Accordingly, the identities of the other designated investors and the number of A Shares to be subscribed by them under the New A Share Issue can only be ascertained when the Company has, pursuant to the rules prescribed by the CSRC, obtained the approvals for the New A Share Issue and completed the book-building process. If, after ascertaining the identities of other designated investors under the New A Share Issue, it is known that such designated investor(s) is/are connected person(s) to the Company under the Hong Kong Listing Rules, the Company shall comply with the relevant requirements of information disclosure and (if required) obtaining of approval from Independent Shareholders as per the Hong Kong Listing Rules.

Accordingly, the Subscription Agreements may or may not be completed and the New Issue may or may not proceed. Potential investors and Shareholders are therefore advised to exercise caution when dealing in the securities of the Company.

The New A Share Issue and the New H Share Issue are inter-conditional upon each other, i.e. they will not be implemented if the approvals by the general meeting, class meetings and the CSRC cannot be obtained or the relevant government authorities have declined to grant their approvals to the matters relating to either the New A Share Issue or the New H Share Issue. Concurrently, the placements of the new A Shares to Huaneng Group and the new H Shares to Hua Neng HK, respectively, are subject to condition that the Company is satisfied with the results of the book-building of the New A Share Issue (including the final subscription price per Share and the number of shares to be issued).

7. PURPOSES AND IMPACT OF THE NEW ISSUE AND RISK FACTORS RELATING TO THE COMPANY

(Figures expressed in this paragraph are under the PRC GAAP)

7.1 Purpose of New Issue

As a listed company whose shares are listed on the stock exchanges in Shanghai, Hong Kong and New York, the Company has since its establishment been dedicating to creating long-term, stable and growing returns for its shareholders and providing society with sufficient, reliable, environment-friendly power. Throughout the years, the Company has been insisting on the strategy of green-field development and acquisition. The Company has a rapid increase in its scale of installation capacity and total assets. By 30 September 2009, the equity-based installed capacity was 40,975MW and the controlled installed capacity 43,782MW. The total assets amounted to RMB188.45 billion and the total liabilities RMB141.25 billion. The contribution of equities to the owners of the parent company were RMB39.78 billion. From January to September 2009, the operation income amounted to RMB56.68 billion and the net profit attributable to the parent company was RMB4.13 billion.

Guided by the Eleventh Five Year Plan for Energy Development and the Mid-Long-term Development Plan for Renewable Energy formulated by the State, HPI has actively adjusted its structure of power supply, increased its efficiencies, and identified up to end of 2010 the realization of the strategic targets of having its power installation capacity to exceed 60 million KW; the controllable capacity in the coal supply at 50 million tons/year; the capability for storage, transportation and transit of coal at ports to exceed 40 million tons/year; the capability of the marine transportation of coal to exceed 30 million tons/year. On aspect relating to rationalization of power supply structure, the Company has actively invested in the construction of clean energy projects. The Company has further expanded coal-fired power generators set with "a larger volume, higher parameters and higher efficiency and environmental friendly", to save the energies and reduce emissions, lower environmental expenses and improve the operational efficiency. The construction and launching of these power projects are in line with the national energy strategy and industry regulations. With the protection of the recently amended Renewable Energy Law and other laws and regulations, the Company will gradually form a diversified power generation asset structure which principally focuses on the coal-fired power and is complemented by new energies for realization of continuous development. On the other hand, the Company has made efforts to implement the strategy of integrated storage and transportation for fuel coal by investing into upstream coal assets, developing rail/port transportation links and building large storage and transportation bases along coastal areas. These projects will provide a strong support to the power generation assets at the economically developed coastal region, and is conducive to lower the operational risks due to the fluctuation in fuel cost and inadequacy in coal transportation, thereby realizing the synergy of the industrial chain.

With the continuing growth of the asset scale, the Company has gradually increased its gearing ratio, reaching 74.96% as at 30 September 2009. For purpose of adjusting its capital structure, lowering the gearing ratio and satisfying more appropriately the requirements of funds for the new construction projects, the Company proposes to offer the New A Share Issue and the New H Share Issue, in order to substantiate its capital strength, further expand the scale of the Company's installation capacity, optimize the power-generating assets structure, enhance the profitability and core competitive strengths, realize sustainable growth and reward the investing public with good performances.

7.2 Impact on the Company

After the fund raised from the New Issue is available, the Company's capital on equity basis will be increased, the cash flow will be re-inforced, the financial situation will be improved significantly, its asset/liability structure will be rationalized, its earning power will further be upgraded and hence its competitive edge as a whole will be strengthened. The impacts of the New Issue on the financial position, profitability, cash flow and liabilities are detailed as follows:

(1) Impact on the financial position

With the completion of the New Issue, the capital on equity basis will be increased, the cash flow will be strengthened rapidly while the gearing ratio will be lowered. Also, as the loans from the financial institutions will be repaid, the gearing ratio will be further lowered. This will help reduce the financial risks.

(2) Impact on profitability

Pursuant to the newly amended Renewable Energy Law, the State will implement a full-amount protective acquisition system in relation to renewable power generation. This will give support and assurance to the profitability of the four wind power projects in which the proceeds of the New Issue will invest. On the other hand, the expansion projects of the four coal-fired power generation plants in which the proceeds of the New Issue will invest will reinforce the competitive edge in term of the scale of the installation capacity in the economically developed areas along the coast, the coal affluent areas or power loading centres. Benefited from the relatively high operation efficiency and the integration of the industrial chain of coal-electricity power, the profitability of the Company is expected to be further increased.

