvalued to relatively undervalued stocks.

We appreciate your continuing support of your Fund.

Sincerely,

/s/ Yasushi Suzuki
Yasushi Suzuki
President

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (Unaudited)

1. Significant Accounting Policies

Japan Smaller Capitalization Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 as a non-diversified, closed-end management investment company. The Fund was incorporated in Maryland on January 25, 1990 and investment operations commenced on March 21, 1990. The Fund issued to its shareholders of record as of the close of business on October 25, 1999 non-transferable Rights to subscribe for up to an aggregate of 3,804,940 shares of Common Stock of the Fund at a rate of one share of Common Stock for three Rights held ("Primary Subscription"). The Fund had the ability to increase the number of shares subscribed for in this offering by up to 25% of the Primary Subscription, or an additional 951,235 shares, to honor record date shareholder requests to purchase more shares. During November 1999, the Fund issued a total of 4,458,565 shares of Common Stock on exercise of such Rights at the subscription price of $11.99 per share, compared to a net asset value per share of $16.20 and a market value per share of $12.6875. Additionally, a sales load of 3.75% was charged to each share issued. Right offering costs of approximately $546,000 and the sales load were charged directly against the proceeds of the Rights Offering. The following is a summary of significant accounting policies followed by the Fund.

(a) Valuation of Securities--Investments traded in the over-the-counter market are valued at the last reported sales price as of the close of business on the day the securities are being valued or, if none is available, at the mean of the bid and offer price at the close of business on such day or, if none is available, the last reported sales price. Portfolio securities which are traded on stock exchanges are valued at the last sales price on the principal market on which securities are traded or lacking any sales, at the last available bid price. Short-term debt securities which was 60 days or less, or by amortizing the 61st day prior to maturity if the rate at the date of purchase exceeded 60 days. Bonds and other assets for which market quotations are not readily available are valued at fair value determined in good faith by or under the direction of the Board of Directors of the Fund.

(b) Foreign Currency Transactions -- Transactions denominated in Japanese yen are recorded on the Fund's records at the current prevailing exchange rate at the time of the transaction. Asset and liability amounts that are denominated in Yen are adjusted to the current exchange rate at the end of the reporting period. Transaction gains or losses resulting from foreign currency transactions are determined at the exchange rate during the reporting period upon settlement of foreign currency transactions and are included in operations for the current period.

The net assets of the Fund are presented at the current exchange rate and market values at the end of the reporting period. The Fund isolates that portion of net assets in unrealized appreciation (depreciation) and includes it in the statement of operations arising as a result of changes in Yen rates at August 31, 2000. Foreign exchange gains and losses, net of foreign exchange gains or losses included in operations, and other assets and liabilities are included in operations. Foreign exchange gains or losses included in operations are net of foreign exchange gains or losses realized between the transaction dates on securities transactions and foreign withholding taxes recorded on the Fund's books, and the U.S. dollar equivalent of the amounts actually received or paid.

(c) Security Transactions, Investment Income and Distributions to Shareholders--Security transactions are accounted for on the trade date. Investment income and distributions are recorded on the dividend date and interest income is recorded on the interest date.

accrual basis. Realized gains and loss of investments are calculated on the i basis.

Distributions from net investment income and net realized gains are determined in accordance with Federal income tax regulations, which may differ from generally accepted accounting principles. To the extent these "book/tax" differences are permanent in nature (i.e., that they result from other than timing of recognition--"temporary"), such accounts are reclassified within the capital accounts based on their Federal tax-basis treatment; temporary differences do not require reclassification. Dividends and distributions which exceed net realized gains for financial reporting purposes, but not for tax purposes, are reported as distributions in excess of net realized gains.

(d) Income Taxes -- A provision for United States income taxes has not been made since it is the intention of the Fund to qualify as a regulated investment company under the Internal Revenue Code and to distribute within the allowable time limit all taxable income to its shareholders.

Under Japanese tax laws, a withholding tax is imposed on dividends at a rate of 15% and on interest at a rate of 10% and such withholding taxes are reflected as a reduction of the related revenue. There is no withholding tax on realized gains.

(e) Capital Account Reclassification -- For the year ended February 28, 2003, the Fund's accumulated net realized loss was increased by $44,279 and paid in capital was decreased by $798,103, with an offsetting decrease in accumulated net investment loss of $842,382. This adjustment was primarily the result of the reclassification of foreign currency gains and reclassification of the net operating loss.

(f) Use of Estimates in Financial Statement Preparation -- The preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts

(g) Concentration of Risk-- A significant portion of the Fund's net assets consists of Japanese securities which involve certain considerations not typically associated with investments in the United States. In addition to the smaller market and greater volatility, there is often substantially less publicly available information about Japanese securities than there is about U.S. issuers. Future economic and political developments in Japan could affect the value of securities in which the Fund is invested. Further, the Fund may be exposed to currency devaluation and other exchange rate fluctuations.

(h) Indemnifications--Under the Fund's governing documents its officers and directors are indemnified against certain liabilities arising from their performance of their duties to the Fund. In the normal course of business, the Fund enters into contracts that contain a variety of indemnification provisions which provide general indemnification for the Fund's maximum exposure under these agreements is unknown as this would involve future events that may be made against the Fund that have not yet occurred. However, based on experience, the Fund expects the risk of loss to be remote.

Under the agreement, the Manager provides all office space, personnel necessary to perform its duties under the management agreement, the Manager has retained its parent company, Nomura Asset Management Co., Ltd.
