The following is a transcript of a video made available on January 14, 2014 on the website that is being maintained at www.enlink.com.

Hello everyone, I'm Barry Davis, CEO of Crosstex Energy, I'm very excited to share some news, not just any news, but a new era of progress in our industry.

Sometimes an opportunity comes along so big that it has the potential to completely change the playing field to redefine the game. An opportunity to fuel innovative customer solutions, drive robust growth, and generate stakeholder value. An opportunity to connect energy to life.

And that's the kind of opportunity that presented itself to us last October when Crosstex and Devon agreed to merge our midstream assets to create a new company—a company of combined power—stronger, more innovative and growing.

And now we have the name and logo to represent this idea, full of energy and connection. I'm proud to introduce EnLink Midstream.

We realize that today's energy market requires a greater suite of services and capabilities with evolving market demands—and we're responding to them with a commitment to create one of the largest, best-positioned midstream companies in the U.S.

Upon closing of the transaction, EnLink Midstream will be a leading integrated midstream company with a diverse geographic footprint and a strong financial foundation delivering tailored customer solutions for sustainable growth.

It's our goal—our promise—to be the strongest link in the midstream chain. Join me in becoming a part of this new beginning.

EnLink Midstream to be Name of New Combined Midstream Business

OKLAHOMA CITY & DALLAS January 14, 2014 Devon Energy Corporation (NYSE: DVN) (Devon) and Crosstex Energy, L.P. (the Partnership) (NASDAQ: XTEX) and Crosstex Energy, Inc. (the Corporation) (NASDAQ: XTXI) (collectively Crosstex) today announced the selection of EnLink Midstream Partners, LP and EnLink Midstream, LLC as the names of their new combined midstream business following the completion of the transaction.

On October 21, 2013, Devon and Crosstex announced the signing of definitive agreements to combine substantially all of Devon's U.S. midstream assets with Crosstex's assets to form a new midstream business. The new business will consist of two publicly traded entities: the master limited partnership, whose name will change upon closing from Crosstex Energy, L.P. to EnLink Midstream Partners, LP, and a publicly traded general partner entity, which will be called EnLink Midstream, LLC. Applications will be filed to list the common units of both EnLink Midstream Partners, LP and EnLink Midstream, LLC on the New York Stock Exchange upon the closing under the symbols ENLK and ENLC, respectively. The new website for EnLink Midstream can be found at www.enlink.com.

We are proud to introduce EnLink Midstream, which will be a leading, integrated midstream company with a diverse geographic footprint and a strong financial foundation, said Barry E. Davis, Chief Executive Officer of Crosstex and incoming CEO of EnLink Midstream. This strategic combination is expected to generate immediate and future value for our equity holders and to provide greater capacity to pay distributions. Our enhanced financial position will support both existing and new growth projects and our employees will benefit from working for a larger, stronger company.

The transaction, which is expected to close in the first quarter of 2014, is subject to approval by the stockholders of the Corporation as well as other customary closing conditions. On December 13, 2013, Crosstex announced the expiration of the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended.

Information About Notice to NASDAQ

Crosstex has submitted written notice to the NASDAQ Global Select Market (NASDAQ) of its intention to voluntarily delist the Corporation's common stock and the Partnership's common units from NASDAQ and to apply for the listing of EnLink Midstream, LLC's common units and the Partnership's common units on the NYSE. The proposed delistings are subject to and conditioned upon the closing of the transaction.

Management of Crosstex determined that the proposed delistings would be in the best interests of the equityholders of the Partnership and the Corporation and the business as a whole. Shortly following the closing of the transaction, the Corporation and the Partnership each intend to file a Form 25 with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the SEC) to effect the proposed delistings from NASDAQ. The official delistings will become effective approximately ten days thereafter.