Also, as the projects are being implemented with the funds raised out of the New Issue, the power generation structure of the Company will be further optimized. This will help enhance the profitability of the Company.

(3) Impact on cash flow

After the completion of the New Issue, the cash inflow from the fund-raising activities will be greatly increased. This will have favourable impact on ensuring a smooth commencement of the operation of its projects as well as on-going development of the Company.

(4) Impact on the Company's liabilities

As at 30 September 2009, the gearing ratio of the Company was approximately 74.96%. Assuming the proceeds from the New A Share Issue and the New H Share Issue amounted to RMB10.31 billion (Note 3) and the funds raised will be used to repay the loan of RMB2.1 billion to financial institution as planned, the Company's gearing ratio will be decreased to approximately 70.76%. Therefore, the New Issue can enhance the asset and liabilities structure of the Company, which is conducive to minimise the financial risks of the Company.

Note 3:

Based on issuing 1,200 million A Shares at the minimum subscription price of RMB7.13, and the 400 million H Shares at 5% share premium over the closing price per H Share on the last trading day as quoted on the Stock Exchange immediately prior to the Price Determination Date, i.e. HK$4.97.

7.3 Risk Factors relating to the Company

(1) Business and Operational Risks

(i) Risk due to the fluctuation of macroeconomic environment and decrease of power demand

The performance of power industry is closely related to the macro economy and economic lifecycle. The top-down cycle will directly reduce the power demand from industrial production and domestic use and intensify the competition between power plants. This will have a relatively major impact on the development of the power industry.

Affected by the global and domestic economic environment, the power demand of China decreased in 2008. In 2009, there has been an increase in the power consumption but the pace of which was relatively slow. Coupled with the relatively faster growth rate in the scale of the generation installation capacity across the nation, the supply-demand landscape of the power market has changed. Given that the trend of China's economy is still unstable and is subject to volatility and imbalance, if the growth of the economy slows down or slackens, there exists a risk of a decrease in power demand and a reduction of utilization hours of the power equipments. These may have a negative impact on the operation of the Company.

(ii) Risk from rise in coal price

In 2008, with the substantial increase of the coal price, the profitability across the power industry has weakened significantly by and coal-fired power plants have generally suffered loss. Since the second half of 2009, the power demand accelerated at a faster speed. Due to the limited supply in coal, the supply and demand for coal and power becomes tense and the coal price continues to increase. It is expected that the supply and demand for coal in the future remains tense while the coal price remains to be at high level. As currently the generating units of the Company comprises mainly the coal-fired generating units, therefore the main risk factor encountered by the Company remains to be the uncertainty and the volatility of the upstream coal market.

(2) Financial Risks

The power industry is capital-intensive. The construction of power plants features massive capital investments and a long construction period. Huge amount of capital investment are required for the Company's expansion of its for the Company to expand its operational scale and maintenance and renovation of its equipment. With the continuing expansion of the business structure and investment scale, the Company will therefore have an increasing demand for funds. Hence it will gradually increase the Company's gearing ratio as well as its exposure to financial risks.

(3) Political Risks

(i) Policy Risk

Any change to the State's macroeconomic policies or power industrial policies may impact the operational environment of the Company. As the reform of the power industry is being implemented and intensified, the development and reform of the power industry is being deepened, the government will continue to vary, supplement and perfect the existing policies and regulations governing the power industry. Any change of the applicable policies and regulations may affect the business of the Company and its profitability.

(ii) Environmental Policy Risk

China has continuously intensified its efforts in the environmental governance. With the rising of environmental standards, the Company may have to pay more expenses for the pollutant emission quota and the operation and maintenance of environmental facilities. These will increase the operational expenses of the Company.

(4) Other Risks

(i) Risk of obtaining the approval for the placement

The placement is still pending for satisfactory fulfilment of a number of conditions precedent, including but not limited to the approvals from the general meeting and the Class Meetings with respect to the New A Share Issue and the New H Share Issue, the approval from the State-owned Asset Supervision and Administration Commission with respect to the matters concerning the state-owned assets issue arising out of the New A Share Issue and the New H Share Issue and the approval from the China Securities Regulatory Commission with respect to the New A Share Issue and the New H Share Issue. As at the Latest Practicable Date, the above approvals have not yet been obtained. It is still uncertain whether and when the approvals can be obtained or granted. Therefore, there exists an uncertainty on whether or not the New Issue can ultimately be carried out.

(ii) Risk of project development and benefit

The investment project of the Company may be negatively impacted by some uncontrollable factors, such as delay in completion of the projects, etc. which may not only affect the normal development and construction of the projects concerned, but also impact on the operational performance, financial conditions and development perspective of the Company.

In addition, for the purpose of the New Issue, professional parties have been retained to carry out a detailed feasibility study. According to the feasibility study, all the economic assessments of the project are feasible. However, if there is any deviation in any of factors under consideration in the feasibility study, or the occurrence of any substantial change in the actual investments, it may lead to a material deviation in the analytical result and may have the actual results of the investment projects to deviate from the expected results.

8. USE OF PROCEEDS
